ROADS AND RAIL EMPLOYES CALL RELIEF PARLEY

9 Presidents and 21 Labor Groups.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Heads of twenty-one railway labor organizations and nine railroad presidents are to meet in New York next Thursday to discuss "unemployment relief, a shorter workday for railroad employés, and such other matters as the presidents may suggest."

Among these other matters, it is expected, will be a proposal by the rail chiefs that union labor take a cut in wages the country over.

The announcement of the conference was made here by D. B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association. The association, at a meeting in Washington on Nov. 2, sent an invitation for a discussion of what were termed conflicting interests to the employing railroads.

Appointment of the committee of railroad presidents was made in New York on Friday. Among the members are representatives of the eastern, southern, and western carriers. Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio is chairman of the committee.

Lines Asked to Aid Jobless.

Mr. Robertson, who is president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said that labor's representatives would present to the railroad presidents a program of unemployment relief in which they would be asked to join.

This program has not been worked out in detail yet, Chairman Robertson added, and the labor representatives would meet in New York before they get together with the presidents and decide on what their suggestions would be.

"Right now," he declared, "350,000 out of 1,350,000 organized rail workers are idle. We want to do something about that and also to present a plan for a shorter working day. We will be unable to make public our program until after the New York meeting."

Unemployment Chief Topic.

He declined to discuss today any phase of the question of possible wage reductions.

"Unemployment is the thing most interesting to us," he asserted, "and if the matter of wage cuts comes up it will be through the rail executives' committee."

The time and place of the meeting was set by Mr. Willard's committee.

For some months the reduction of wages for union labor has been agitated by the carriers and by financiers. Three of the largest roads, the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, and the Baltimore, have made deep cuts in salaries recently. So have a number of smaller carriers.

These reductions have not affected the classes of workers coming under the administration of the railway labor law—trainmen, conductors, engineers and shopmen—the law providing that their pay may not be cut without their consent. Disagreements must be arbitrated.

Improved Conditions Also.

At the Washington conference of the labor executives it was pointed out informally by some of the workers' representatives that any suggestions of cuts would have to be accompanied by agreements that would tend to stabilize employment. In other words, railway union labor intends to get improved conditions in return for any reductions it finally decides to take.

The New York Central railroad, which has ordered a 10 per cent cut for all non-union workers receiving $60 or more per month in salaries, has already requested its union employés to take a 10 per cent cut.

Since the interstate commerce commission denied the plea of the rail roads for a blanket 15 per cent increase in freight rates, many presidents have been outspoken in their insistence that readjustments of the wage scale are a vital necessity if their roads are to remain solvent under present conditions of light traffic.

DOG CHASES 25 HORSES TO SAFETY AS STABLE BURNS

Twenty-five horses, trapped by fire in the Lake Street stables, 1370 West Lake street, were chased outside to safety last night by a small dog which nipped at their heels.

When the fire broke out in the hayloft, a watchman opened the doors and stalled the animals all of which were on the first floor. The horses, frightened by the smoke and flames, stamped around in their stalls, refusing to leave, until the dog snapped and barked at them. By the time the animals arrived, most of the animals remaining being driven out by the dog.

A COLD RECEPTION

Flyer and His Lawyer Guest Killed in Crash

A barber who received his license to fly a plane a week ago took a lawyer friend on an afternoon's pleasure flight yesterday which ended in the death of both. The plane went into a spin at an altitude of 1,000 feet and crashed into a cornfield near the intersection of Algonquin and Arlington Heights roads, two miles south of Arlington Heights.

The men killed were Theodore R. Mason, 350 Center street, the pilot, and Attorney Robert G. Lewis, 31 years old, 3323 North Seeley avenue. Lewis was the first assistant city attorney under the last city administration. He was Mason's attorney, and an aviation enthusiast, although he had never piloted a plane.

Rent Plane at West Chicago.

The two men went to the Air Activities airport at West Chicago, where Mason had received part of his training as a pilot, and rented a plane yesterday afternoon from John Jaenicke, manager of the field. They took off at 1:30 o'clock.

They refueled at the Palwaukee airport two hours later. A short time afterward residents of Palatine, about five miles from the scene of the crash, reported that a plane, believed to have been the one flown by Mason, was stunting over that town.

Maj. Lafeton Whitney, special deputy coroner assigned to aviation fatalities, and State Highway Policemen Felix Louis and Edward Krotz, who investigated the crash, were unable to get from residents of the neighborhood any accurate picture of the maneuvers which preceded the fall of the plane.

Hears Crash; Finds Victims.

Adam Guthorn, owner of a filling station at Algonquin and Arlington Heights roads, said his attention was first attracted by the crash as the plane struck the ground about 600 feet from his place. He and his son ran to the scene and, with motorists who had been passing, extricated Mason and Lewis from the wreckage.

Mason had died instantly. Lewis was still living after part of the fuselage of the plane had been cut away to free him, but he died while being taken to the Mount Prospect hospital.

The plane was a Curtiss-Wright Junior monoplane, powered with a 45 horsepower Szekley motor. It was only about two months old, and was licensed, Jaenicke said.

Former Attorney for City.

Attorney Lewis formerly lived in Waukegan. He was graduated from the Kent College of Law in 1921. He had recently opened offices at 33 South Clark street following his service in the city attorney's office. His widow, Helene, and a daughter, Helene, 6 years old, survive him.

Mason, the barber-pilot, was employed in a shop in the State Bank building at 120 South La Salle street. He had about twenty-five hours of solo flying, Jaenicke told Maj. Whitney.

Two men suffered minor injuries in a second plane crash yesterday at Lockport. The plane, piloted by Charles Snyder of Fairmont, broke a piston at an altitude of 500 feet and made a forced landing in the yard of Ralph Swanson in Lockport. Snyder and his passenger, Clarence Johnson of Lockport, were cut and bruised. The plane was badly damaged.

KILLS A FRIEND IN RE-ENACTING BURGLARS' RAID

George Way, 29 years old, a Midlothian milkman, was fatally shot yesterday by his friend, Herman B. Markus, a grocer in the suburb, when Markus reenacted the invasion of his store by burglars during the night.

Markus had been sleeping at his store because of previous burglaries. Prowlers broke in and awakened him, and he hurried to the front of the store with a shotgun, only to discover as they fled that the weapon was not loaded.

Way called at the store with his regular morning delivery of milk for Markus, describing the incident. Markus pointed the shotgun at his friend as he had at the prowlers. The gun was accidentally discharged and Way fell mortally wounded. Markus then recollected, he told police, that he had loaded the weapon after the burglars fled.

Way made a statement at St. Francis' hospital in Blue Island before he died, exonerating Markus. The grocer was held by county highway police for the inquest today. Way's widow and a 6 year old child survive him.

Kin of Hoover May Be Spared Liquor Trial

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 15.—[Special]—The joint trial of C. Van Ness Leavitt, President Hoover's brother-in-law, and Cliff R. Dailey, Santa Monica grocer, on liquor charges, is scheduled in police court here tomorrow. There were some indications tonight that the case might be dropped.

Although neither man's attorney—Mee Fogel for Leavitt, or J. James McCarthy for Dailey—was willing to discuss possibility of the charges being dismissed without trial, members of the Santa Monica police force admitted that detective Thomas Carr, who helped arrest the pair and signed the complaint against them, is out of this city. They were without information when he will return.

If Carr, as signer of the complaint under which Leavitt and Bailey are out on $250 bonds each, accused of liquor possession, does not appear at the trial, Police Judge Charles A. M. Spencer will have no alternative to dismissal of the charges.

Witness Agents Absent.

Two other officers, Federal Prohibition Agents Robert Sheets and Verne Wooltman, assisted Carr in arresting Leavitt and Dailey, but they are not on the record as complainants and have not been in Santa Monica since the arrest were made last Monday.

Police Chief C. E. Webb of Santa Monica was out of town today. In his absence, other officials gave varying explanations of Carr's absence from the city.

One policeman at headquarters said Carr had been "given a little vacation." Another stated Carr had been assigned late last Friday to go to San Francisco and assist police there in a search for Joe Teresi, former Santa Monica bootlegger and liquor runner.

Judge Spencer says the Leavitt-Bailey hearing is "expected to go ahead as scheduled." The desk sergeant at the police station said: "I feel sure Carr will be on hand."

Leavitt Sticks to Story.

Ever since his arrest last Monday Leavitt has insisted he was "left holding the sack," when Dailey pressed a burlap bag containing nineteen pints of liquor into his hands in the rear of Dailey's store, and besought him to "get rid of it for me, because Tommy Carr is out in front."

Leavitt took the sack, he says, and started to walk out of the rear door to Dailey's shop. He was met there by Federal Officer Sheets, who placed him under arrest. The second federal agent, Woolman, accompanied Sheets.

McCarthy, attorney for Dailey, today asserted the latter "will stand on" his original denial of Leavitt's story.

Mr. Fogel, as attorney for Leavitt, declined today to state if he expected the charges to be dropped, or if Leavitt would demand a separate jury trial.

OLD MAN TELLS HOW DRY KILLER OF BOY BEAT HIM

Brutal and Drunken Record Bared.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—A white haired, 72 year old freight agent, today described an encounter with Henry Dierks, prohibition agent, charged with a brutal murder, when both were employed by the Denver and Salt Lake railroad seven years ago. The trial of the agent, who clubbed Milford Smith, 20 years old of Englewood, Colo., to death Sunday for the possession of three ounces of alleged wine, has been removed to the federal court in the face of statewide indignation.

I. W. Trendor, freight agent now stationed at Frasier, Colo., told of being assaulted by Dierks in Kremling, Colo., in 1924. His story followed revelations of others, since the slaying, giving a glimpse behind the scene of federal prohibition administration here.

Dierks was then a relief operator for the railroad and had repeatedly besought Trendor to give up his job so that Dierks might take his place, the 118 pound railroad employé said. Dierks is a burly man of 200 pounds and was fully as powerful at that time, Trendor said.

Beaten for Keeping Job.

"I was picking up some sacks in the station warehouse when Dierks came in," Trendor said. "He watched me a while and suddenly said, 'I've a good notion to hit you.' Then he walked over and started smashing me in the face.

"I swung a lantern I had there at him, but he dodged. Then he picked me up bodily and threw me against a partition so hard he knocked part of the partition down. We scuffled after that, and then he picked me up again, held me over his head, and threw me down on a scales we had there. It's a wonder he didn't break my back or kill me."

Trendor, who was then 65 years old, had Dierks charged with assault. Dierks pleaded guilty to the charge, records of a justice court in Kremling show. The records also reveal Dierks was fined on the charge. Dierks was dismissed immediately after a report of the assault was made to the railroad's headquarters here, Trendor said.

Starts as Dry Informer.

After his discharge Dierks went to Nebraska. He returned to Colorado four years ago and sought employment as a stool pigeon with the prohibition enforcement department. He was sent to Pueblo, Colo., remaining there six weeks in obtaining evidence which resulted in 135 convictions. After he had spent two weeks in gathering other evidence in Boulder, Colo., he became a full fledged federal agent.

Federal Prohibition Administrator John F. Vivian, who has announced his belief Dierks was justified in his actions, admitted he has never made any effort to check Dierks' past record despite numerous protests against him. The administrator proclaimed his support of Dierks without making an effort to investigate any version of the Smith death other than that given by Dierks and another agent, E. E. Ellsworth.

Smith was slugged Sunday evening. He had definitely set Wednesday as the day of his marriage to Miss Victoria Johnson and procured a bottle of wine with which to toast the future. They went into a restaurant. Miss Johnson left for a moment to go to her home and turn off

Lindy to Fly Grandi to Capital Today

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Dino Grandi, foreign minister of Italy, will arrive in Washington by air tomorrow. He will be brought direct from the quarantine station off New York in a plane piloted by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

This announcement, made by the state department tonight, shows that a busy session was had today by the division of international conferences and protocol of the state department. This division has charge of the arrangement of the reception of "all foreign potentates and envoys," as well as the question of what should be worn at various functions and who shall precede whom at state dinners and receptions. Its dictation extends also, unofficially, to private dinners and receptions in Washington.

Seas Delay Grandi's Ship

There was much mystery for some time about the program. It was known that Signor Grandi's ship—the Italian liner Conte Grande—had been delayed by tumultuous seas; and also that the foreign minister's visit in New York had been cancelled because anti-Fascist organizations there had threatened demonstrations.

It was known that Col. Lindbergh was speeding south in his airplane. He had reached Savannah, Ga., on his way to Miami, where he was scheduled to assume his duties as pilot of the American Clipper, a gigantic airplane, on its first trip as passenger and mail carrier across the Caribbean sea to South America.

Then Lindbergh Turns Back.

Suddenly Col. Lindbergh turned back, without explanation; as he usually turns back. He stopped at Bolling field, Washington, departed hastily in a taxi; returned speedily and reëntered his refilled plane silently. The next heard he was at the Long Island Aviation clubs at Hicksville, L.

Reporters and staff correspondents went into tail-spins and outside loops to find out what new thing Mr. Lindbergh was doing. They were relieved when the state department, through its division of international conferences and protocol, issued this statement:

"The vessel on which Signor Grandi and his party are traveling has been delayed by bad weather in the Atlantic. As a result his reception upon arrival is modified.

Room for Party in Plane.

"The American government is very happy to be able to place at the disposal of our guests its foremost pilot and most recent product in the development of transport aviation. It not only fittingly expresses our friendship and good will but allows the fulfillment of Signor Grandi's expressed desire to greet the President the day of his arrival in the United States."

Secretary Stimson has already received a cable from Signor Grandi accepting the invitation to fly to the capital. In a message to the Italian foreign minister, Mr. Stimson said:

"There is ample room for yourself, Signora Grandi and all of the members of your party [aboard the airship]. An early reply from you would be greatly appreciated."

"I regret that you have been encountering such unfavorable weather."

Accept Lindy as Pilot.

Grandi replied by wireless through Ambassador de Martino of Italy. He said:

"I beg your excellency to tender to Mr. Stimson the expression of my heartfelt and profound gratitude for what he has telegraphed me. I am exceedingly happy to accept all that has been arranged, which I consider a quite exceptional honor and satisfaction. My wife will accompany me."

The airplane in which Col. Lindbergh will bring the Italian statesman to Washington is the Carribbean Clipper, sister ship of the American Clipper, and belonging to the same line which will operate to South America "carrying passengers and mail."

After 48 hours he probably will resume his duties as first pilot of the American Clipper, carrying "passengers and mail" from Miami to South America."

CAN'T SAVE FACE AT OUR EXPENSE, TOKIO DECLARES

The Far East Quarrel

On the eve of the meeting in Paris today of the council of the league of nations in a new effort to settle the threatened war between Japan and China in Manchuria, varied and conflicting reports came from the Far East.

The ten day truce reported in Tokio dispatches Sunday morning to have been reached was declared in a later dispatch to have been rejected by the Chinese.

Japanese headquarters at Mukden reported that its army had defeated a Chinese detachment of 4,000 cavalrymen on the Nonni river front yesterday and occupied a village near Tahsin.

Gen. Ma was quoted in Peiping as admitting his troops had suffered severe reverses in a two-day battle with the Japanese army around the Nonni river bridgehead.

Henry Pu-Yi, former boy-emperor of China, apparently was in hiding in Mukden and his expected enthronement as emperor of Manchuria failed to materialize.

TOKIO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Japan's attitude toward the meeting of the league of nations council in Paris tomorrow was summed up by a spokesman for the foreign office tonight in these words:

Coming from a conference with Foreign Minister Shidehara, he emphasized Japan's position in a calm, deliberate voice, more eager to talk of the council's session than of the press dispatches to the effect that Foreign Commissar Litvinoff had warned the Japanese ambassador that another Sino-Japanese clash might endanger the operations of the Chinese Eastern railway.

Scorns Lague's Action.

"First, it was talk designed to save the face of the Kellogg pact," he said, "and now it is efforts being put forth to save the face of the league.

"Frankly, we scarcely expect any resolution or decision adopted by the league will help matters. As we have often stated, we cannot see a settlement reached by that route. China appealed to the league without consulting us and we did not like that move, to say the least.

"The league might recommend direct negotiations between China and Japan. That's about the only thing it can do. We have been insisting on that course from the start."

No Chance for Compromise.

Asked about reports from Washington, Geneva, and Paris that a compromise plan was in the making, he said there were no such suggestions in communications sent abroad by the foreign office.

"Japan has not authorized Ambassador Yoshizawa or Matsudaira to offer any compromise, and there is very little chance of a settlement being reached by these means," he said. "We have presented the league with our conditions.

"Unless China is ready to accept Baron Shidehara's five points the present state of affairs may continue indefinitely, or until the Chinese conceive some means of organization of authority which will give the assurance that our vast interests will not be jeopardized by irresponsible war lords or bands of marauding bandits."

DAWES 'MAN OF HOUR'

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Awakened by the telegraphic reverberations of those cannons booming along the Nonni river in Manchuria this morning, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, jumped the gun for the meetings of the league of nations' council by 24 hours by plunging into negotiations to quench the Manchurian flames of war before they spread too far.

Officially the council's deliberations do not commence until tomorrow at 4 p. m., but the silk hats have been pouring into Paris on every train and Gen. Dawes decided it was best to get the diplomats together at once.

So he organized the council in his suite in the Ritz. The problem which Gen. Dawes haughingly admitted last night to be a poser—the technical modalities of hovering benignly over the council table without sitting down to it—apparently solved itself.

be called that, merely planted himself in a central position in his sitting room, took a good grip on his understung pipe, and sat tight while leading diplomats of the continent followed each other all day long down the red carpeted corridor and rapped like ordinary callers at door No. 41.

Out of the long list of callers the spotlight turned on the representatives of the two belligerent countries —Dr. Alfred Sze of China and Tsuneo Matsudaira of Japan, colleagues in the London diplomatic corps. Both remained closeted with Ambassador Dawes for a long time.

What the net result of these two conferences was none can say, but it is now quite evident that Gen. Dawes laid before the two diplomats details of the American compromise formula—they are already beginning to call it the "second Dawes plan."

Dawes Slashes Red Tape.

This belief became a virtual certainty when the two Orientals were succeeded by that walking arsenal of military statistics, Rene Massigli, French expert on international relations. His appearance on the diplomatic scene is usually taken as a sign that the diplomats have come down to brass tacks. The French expert carried a brief case and like his predecessors remained a long time.

By all indications Gen. Dawes has succeeded in slashing through the weeks of red tape with one swipe, and has worked the Chinese and Japanese delegates around to a point where, diplomatically speaking, they are using the same language, although that does not necessarily mean they are agreed on fundamental principles.

Matsudaira and Sze are believed to have cabled their respective governments for instructions, and it is considered possible that the entire question may be actually settled before the council convenes—that is, if any settlement is possible.

New Fighting Complicates Problem.

Meanwhile new reports of fighting on the Nonni river front further complicate the diplomatic aspects of the situation. Gen. Dawes remained up until almost midnight getting the latest reports but made no comment on the developments.

It is becoming more and more probable that if any solution is reached this week, it will be reached in Gen. Dawes' sitting room in the Ritz rather than in the gilded salons of the Quai d'Orsay. Oddly the league does not seem at all upset about this. After three weeks of hesitation the league is in a position where it must face a showdown. Either it must punish Japan for her flagrant defiance of the resolution calling on the Nipponese to withdraw their troops into the Japanese owned South Manchuria railway zone by Nov. 16—or it must abandon the Chinese to their fate.

May Quit the League.

In the former case it is expected here that Japan will withdraw from the league, and if the council is able to exercise sufficient internal discipline to carry out certain sanctions such as the withdrawal of diplomatic representatives from Tokio, there is grave danger of provoking Japan into a war with the western powers which are acting as the league's gendarmes.

On the other hand if the league is unable to protect one of its members from territorial invasion and aggression by another member, it is admitted even by the secretariat itself that the league will lose its last shred of prestige. That explains the extreme willingness of the league to see Gen. Dawes or any one else, who thinks he can find a way out, step in.

Tomorrow's session will lack none of the solemnity of a full dress show. A brilliant group of diplomatic aces are trooping to Paris to take part.

Three Japanese Envoys.

Vittoria Scialoja of Italy, already has arrived. The Japanese have three ambassadors on hand, Kenkichi Yoshizawa of Paris, Matsudaira of London, and S. Yoshida of Rome. Britain's new foreign secretary, Sir John Simon, arrived tonight for his first heavy assignment. B. W. von Buelow is representing Chancellor Bruening of Germany, Alejandro Lerroux, Spanish foreign minister, will be present, and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and president of the council, will be master of ceremonies.

BLIND BEGGAR IS ARRESTED.

Carl Carlson, 1534 West Grand avenue, a blind beggar, was arrested yesterday and charged with contributing to the delinquency of his daughter, Louise, 11 years old, who led him about the streets.

FATE OF LEAGUE IN BALANCE AS COUNCIL MEETS

Chinese-Japanese Issue Chief Problem.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The council of the league of nations will meet in Paris tomorrow ostensibly to make another effort to stop the war between Japan and China in Manchuria, but in reality to find a means of saving the league and the Kellogg anti-war pact from the scrap heap.

That the fate of the elaborate peace machinery of the world hangs in the balance is admitted under the breath by informed officials in Washington, including members of the foreign diplomatic corps. They do not deny that the situation is extremely serious from the viewpoint not only of the danger of the spread of hostilities in Manchuria but of the future of the league and of the pact of Paris.

Ultimatum Expires Today.

At its meeting on Oct. 24 the league council served upon Japan what amounted to an ultimatum to withdraw its troops in Manchuria within the Japanese controlled railroad zone by Nov. 16. When it meets tomorrow the council will face the failure, in fact the refusal of Japan to comply with this decree and the evidence of a further expansion of the territory held by Japanese troops.

Japan has refused to withdraw its troops until the safety of Japanese nationals in the affected region is assured and until China agrees to other terms, the most important of which is the recognition of Japanese treaty rights in the railroad zone, the disregard of which by the Chinese is declared by the Japanese to be the cause of the trouble.

This puts the next move up to the league which was provided by Woodrow Wilson's covenant with elaborate machinery for coercing a recalcitrant belligerent into passivity. According to the provisions of the covenant it is now up to the league, confronted with the recalcitrancy of Japan, to invoke the withdrawal of the diplomatic representatives of all league member state from Tokio. This action would not be a breach of diplomatic relations though it might soon lead to one.

Boycott, One Provision.

If that move were to fail to bring Japan to time the league, according to the provisions of the covenant would proceed to more forceful measures, first of which would be the invocation of the economic boycott. All league member states would cease to buy of or sell to Japan.

But the league powers have no stomach for these measures for the coercion of Japan because they are pretty well convinced that Japan would not yield, because they fear such coercion would loose a tidal wave of nationalistic feeling in Japan and precipitate the resignation of Japan from the league, and because the failure of such measures would doom the league to extinction as an impotent and impractical invention of peace visionaries.

In fact, there is evidence of misgivings of league partisans that the successful defiance of the league up to date by Japan has already given the institution a body blow.

Leaders Seeking Method.

At any rate it is recognized that the big job now is to save the league if it is not too late. Hence for the last four or five days the best brains in the chancelleries of Europe have been trying to puzzle out some method for letting the league down easy. Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, is now in Paris consulting with the league statesmen and keeping President Hoover and Secretary of State Henry L. Simpson informed of what is going on.

It appears that the members of the league council are not considering the application of sanctions, such as the withdrawal of diplomatic representatives from Tokio. They have descended from the dictatorial plane and are now virtually pleading with Japan and China to make mutual concessions and agree to discuss the points at issue between them, possibly in the presence of umpires appointed by the league. Immediate withdrawal of the Japanese troops from the occupied region is no longer being insisted on. But if negotiations between the belligerents can be initiated by the league under any circumstances its face will be saved, the league strategists believe.

Administration Accused.

The Hoover administration is afflicted with a case of cold feet on the league. At the instance of Mr. Hoover, Secretary Stimson caused Prentiss Gilbert, American consul general, to participate in the league council session last month which initiated the dispatch of notes to Japan and China reminding them of their pledges under the Kellogg pact. This elicited an outburst from the senate irreconcilables, who accused the President of sneaking us into the league by the back door. Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], going so far as to say that resort to the ballot is now in order to checkmate the Hoover policy.

Thereafter Mr. Gilbert did not take part in the council sessions. It was explained that this was because the business pertained, not to the pact to which America is a party, but to the pact enforcing machinery of the league of which America is not a member. But Mr. Stimson had said that America would uphold the hands of the league in its efforts to stop the war in Manchuria and when he failed to indorse the league's ultimatum to Japan of Oct. 24, the leaguists were greatly put out. The explanation given here was that the Hoover administration did not approve of the demand that Japan withdraw its troops.

Opposed to Ultimatums.

Mr. Stimson is not in favor of ultimatums of any sort in this case. He has instead sent several sharp notes to Japan which have been withheld from publication here and in Tokio, Japanese officials explaining that the tone of the representations, if disclosed, would inflame Japanese resentment.

Authoritative explanation of the Stimson policy is that the administration is observing great caution believing that the Japanese civil government is doing all in its power to curb the Japanese military arm in Manchuria and fearing that if the present civil government were humiliated in any way it would fall and be succeeded by the militaristic opposition which is bent on pushing the war in Manchuria.

Japanese Army Drives Back 4,000 Chinese Cavalrymen in Battle as Truce Fails

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A dispatch from Harbin today said Gen. Ma Chan-shan at daybreak launched an attack on the Japanese position at Tahsing and that severe fighting was in progress.

BULLETIN.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Gen. Ma Chan-shan decided today, to reject the Japanese ultimatum calling upon him to transfer his troops north of the Chinese Eastern railway, ending the possibility of a 10 day truce. The Japanese consul at Tsitsihar and Maj. Hayashi, Japanese military representative, who had conducted negotiations for a truce with Gen. Ma, arrived here today.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 15.—The Japanese army on the Nonni river front was reported by its headquarters here to have defeated a Chinese cavalry detachment numbering 4,000 in a considerable engagement today and to have occupied the village of Chienkuangti, about seven miles northeast of Tahsin station.

Japanese infantry, cavalry, artillery, and aircraft were said to have participated in large scale operations, which drove off the Chinese, who were threatening to envelop the Japanese right flank. The size of the Japanese force was not revealed nor the number of casualties.

The Japanese position was held to have been greatly improved and the pressure on their right flank relieved, but the Chinese cavalry retired only a short distance and were planning to resume their enveloping movement farther to the east. Their attention was concentrated on the enemy's right flank because the left was protected by the Nonni river and marshland.

600 Chinese Driven Off.

One Japanese cavalryman was said to have been killed and five wounded in repulsing an attack by Chinese cavalry on an outpost yesterday. About 600 Chinese were driven off, but they withdrew a short distance, it was said, and were awaiting reinforcements before resuming the attempt to turn the Japanese right flank.

Japanese officers admitted that their troops had been involved in a number of skirmishes during the last four days, but denied they had carried on an offensive movement on a large scale.

More than half the Japanese population of Mukden marched and sang in an orderly, impressive demonstration this morning which proclaimed Japan's rights and the determination to remain as the dominating force in south Manchuria. More than 10,000 persons, including infants on their mothers' backs and grandparents and each carrying a Japanese flag, participated in the manifestation.

Sneer at League.

Hundreds of banners and thousands of placards on every house in the Japanese section of the city told of Japan's rôle of peacekeeper in the orient and blamed the league's intervention in the Manchurian conflict.

"We won't forget the hundreds of thousands of lives Japan paid for her place in Manchuria," was a sentiment often expressed.

There was no evidence of anti-American feeling in any of the program. The parade, consisting of motorized sections, hundreds of bicyclists and thousands of marchers, visited the Japanese military headquarters, the consulate general, the Shinto shrine and the monument to the victims of the Russo-Japanese war where placards reminded "lest we forget."

A Japanese military post near here reported that two Europeans, believed to be Britishers, had been seized and held by Chinese bandits in the vicinity of Hsinmintun where they had gone to hunt. Their Chinese guides, wounded, returned with the tale.

China Admits Losing Battle.

PEIPING, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Chinese reverses in a two day battle with the Japanese army in the Nonni river region were admitted today in reports from Gen. Ma Chan-Shan. The number of casualties was not listed. He said that Japanese cavalry and infantry launched a furious three-hour attack upon Chinese cavalry Friday at Tangtze, forcing them to retire.

A thousand Japanese infantry, supported by cavalry, artillery and aircraft, started a fresh offensive at noon yesterday, he said, and drove the Chinese back after five hours of severe fighting.

Gen. Ma said Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in Manchuria, had informed him there was no Japanese alternative but to cross the Chinese Eastern Railway and occupy Tsitsihar.

Chinese Planning Attack.

[Associated Press Staff Correspondent.]

TOKIO, Nov. 15.—Negotiations looking toward a ten day truce between the Chinese and Japanese armies in the Nonni river sector of Manchuria were reported today to have failed and Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, commander of the Chinese forces, was said to be planning a general attack tomorrow at dawn.

The Rengo News agency said in a dispatch from Harbin, that the Japanese representatives, Consul Shimizu and Maj. Hayashi, had been unable to conciliate Gen. Ma and had returned to Harbin, closing the consulate at Tsitsihar.

Chinese sources in Harbin said the Chinese commander would take advantage of a thick fog and launch a strong offensive against Gen. Honjo's troops to illustrate his repudiation of the Japanese warning to evacuate his position by Nov. 25. He was said to consider that his withdrawal would be contrary to Chinese interests.

Consul Shimizu was quoted by Rengo as saying that Gen. Ma had displayed no sincerity regarding the Japanese proposals to withdraw north of the Chinese Eastern railway so as to avert the danger of another clash, and remained obstinate. They decided to leave Tsitsihar because of the difficulty of communicating with Tokio and because of Chinese interference.

Commenting on dispatches from Moscow that Foreign Commissar Litvinoff had reminded the Japanese ambassador of Russia's rights in Manchuria, official circles attributed Gen. Ma's defiance partly to the fact that he allegedly was receiving aid from the soviet republic.

Accuse Russia of Leading Aid.

It was claimed that information assembled from various Japanese sources showed that the Chinese Eastern railway, jointly controlled by China and Russia, had long ceased to be a neutral line because it had been used to rush Chinese troops to Gen. Ma's assistance. Foreign Minister Shidehara was said to have called acting Foreign Commissar Karakhan's attention to this some time ago and the latter denied it.

Consular reports and military intelligence, it was said, had accumulated evidence to show that hundreds and perhaps thousands of Russians and Chinese, trained in Russia by soviet officers, made up a so-called "International Communist army" which had descended on Tsitsihar last week.

Nevertheless, Japan has no intention of pushing her forces north of the railway, it was assured, and plans to withdraw her troops from the Nonni river area as soon as Gen. Ma's intentions are determined. Military reports said the Nonni river bridge repairs had been completed and troop trains were being operated nearly as far as Tahsin.

JAPAN CHARGES CHINESE INCITED 964 OUTBREAKS

TOKIO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The number of military incidents provoked by Chinese soldiers and bandits since the outbreak of hostilities in Manchuria was listed in a Japanese official statement today at 964, exclusive of battles. The number of fatalities was placed at 488.

These incidents were said to comprise attacks on Japanese armored trains, the burning of Chinese and Corean warehouses and farm houses and the ransacking of native villages.

The victims were identified as 305 Chinese citizens, 133 Coreans, 15 Japanese soldiers, three Japanese policemen, four Japanese citizens, 27 Chinese policemen of pro-Japanese sympathies, and one British Indian.

FARMER DEFIANT AFTER $50,000 ARSON OUTRAGE

Independent Dairyman to Continue Business.

Undaunted by the destruction of his herd of 43 Guernsey milch cows in a $50,000 incendiary fire Friday night, Isaac Lantz, independent Will county dairyman, continued delivery of milk to his Aurora customers yesterday. Deputy sheriffs convoyed his trucks to Aurora and armed neighbors stood guard at the farm.

"I've got a distributor's permit in Aurora and the state department of agriculture has found my milk wholesome," said the 61 year old dairyman. "I've complied with the law and I won't let any man drive me off the farm I was born on."

With his own herd destroyed, Lantz procured his day's supply of milk from the dairy of his brother, Carlos. He has been paying them a price above the basic rate of $2.29 a hundred pounds, maintained by the Pure Milk association, a cooperative organization of 18,400 farmers, which holds a monopoly on the market in Chicago and the metropolitan area.

Pledge Thorough Inquiry.

While thousands of farmers and city folk visited the ruins of the Lantz dairy barn on route 54 near Plainfield yesterday, State's Attorney Hjalmar Peim of Joliet and Deputy State Fire Marshal P. E. Bertram of Geneva pledged a thorough investigation of the blaze.

"We're going to find out who was at the bottom of this outrage," declared Bertram. "On the basis of what we have learned, it seems likely that twenty or thirty witnesses will be questioned before we finish."

Among those likely to be questioned, it is said, will be Joseph Lies, president of the Aurora local of the Pure Milk association, and W. C. McQueen, president of the united locals in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin. Carlos Lantz was a member of the Aurora local and Isaac of the Du Page county local until last March, when the brothers quit in protest over what they considered an exorbitant increase in dues. The dues were hoosted from 1 to 2 cents a hundred pounds of milk, and later to 3 cents.

Milk Local Issues Statement.

Taking cognizance of gossip engendered by the Lantz fire, President Lies and directors of the Aurora local held a meeting yesterday, at the conclusion of which they announced that no grounds existed for suspecting that any member of the local was responsible for the fire. Several of the directors said Lantz should be questioned further.

"I don't know who started the fire," said State's Attorney Rehn, "but I doubt that any farmer could have committed such a crime. It looks like the work of hired Chicago racketeers. Lantz had insurance, but it was far less than his loss."

Mr. Lies asserted that the Lantz brothers had purposely invited trouble from the association in the expectation of getting sympathetic publicity and thus be able to work up a patronage which they otherwise could not get in Aurora.

Describes Sales Rules.

As Mr. Lies explained it, members of the association get $2.29 a hundred pounds for milk sold to city retailers and only about $1.35 a hundred for milk sold on the general market. The city demand is not sufficient to enable the farmers to market all their milk in the city. Therefore the autumn milk production of each farmer is taken as the basis of the amount that he can market in the city. During the spring and fall he must sell his surplus, above the average fall production, on the lower general market.

"Carlos Lantz, a member of the Aurora local, wanted the association to permit him to sell all his milk in Aurora," Mr. Lies asserted. "He was piqued, not only over the dues increase, but also because the association refused a request of his which would have deprived some other farmer of his fair share of the market. The Lantz brothers then quit and said they would sell all the milk they could in Aurora, inviting the association to make trouble so they would get sympathetic publicity."

A. M. Krahl, director of public relations for the local, said that both the producers and distributors took umbrage because Lantz, in invading the Aurora field, distributed his first week's milk free and thereafter undersold the established price. Such practices, he said, tended to disrupt the whole industry by habituating the public to a price which organized dealers could not profitably meet.

"For a time," said Krahl, "such dairymen can employ their women folk at bottle washing and their sons as delivery men. But they finally discover that such operations are unprofitable."

As for the dues increase, Mr. Krahl explained that the triple rate was voted to provide funds for an advertising campaign to increase milk consumption and for an educational program to better the quality of the members' milk.

In southern Illinois, where organized dairymen have been fighting the Pevely Dairy company of St. Louis, the struggle has been marked by many acts of violence and bloodshed. Drivers have been shot and slugged and barns and herds burned. Federal Judge Louis FitzHenry issued an injunction against the farm association, the Sanitary Milk Producers, Inc., terming their activities "anarchy." Secret service men are investigating the trouble.

At the instigation of a senate committee, the department of justice launched a general investigation last March of a reputed national monopoly in milk and bread production. Conditions in the Chicago area were described in the senate committee's report as "alarming."

BOY EMPEROR BELIEVED HIDING IN WALLED CITY

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 15.—Henry Pu-yi, who as Hsuan Tung once was China's boy emperor, was believed to be hiding in the Mukden home of one of the numerous Manchu princes tonight, but chances of a rumored monarchist restoration seemed remote.

Inquiries in Japanese and Chinese quarters alike failed to confirm the rumors that he had returned secretly to the capital of his fathers to be enthroned as monarch of the Manchurian realm, independent of Peiping and Nanking.

He might be seeking personal safety, instead of a throne, it was suggested by some sources.

No Place for Pu-yi.

Commenting on the monarchist rumors, Count Yasuya Uchida, president of the South Manchurian railway, said plans of Chinese authorities for reestablishment of peace and order in Manchurian contained no place for the youthful Mr. Pu-yi.

Reports of the former emperor's presence in Mukden were given credence in well informed quarters. It seemed well established that he left Tientsin after the riots a week ago.

A background of mystery and rumor also has been steadily weaving here in recent weeks for a monarchist drama that may never eventuate. The most tangible evidence was the fashioning of yellow dragon flags of the old Manchu dynasty in several tailor shops within the walled city. Some who say they have seen the flags assert that the new banners differ from the old by the inclusion of the red rising sun emblem of Japan in addition to the Manchu dragon.

Prays for Return of Power.

Prince Kung, last regent under the old dynasty, was supposed here to be heading the dynastic plot. He recently appeared before the tombs of the Manchu imperial ancestors north of Mukden and prayed ceremoniously, offering thanks that the intercession of "a friendly neighboring power" had enabled the Manchus to hope for return of their powers.

Prince Kung also was reported to be rallying surviving Manchu princes and Mongolian chieftains formerly loyal to the Manchu house under his standard, which certain Japanese adventurers were said to be supporting. Occidental authorities, however, expressed doubt that either Japanese civilian or military authorities were in any way involved in these plots.

Roslyn, L. I., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, the former Anna Case, gave a concert in the auditorium of the Roslyn High school here tonight for the benefit of the community unemployment relief fund.

The auditorium, which seats several hundred persons, was crowded, and more than $2,000 was realized. Mrs. Mackay appeared to have recovered from the injuries she received Monday when the Mackay automobile was in a collision. She sang with a vigor reminiscent of her days at the Metropolitan opera house.

SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO IN ROW OVER A WOMAN

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Charles Williams, 30, of Evansville was found dead in his automobile here this morning in front of an empty house.

Police arrested Van King, 52, Briceville, who confessed, they said, that he shot Williams in self-defense in a quarrel over a woman. Held with King are Eral Boyd and John Philippe of Bruceville, and Mrs. Stella Selby of Vincennes.

Officers said King told them he, Boyd and Philippe were driving about Vincennes with Mrs. Selby, and that Williams drove his automobile alongside and started talking to her. When Mrs. Selby returned to their machine, according to King's story, Williams attempted to pull her from it, and, when King remonstrated, struck him with a club and opened a gash over his eye.

King then pulled a gun and shot Williams, he told officers, but Williams, apparently unhurt, walked to his machine and drove away. He had been dead about six hours when found.

FEDERAL AGENTS ACT TO DEPORT NINE ALIEN REDS

Nine alien communists, arrested on Saturday in a raid on headquarters of the group at 1413 West 18th street, were questioned yesterday by federal agents with a view to deportation.

The raid was made by the police industrial squad, led by Lieut. Make Mills and Sheriff George Robinson of Franklin county. B. K. Gebert, district organizer for the communist party in the eighth federal district, and Clara Saffrin, women's organizer, were taken to West Frankfort by the sheriff. They are under indictment there, charged with inciting trouble among miners during a coal mine strike at Benton.

The arrest of Gebert caused other occupants of the headquarters to jeer the police. Eighteen of them were arrested, and the nine born outside the United States were turned over to immigration authorities.

KILLED IN POLITICAL DISPUTE.

A quarrel over politics cost the life yesterday of Albert Capria, 26 years old, of 1732 North Halsted street. He was found dying at Milwaukee and Grand avenue. Ralph Rose, 27 years old, 1423 North Avers avenue, confessed, the police said, that he had struck Capria on the head with a jack handle.

SUNNY FLORIDA WILL BE CHILLY TO JOB HUNTERS

Folks with Money in Any Amount Welcome.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

West Palm Beach, Fla., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—This is a commonplace Florida town with real estate offices, filling stations, groceries, and other institutions of vulgar commercialism. Palm Beach, with its expensive hotels and its winter homes of millionaires, is on an island across a causeway from West Palm Beach.

West Palm Beach hasn't received its fair share of promotional publicity. Society reporters use the Palm Beach date lines on their stories, although they return to West Palm Beach for the telegraph offices and to write their reports, and folks who spend the winter in West Palm Beach have a habit of dropping the "west" from the name of the town in conversation with friends back north.

Favored by Tourists.

So this story begins by giving a break to a heretofore neglected mainland municipality. The winter tourists, who are beginning to arrive are likewise showing a new friendliness toward the mainland. The night air is so damp on the island. Besides it's convenient to stop in a West Palm Beach tourist cabin for $2 a day and to spend the afternoons and evenings in sport clothes parading in Palm Beach proper.

The first visitors of the 1931-1932 season are indicating plainly that they want to get full value for the money they spend in Florida. Some of the local residents do not take kindly to this spirit. Here in the south a tourist is a guest of the community, and he should not look his gift host in the mouth.

J. C. Huskiason, secretary to the governor, in an interview at Tallahassee, the capital, said that Florida was trying to discourage the camping tourist from conserving his funds so closely in seeing the state.

No Relief for Outsiders.

"And as for those who are not able to sustain themselves without employment in the state," he continued, "we regret very much to say that they are not welcome. Our relief agencies at a statewide meeting decided that available jobs must be conserved for the deserving permanent residents of Florida."

At Orlando, Paul O. Meredith, executive secretary of the Florida realtors, emphasized that big hearted Florida doesn't measure its welcome to visitors by the size of their bank rolls. As a matter of fact, a large number of small bank rolls would be just as welcome, since tourists are wearing deep pockets this year.

"For the fellow without a job or business to keep him in the north," said Mr. Meredith, "Florida offers an opportunity to conserve his savings through the winter. Rentals and food prices are at the lowest in decades. A garage apartment, as we call them, a small building housing a family and an automobile, can be rented in any of a hundred little towns for $15 a month. Without an allowance for entertaining or for touring, a couple could get by on $65 a month. For $100 a month a couple could live among the affluent of some of the smaller places.

"East Coast Railroad."

"What measures will be taken against the tourist who goes broke in Florida this winter?" he was asked.

"Did you ever hear of the East Coast Railroad?" he replied. "There's talk of reviving it this winter."

He referred to an "underground railroad" system of deporting destitutes northward which authorities do not admit ever existed. According to reliable reports, counties coöperated in a truck shuttle line, carrying the broke and hungry north from the resorts in the southeast section of the state.

"There won't be enough funds for charity toward any visitors this winter," said Mr. Meredith. "And there won't be any jobs for them. So we might as well be frank, for the good of all, and broadcast that those without funds to support themselves should stay away from Florida this winter."

BARE SILK DRESS SMUGGLING BY BRITISH WOMEN

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—American visitors to Great Britain are learning that the customs inspections here have been tightened, especially on continental routes. Officials are making big hauls from women, who, imagining England is a free trade country, attempt to bring in extensive wardrobes.

Surprise raids on fashionable London dressmaking establishments, it was revealed today, have resulted in the discovery that a number of English women of social standing have been engaged in illicit traffic. They have brought silk dresses through the customs as part of their private wardrobes, whereas actually they have smuggled the clothes for dressmakers.

The duty on silk dresses for personal wear amounts from $2 to $3, according to weight, but if imported for sale the duty is from $50 to $125, according to value. Some of these women, rather than face prosecution, it is said, have paid duties of thousands of pounds more than they were actually liable for.

WELLESLEY GIRL MISSING; FATHER LONDON BANKER

Professor Asks Police to Search for Her.

Wellesley, Mass., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The police here tonight were requested by Hamilton C. MacDougall, professor emeritus of music at Wellesley college, to broadcast an alarm for Rosemary Palmer Gilding, 17 year old daughter of a London banker, who yesterday disappeared from the MacDougall home near the college and has not been seen since.

Girl Appears Happy.

Miss Gilding, daughter of H. G. Gilding, had been visiting Prof. and Mrs. MacDougall for four months. Prof. MacDougall could give no explanation for her disappearance and said she had appeared happy and contented with her life here. He saw her, he said, yesterday at 3 p. m. When he returned to his home two hours later she had gone. Miss Gilding had taken only a small traveling bag and was known to have been carrying but little money. She left no note or explanation before leaving. At first inclined to believe that she might have gone to visit some of her few friends here, Prof. MacDougall did not at once notify the police, but was compelled to do so tonight when his private search had proved unsuccessful.

As former director of the college music department Prof. MacDougall has been manager of the annual college concert and had been aided this year by Miss Gilding, he said. He told the police he knew of no reason why she should leave his home and doubted that any of the girl's men acquaintance or the girl's men acquaintances were responsible for her disappearance.

Few Friends in America.

Miss Gilding was described as an athletic girl and an excellent swimmer. When last seen she was wearing a three-piece jersey suit, a brown suede hat and shoes. She was 5 feet 9 inches in height and weighed about 150 pounds.

Other than the MacDougalls, her parents have no friends in this country. Under her six months' passport she had planned to stay with the MacDougalls for another six weeks.

Retired Business Man Ends Life with Gun in Loop Hotel

A maid entering the room of John McIntyre, 65 years old, in the Morrison hotel, last night found him dead in bed, a bullet wound in his right temple, and a gun beside him. McIntyre lived at 7940 Ellis avenue, and was a retired business man. According to his daughter he had been despondent over ill health. Hotel records showed that McIntyre registered last Friday under his own name. When he was found he had been dead perhaps ten hours, police said.

REDMONDITES TO BACK COSGRAVE IN FREE STATE

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—A landmark in Irish politics was reached today when President Cosgrave and Capt. William Redmond, son of the late Nationalist party leader, appeared for the first time on the same platform in the old Redmondite stronghold of Waterford.

It is seen as the first step toward a political alliance at a critical period in the history of the Free State. Redmond sat in the dail as an independent. In all recent crucial divisions he voted with the government, although the rank and file of the Redmondites held aloof.

Today Cosgrave made another appeal to Irish people now pursuing anti-state activities to abandon their illegal associations.

Pick Pocket of Attorney as He Walks in Movie

V. H. Stone, 923 Eastwood avenue, attorney, lecturer and author, and his wife, Mrs. Leonore Harnsberger Stone, national president of the American War Mothers, walked down an aisle of Pantheon theater at 4644 Sheridan road last night. Someone jostled against Mr. Stone during the short walk. A few minutes later Mr. Stone reached into his hip apocket. His wallet containing $25, and $620 in unsigned cashier's checks, was gone.

FATHER OF SEVEN LOSES HIS YEARS' SAVINGS IN FRAUD

The $3,000 that Martin Petras, father of seven children, had saved during many years of work as a laborer, is gone. Gone with it are two benevolent strangers.

Petras, who is 55 years old, unemployed, and lives at 1917 South Jefferson street, met the strangers two weeks ago. They had heard he wished to buy a farm. Their talk switched from farms to philanthropy. They expected, they said, to inherit some money to distribute among the poor.

They liked Petras' looks, they told him, and would be pleased if he would aid in the distribution. All they required was proof of his reputability. As proof, Petras withdrew his $3,000 savings from a bank. The strangers induced Petras to put the money in a small satchel. Later, when he opened the satchel, he found newspapers instead of his money. Meantime, the newly found friends had walked off.

75 U. S. Officials Visit Canada; Hunt Sales Tax Data

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 15.—About 75 United States senators, representatives and other officials, the largest delegation of its kind ever to visit Canada, arrived here in a special train from Washington today. They will visit Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec to obtain first hand information concerning the operation of sales tax legislation in the dominion.

GRANDI TO PAINT OTHER SIDE OF LAVAL'S PICTURE

His Topic at Washington Will Be Disarmament.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 15.—Ten days of disarmament talk, entailing dissertations about who threw what, when, and why, may be expected on the air from Washington with the arrival tomorrow of Dino Grandi, 36 year old Fascist foreign minister.

Grandi's visit will reopen the conversations begun in Rome last July between Secretary of State Stimson and Premier Mussolini and it is expected to transfer to Washington for the time being the scene of the Franco-Italian wrangling, for Grandi is out to refute the French claims on disarmament and security.

His visit coming on top of Premier Laval's is expected to emphasize the intimacy between the two Latin sisters, and because his trip to Washington followed a visit to Berlin some reflection of the Italo-German accord reached last August when Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius came to Rome to see Il Duce may also be expected.

Other Side of the Picture.

Washington will get the other side of the picture originally presented by Laval. Reports here make it practically certain that the main item on Grandi's agenda will be to counter the French disarmament theory, and to endeavor to show that security is compatible with scrapping battleships and armies.

The Italian minister will arrive in the United States with the echoes of Mussolini's speech at Naples still ringing. His address coincided closely in point of time and content with what Senator Borah told the Washington newspapermen about debts and reparations and revising the Versailles treaty.

The invitation to Grandi to visit Washington caused great satisfaction in Rome, and much is expected from it. It satisfies a Fascist desire for international prestige, but beyond that it is expected here to strengthen ties and relationships between the two countries which it is this government's avowed policy to promote. These links are not few. On many of the problems now confronting Europe Fascist Italy is in complete accord with the United States. So close, in fact, is the harmony on disarmament that it was openly bruited in the chancelleries of Europe that Rome was Washington's mouthpiece at Geneva last September when Grandi proposed the one year's naval building holiday.

The Ties That Bind.

There are many other ties. The United States has about $400,000,000 invested in Italy. There are also about 5,000,000 Italians living in the United States.

In relations with the rest of Europe the Mussolini policy is elastic. It is based on the belief that Italy is due for a rise and that other nations got their hands deeper into the grab bag of war spoils than did Italy. In one way Italy would like to be a sort of mediator between France and Germany. And so the Italian policy veers. When France appears conciliating about Italian naval claims, Paris condemns the "anchluss" with Austria and when Paris belittles Italian claims, the Roman press demands the revision of the Versailles treaty.

Italy is in direct contrast with France. The differences with France have been focussed on naval rivalry, but they actually include many other things. The Italians consider France an obstacle in their path to expansion and they fear a French hegemony, military or commercial, in Europe.

Toward Germany, Italy often makes gestures of friendship and sympathy and the two countries are identical in their opposition to French policy in many ways. They want mandates redistributed and they stood together at Geneva in getting Russia and Turkey into the league of nations' discussions. Italy is also a friend of England's.

Agree on Disarmament.

This, briefly is the background of the Italian foreign minister's thoughts when he begins his talks in Washington. The scope of these talks is not expected to go beyond next February's disarmament conference.

On disarmament, the understanding between Italy and the United States is more or less complete. The foundations for it were laid here between Mr. Stimson and Mussolini. Mussolini told Secretary Stimson that Italy had chosen the road to peace when it seemed that a European war was looming. An Italian commission of experts presided over by Grandi had been working on a disarmament plan preparatory to the Geneva meeting and in September following Mr. Stimson's visit, Grandi proposed the naval holiday.

Will Reduce, If Others Do.

Premier Mussolini told Mr. Stimson last summer that he was ready to reduce his armament to 1,500 rifles provided that no one else had any more.

"I don't desire to take a club to fight a man with a gun," he said.

Grandi will enlarge on this thought at Washington and will argue that armaments instead of providing security, as the French contend, are in reality a menace to security and the peace of Europe.

Statisticians battle heatedly as to the relative armaments between France and Italy. There is a tendency here to reduce the regular army.

According to semi-official sources, the personnel of the cabinet was arrived at after Vice President Montero had promised to withdraw the government bill limiting public liberties.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN TAKES PLAY AWAY FROM LADY ASTOR

PLYMOUTH, England, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Lady Astor introduced Charlie Chaplin to her constituents today and played second fiddle for once in her own bailiwick.

The occasion was the annual Thanksgiving service held for the fisherfolk. Ten thousand persons jammed the quayside. Chaplin stood on a lorry with Lady Astor and the bishop of Plymouth and, taking the megaphone, told the crowd he sympathized with the fishermen in their arduous work.

"Still we all have our tribulations," he said. "Even millionaires have their tribulations and we must just put up with them."

The crowd liked his speech so well they almost mobbed him.

Stolen, One Skull; Police Asked to Hunt for It

Police last night were asked to find a stolen skull. The skull was taken either Saturday night or yesterday morning from the dental offices of Dr. Stanley Clark, 7551 South Shore drive, at 180 North Michigan avenue. The rest of the loot included several surgical instruments, two oriental rugs, one revolver, some narcotics, and 10 pints of whisky, total value being $370.

JUDGE RIPS INTO CRIME CRITICS AS DODGING ISSUES

David Assails Both Police and Prosecution.

Crime, its causes and cure, was discussed in a symposium at the Covenant club last night by the law enforcer, the prosecutor, the attorney for the defense and the judge. Commissioner of Police Allman attacked the problem as a warrior, State's Attorney Swanson traced its history, Public Defender Bachrach discoursed on it philosophically and the judge got down to brass tacks, sparing none in his analysis. The judge was Joseph B. David of the Superior court.

JUDGE DAVID.

The judge squirmed in his chair as the other speakers discussed the problem with the moderation of college professors. Each carefully skirted passing undue blame on lax functions of the others. The judge arose and plunged into a vigorous denunciation of the shortcomings of the police, defense, judiciary and prosecution.

Judge Assails Prohibition.

Judge David took exception to remarks of each speaker. He contested the commissioner's statement that a great share of crime is due to a criminal class. He shouted down a statement of the public defender holding prohibition to be an appendage of crime rather than a cause. In confuting this statement the judge railed against prohibition agents as snoopers and murderers and the 18th amendment as a shame on the nation.

The judge answered State's Attorney Swanson by holding him to be the victim of an unfortunate system through which he owes allegiance to a party. The judge did not spare the judiciary, holding many incompetent to sit in the Criminal court and to be ignorant of criminal law. To State Representative Michael Igoe, a member of the audience, he scored the legislature for interfering with justice paroles and probation laws.

Allman Tells Crime Causes.

Commissioner Allman saw the causes of crime in poverty, avarice, greed, environment and heredity. The causes, he said, make little difference to the police though they may be a source of speculation for students.

"To cope with crime it is the duty of policemen to sell themselves in their community and beat," Commissioner Allman said. "They should not add to the general disregard for law and order. They cannot make arrests and break the law themselves. The department should have the loyalty of every member and the coöperation of every citizen. It is my obligation to instill that loyalty and see the men do their duty. This obligation I will fulfill."

State's Attorney Swanson cited the record of his administration as an advance over previous administrations. He amplified on the causes as traced by the commissioner, adding that the safeguards of habeas corpus, change of venue and writs of supersedeas were added in days when laws were harsh and severe only to be held in the present day to encourage and aid criminals against prosecution.

The prosecutor pointed to political influence as working to encourage crime in aiding criminals to escape. He advocated swiftness and certainty of punishment as a crime deterrent.

Public Defender Bachrach also cited his record. In his 13 months in office he has appeared for 2,166 defendants. In contested cases his staff won 34 per cent of the legal tilts. In 97 jury trials 57 guilty verdicts were returned and in court trials 502 verdicts were set against 254 acquittals.

A New Coterie of Crime.

"It is the experience of every judge in the criminal court," said Judge David, "that increase in crimes of violence is due to prohibition. No great lawyer and no great thinker is in favor of such a law. It has created a new coterie of crime, the racketeer and crooked politician, and it has even reached into the prosecutor's office.

"It has let loose on the country a horde of blackmailers under the guise of prohibition agents, ready to commit murder for the sake of convicting somebody with three ounces of wine. It allows a man with a badge to go out and club a youth to death. As soon as the state steps in to seize this murderer what happens? He is removed to a federal court where the United States attorney, our prosecutor, defends him and the judge often so directs the jury that the agent is acquitted.

"These crooks, these murderers, these stool pigeons are freed because they're enforcing what the people of the country do not want."

"Now we come to the prosecutor," the judge continued. "I am not interested in statistics. I have seen prosecutors for 40 years and every one of them has used the office to get higher posts. I don't blame Judge Swanson."

Judge David recalled the prosecutor's regret that political influence frees criminals. He said the prosecutor himself owed allegiance to a party or he would not have been elected. He suggested a system under which the judges would select a state's attorney without political obligations.

"And now we come to the judges," Judge David continued. "They too have political allegiance, or they would never reach the bench. I say a judge should be sent to the Criminal court for a ten or twelve year period and then subject to a recall election. If he is found fit he should go back for life."

Hoodlums Steal a Bus, Wreck It in Joy Ride

A gang of young hoodlums stole a double decker bus from the curb in front of the Chicago Motor Coach company garage at Rosemont avenue and Broadway early this morning, and after a three block joy ride wrecked it against the elevated lines' structure in Granville avenue because they could not drive underneath. The police, summoned by motorists who reported narrow escapes from accidents as the bus careened down Broadway, seized three suspects near the scene of the crash. All were intoxicated.

AGED MAN TELLS HOW DRY SLAYER OF BOY BEAT HIM

Shoves Girl Aside

Miss Johnson asked Dierks to call a doctor. He pushed her aside and took Smith out of the restaurant. Smith died a few hours later. Englewood police after an investigation said they had established the fact Dierks did not tell Smith he was an agent when he jerked Smith from a counter stool. Smith weighed but 137 pounds.

Dierks was scheduled to appear Saturday in the Arapahoe county court on a complaint issued by Prosecutor Joel E. Stone. At a preliminary hearing Tuesday he had been harassed and threatened. He did not appear Saturday morning.

In the place of the agent United States District Attorney Ralph Carr appeared to present a writ issued by Federal Judge J. Foster Symes ordering the transfer of the case to the federal court. Every resource of the federal legal staff is enlisted for the defense of the agent.

State May Fight Transfer.

State authorities do not plan to give up jurisdiction in the case without a struggle. It is possible the state Supreme court may be asked for a writ of prohibition restraining the federal court from interfering with state judicial process on the basis of the Colorado constitution, which provides that the people of this state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign, and independent state.

The city council of Englewood has forwarded a resolution, labeling the attack on Smith as an act "like that of the Cossacks of Russia" to Administrator Amos W. Woodcock, President Hoover, and Colorado's senators and representatives. Dispatches from Omaha quoting Administrator Woodcock as saying he did not believe Dierks should be prosecuted for the slaying aroused widespread indignation.

The indignation has been swelled by affidavits from various persons describing highhanded tactics by prohibition agents and revealing drunkenness on the part of agents. Previous stains on Dierks' records, charging him with brutality and employing a 17 year old girl as an informer, have been brought out.

Another Agent Under Fire.

Another agent in Prohibition Agent Vivian's division was under fire in a $15,000 damage suit brought in Denver by James Feuerstein. Feuerstein charges Prohibition Agent Stephen A. Bonney fired three shots at him and Miss Dolores McNichols, daughter of the Denver city auditor, while they were riding in an automobile last May. The complaint declares the shoting to have been wanton, careless and negligent.

Another accusation has been made against Bonney in connection wtih the Smith death. A. J. Green, uncle of the slain youth, has sworn an affidavit charging that Bonney tried to force him to sign a false affidavit regarding Smith's death, which was drawn to clear Dierks of guilt.

Carouse About Village.

Watkins, Colo., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Prohibition and the actions of the government agents entrusted with its enforcement were the main topics of conversation today in this prairie village where for the last several months Federal Prohibition Agent Henry Dierks and fellow agents have, according to the sworn testimony of twenty residents, caroused almost at will.

Dierks has been charged with the murder of a defenseless 20 year old Englewood, Colo., youth he clubbed with the butt of his pistol in an attempt to gain possession of three ounces of wine. In addition, complaints of his brutality have come from many Colorado cities.

Watkins isn't much of a town, just a hotel, restaurant, garage, store, and few residences. Perhaps that is why Agent Dierks selected it for his activities.

Appearing there for the first time last April, Dierks and a fellow agent were wearing uniforms of the United States army, according to sworn testimony given before Felix O'Neill, Denver attorney.

"One of them, this fellow Dierks," said Lowell Williams, 22 year old farm hand, "had a quart bottle of whisky. 'Have a drink?' he asked me. We, that's Dierks and his partner and me, got awful drunk."

Later, Williams said, they went to the restaurant, where, according to Miss Vivian Reynolds' testimony, Dierks was so drunk he couldn't sit up at a table.

"Dierks was the drunkest," she said. "He couldn't sit up. His head flopped down on the counter. Then he got sick at his stomach and threw up all over the place. Then we took him outside and he threw up in the street and all over his automobile. He was very, very drunk."

Helps Youth Make Whisky.

It was after this, Williams said, that Dierks convinced him he should make whisky, with Dierks furnishing the materials for the still and explaining how to make the mash.

Later, Williams said in his sworn statement, Dierks gave him money to buy whisky, which he buried on his father's farm.

"Dierks and his pal came along one day and said they had a sale for seven gallons," Williams testified. "Dierks had two pints on him. He was drunk as a fool. We drove out to pa's place and stopped.

"Then pa came in from plowing. In the meantime I had dug up seven gallons, which I placed in Dierks' automobile.

"Dierks arrested pa. I don't think he meant to do it, but he was so drunk he didn't know what he was doing. He started for a phone at the next farm and drove through a fence, ripping down about a hundred yards of it.

"When he got to the farm he was too drunk to phone and Clint Seeley gave him a pot of black coffee. After that he told me and pa that he would fix things up for us if we would say we had paid bribe money to Sheriff John Haynes and Deputy Sheriff James Coal [Arapahoe county officers] for protection."

In substance the twenty Watkins residents charge that two government agents, sworn to enforce liquor laws, came to Watkins last spring and either brought with them or bought 25 gallons of whisky. They drank this liquor themselves and gave it to others. They staggered about the town drunk, and persuaded a farm boy to turn bootlegger. Two and a half months later, at the end of a drunken debauch, they arrested the boy and his father, the latter entirely ignorant of the entire affair.

This, then, is the story of Agent Henry Dierks' "prohibition enforcement" in Watkins.

AUTHOR'S WIFE KILLS HERSELF WITH HIS GUN

Norwalk, Conn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The .45 caliber automatic pistol which Frederick R. Buckley, author of Western Stories, carried as a part of the "wild west" attire which he affected, was used early this morning by his wife to commit suicide as she sat in an automobile in front of their home here.

The dead woman, an actress known on the stage as Helen Curry, her maiden name, died instantly when she fired one bullet through her right temple. She was 35 years old. Mr. Buckley, who was with his wife at the time, could give no reason why she should kill herself.

After an investigation by Dr. William H. McMahon, medical examiner, the body was released for burial. Dr. McMahon declared the death a suicide and said he would not order an autopsy performed.

MAKE YOUR FINAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION INVESTMENT

¶ Whether you own just your home or a block of apartment homes—you can not afford to be burdened with any electric refrigerator that means trouble and expense—or any electric refrigerator that will have to be replaced in a year or two... If you have any doubt as to the long life of a General Electric, try to buy one second hand—try to find anyone who has had any service expense.

¶ No greater confidence has any manufacturer ever placed in its product than did General Electric in hermetically sealing all the mechanism of its refrigerator in the Monitor Top. No air, dirt or moisture can possibly get into the mechanism to interfere with its operation. You don't ever have to worry about oiling it. The mechanism is immersed in a lifetime supply of oil—and the General Electric oil-conditioner always keeps the oil at a running temperature. The General Electric cabinet is the only cabinet that is entirely steel. No wood to get moisture-soaked, sag, warp or decay.

¶ General Electric's guarantee gives positive assurance of long years of satisfactory service. Most guarantees cover replacements of defective parts. General Electric unconditionally guarantees you against any service expense of any kind on any model for three years.

¶ Whether you be landlord or tenant—whether you own dwelling places or operate them—you will find General Electric the most economical of all electric refrigerators in operation and in upkeep... Over 54,000 apartments in Chicago hotel and apartment buildings—rentals ranging from $32.50 to $2000 a month—equipped with General Electric... Make your final electric refrigeration investment now. Equip with the electric refrigerator that will save you the most money. Don't procrastinate. Waiting means wasting. G. O. P. IS ADVISED TO URGE POPULAR VOTE ON DRY LAW

Wadsworth Calls on Fess to Back Plan.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Former Senator James W. Wadsworth [Rep., N. Y.] made public tonight a letter he had addressed to Senator Simeon D. Fess [Ohio], chairman of the Republican national committee, urging that the Republican party indorse the submission of a repeal of the 18th amendment as a means of taking the national referendum on prohibition.

Mr. Wadsworth suggested that Senator Fess lay the proposal before the Republican national committee next month for submission to the party convention next year. Senator Fess, who hopes to see the Republican party advocate the retention of the 18th amendment, declined to give out his reply to Mr. Wadsworth, but it is known to have been a refusal.

Question Won't Down.

Prohibition will not down and has become a political issue, Mr. Wadsworth said in his letter.

"Inasmuch as the congress," he went on, "has no power under the constitution to call for and carry through a nation-wide mass vote on this question, I cannot refrain from urging upon you the advisability from the standpoint not only of the Republican party but also of the wise and patriotic policy of taking advantage of that provision of the federal constitution found in article V. [the amendatory article] which is designed to give to the people of the states an opportunity to pass upon constitutional provisions. Such a step would be effective in disclosing the sentiments of the people, and would be decisive in the question at issue.

"All that is necessary is for the congress to submit to conventions of the people in the states an amendment to the federal constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment. If this is done a convention will then be called in each state and the people therein will have a free opportunity in electing their delegates to vote yes or no on repeal.

Party's Demoralized.

"I urge most earnestly that the Republican party unite in affording the people of the states this opportunity. I call your attention to the fact that the people have never had such an opportunity in connection with this question, for the ratification of the prohibition amendment was achieved through the action of state legislatures, and not as a result of a popular vote on the question in any state.

"We cannot hope for any cessation of the turmoil and demoralization which plague our political parties and our government from top to bottom until the people exercise this right.

"And may I point out to your practical mind that were the Republican national convention to urge upon Republican members of congress the submission of this matter to the people of the states, thus evidencing its desire to consult the people and accept their verdict, grave embarrassments to Republican candidates in the next presidential election would be avoided — especially in those great, populous states whose electoral vote is decisive."

CHICAGO AIRPORT DEDICATED; GETS FIRST LICENSE

Mayor Praises $774,000 in Improvements.

Chicago airport was dedicated and issued the first state airport license at ceremonies held yesterday at 3 p. m. in front of the new $100,000 passenger terminal building at 63d street and Cicero avenue.

About 500 persons gathered at the speakers' stand to hear Mayor Cermak, other city officials, and aviation leaders in Chicago describe the newly completed improvements, which cost about $774,000. Maj. Reed G. Landis, chairman of the state aeronautics commission, presented the mayor with the airport license.

Wright and Donnel Appear.

M. C. Meigs, chairman of the Chicago aero commission, introduced Walter Wright, superintendent of parks and aviation, under whose direction the airport has been built. C. A. Donnel, in charge of the weather bureau, also spoke.

Col. L. H. Brittin, vice president of Northwest Airways and head of the operators' organization, praised the airport, and Col. R. I. Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, spoke.

Following the addresses, Jim Ray, vice president and chief pilot of the Autogiro Company of America, took newspaper photographers up in his autogiro to take pictures of the crowd and then gave a demonstration of vertical landings, take offs, and sharp turns in the windmill plane.

Demonstrates Radio Use.

Pilot S. J. Nelson of United Air Lines gave a demonstration of the use of radio by flying over the airport and broadcasting to the radio station in the passenger terminal. His voice was heard by the crowd over a loud speaker system.

BOAT WITH 1,200 SACKS OF LIQUOR SEIZED IN CHASE

New London, Conn., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Canadian speedboat Game Cock of Tarmouth, N. C., loaded with 1,200 sacks of liquor was seized last night 11 miles southeast of Block Island light, by a coast guard destroyer from the local base, it was announced tonight.

The vessel was brought to this port for surrender to customs authority. The eight members of her crew will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran tomorrow.

LIQUOR KILLING CONFESSION IS MADE IN OMAHA

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Police tonight announced solution of a recent liquor killing here as Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director, concluded an investigation of federal prohibition enforcement in Nebraska.

Chief of Detectives Paul Sutton tonight said police had obtained a confession from Clifford Hill of Omaha, who admitted being present at the fatal shooting of Sam Villella, 25, here the night of Oct. 25. Hill, police said, implicated Mike "Shifty" Regan as the actual killer. Regan, former convict, is now in Chicago, Hill told police.

Hill's confession related that Villella was shot to death resisting efforts of Hill and Regan to hijack liquor in the barn where the victim was tending a still.

Woodcock tonight expressed dissatisfaction with enforcement activities of the bureau of prohibition here, but said no changes in personnel were contemplated at present. He left tonight for Chicago, en route to Mobile, Ala. He said G. S. Ellsworth, field supervisor for the prohibition department, would remain here to continue investigations.

Rumors that a general police shakeup was intended were spiked by Mayor Metcalfe tonight, when he announced he would stand firmly behind Chief of Police J. J. Pszanowski when city commissioners meet tomorrow to discuss means of ending gang attacks.

In 13 gang attacks four men have been killed here since the first of the year. All of the affrays were blamed on an alleged liquor syndicate.

AGED WOMAN KILLS HERSELF.

ELECTIONS HELP CHICAGO'S 1932 CONVENTION BIDS

Hurley Finds City Gains in Both Parties.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's prospects of landing both the Republican and Democratic national conventions next year have been crystallized by the elections a fortnight ago, according to Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the nonpartisan citizens' committee which is seeking to bring the two conclaves here.

Looking the election returns in the eye, leaders in both parties, Mr. Hurley declared last night, are swinging to Chicago as a strategic spot in the pivotal midwest which may decide the next presidential election.

Announcement was made that the railroads have agreed to make a rate of a fare and a half for the round trip to Chicago for delegates and their friends. It is said to be the first time in 31 years that reduced fares have been granted to a Republican or Democratic convention.

Plan Special Fair Days.

A preliminary opening of the 1933 World's Fair in honor of the delegates was announced as part of the entertainment to be offered by Chicago. The buildings of the Century of Progress exposition are to be 70 per cent completed by the time the conventions roll around. Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition has extended an invitation for a private preview of the structures and exhibits, the party conventions to have charge of Republican day next June and of Democratic day in July.

Mr. Hurley made it known that the Chicago Hotel association, by official action, has guaranteed no increase in rates. Literature was sent to members of both national party committees last night, setting forth that 7,000 hotel rooms will be available at rates from $1.50 to $3 and $4 and up. With it went a map showing that 62 per cent of the population and of the delegates find Chicago so centrally located that they can get on the train in the afternoon and arrive next morning.

Finds Majority Favor Chicago.

"The full pivotal importance of the midwestern states in national politics appears never to have been recognized more fully than we are finding right now," Mr. Hurley said. "In the last ten days, during conferences here and in the east, I have been in intimate touch with more than a score of the most influential figures in both parties. All of them very frankly indicated their belief that, with Illinois, Ohio and other adjacent states see-sawing politically in a fashion that might topple them from one party column to another with little provocation, there is real need for holding the presidential conventions and preparing the 1932 political platforms in that section of the country where our most important national problems have their common meeting place and where the voters seem to be demonstrating the most acute unrest.

"While some of these statesmen will, as a matter of course, support the convention efforts of cities in their own respective states, the great majority in both parties seem to favor Chicago. In Republican circles I have found general approval of Chicago's convention hopes among the spokesmen for Nevada, Nebraska, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Arizona, and North Dakota. Cleveland of course is an important contender and leaders in Michigan indicated that, if Detroit fails to land the 1932 G. O. P. gathering, they will also support Chicago's invitation.

Democrats Pledge Support.

"Democratic spokesmen are even more widespread in their favorable reaction to Chicago's convention bid. During the last week, we have received pledges of support for our Democratic convention efforts from leaders all along the Atlantic seaboard, from Kansas, Indiana, and Wyoming, from Georgia, Texas, and even from Porto Rico.

Ohio hopes to bring the Democratic meeting to Cleveland and out on the coast there is some support to San Francisco's convention demands, but even in these instances we have assurances that if their own convention invitations fail, the support of both these sections will be thrown into the balance in favor of Chicago.

"We have underwritten a fund sufficient to defray all expenses of both conventions; we have secured options on the largest and most up-to-date convention hall in the country during June and July; we have 7,000 rooms in our most up-to-date hotels at special rates ranging from $1.50 to $4 a day; the railroads have generously given us low rates of one and one-half fare for the round trip. This has caused many prominent men in both political camps to express a decided preference for Chicago on account of its central location and the big savings in time and money to the delegates and their families.

Committee Working Tirelessly.

"The Chicago citizens' committee has been working tirelessly to win both conventions. The completeness and details of our preparations will only be known, however, when we lay our invitations officially before the Republican national committee at Washington on Dec. 15 and before the Democratic national committee at the capital in January."

The leading rivals of Chicago in bidding for the conventions are Detroit, Cleveland, and San Francisco.

MAP SHOWS WHY CITY SHOULD GET CONVENTIONS

Chicago's central location and its proximity to the centers of industry and population as shown by government statistics are featured in this map, which is being used in the effort to get both Republican and Democratic national conventions here in 1932. The map also shows the ease with which the city can be reached from all the large cities of the country. Within the heavy line 62 per cent of the population of the United States resides.

U.S., BRITISH DOCTORS TO REMOVE HUNDREDS OF CATARACTS IN INDIA

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Five American and British surgeons plan to perform 100 cataract operations per day for upwards of three months in India, commencing in December.

The United States will contribute Dr. W. W. Galley of this city; Dr. J. H. Hompes, Lincoln, Neb., and Dr. J. E. Lillie of Rochester, Minn. They sail for India on Dec. 5, from San Francisco, meeting two eminent members of the profession from London. Certain sections of northern India are characterized by a greater prevalence of cataracts than any other section of the globe.

The British government long has sought to remedy this condition. Intense sunlight and lack of proper nourishment, creating premature senility, are some of the causes. The British government pays the surgeons and the operations cost the patients nothing. It is a remarkable exhibition of humanitarianism. In only the winter months is the weather cool enough for performing the cataract operations.

Groups of specialists move from point to point, and perform the operations in a traveling hospital fitted up in a tent. The natives are notified when to assemble for treatment and they reach the clinic on foot, or riding camels, elephants and donkeys. A second group of specialists fit the patients with glasses after the operations have been performed. If there is no hitch in the program, the group of five surgeons will restore the vision to more than 5,000 natives, now blind.

FOUND STABBED; BLAMES ROBBER.

Henry Harnisch, 50 years old, an unemployed butcher, was found stabbed in the abdomen early yesterday at Milwaukee and Grand avenues. He said he had been attacked by a robber. He was taken to the county hospital where his condition was said to be serious.

SURVEY TELLS LIFE STORIES OF ILLINOIS OAKS

Few of Trees Marked 90 Years Ago Are Left.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Ninety years after the first government surveys of Lake and Du Page counties R. G. Loomis, a North Chicago surveyor has been making measurements of the growth of some of the oaks in this region that have withstood the vicissitudes of the elements and civilization.

Towering above nearly all other trees in this area, Loomis finds there still exist sixteen or eighteen of the trees which were used as bases in the government's first Lake county survey, during the winter of 1839-'40. They were selected by the surveyors of the past century as showing most promise of surviving, each of them having a breast high diameter of 12 to 14 inches at that time. Officially, they were called "witness trees."

"When the surveyors were laying out the first plats, they 'measured in' their corners to these chosen healthy trees, generally oaks," says Loomis. "In my work, which has covered nearly all of Lake county in recent years, I have come to the conclusion that only a scant score of the base trees that formerly numbered thousands still stand.

"In the intervening years the survivors have grown to enormous size. They now measure 34 to 40 inches in diameter at breast height. Surely, from this record, one must consider the Illinois tree quite remarkable to have lived to 150 to 200 years of age, as some have reported their trees to be."

Loomis found particular interest in the manner in which many of these monarchs of the forest have developed resistance to such forces as erosion. One such tree on Mill creek, in the Ohwaukia hunt country, a burr oak, measured 12 inches in diameter for the government surveyors in 1839. Its diameter is now nearly 40 inches.

How Tree Fights Erosion.

"Part of the earth on one side of the tree's trunk has been washed away, but the silent giant has sent out root buttresses on the other side to give it greater purchase on the earth, by which to stand storm of further erosion," Loomis declared.

Another "witness tree," a white oak with a government measure of about 16 inches in the original survey, is southwest of Ivanhoe. It now measures fully 26 inches in breast high diameter, Loomis said.

In Grant township there are two burr oaks 26 inches in diameter that were 13 and 14 inches through 90 years ago. A burr oak in Libertyville township has grown in the same period from 8 inches to 24 inches in diameter.

One of the fallacies of trying to prove the approximate age of a tree lies in measuring the increased girth over scores of years and then estimating when the tree was a sapling, according to the surveyor.

"Owners of some of the region's oldest trees often have discovered that it took specimens 90 years to grow from 12 to 24 inches, an increase of 24 inches in diameter," said Loomis. "As a result they took it for granted that the first 12 inches took an additional 45 years. But growth rings when a tree has been cut indicate that the first few years of growth are more rapid and that size, therefore, is not an accurate gauge of a life span."

ENGINEERS MAP RAILROADS FOR ARTILLERY USE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Maps showing all railroads in the United States have been prepared by the corps of engineers as an aid to the use of railroad artillery in time of war, Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, engineer chief, stated today in his report to Secretary of War Hurley.

"The railway section," said Maj. Gen. Brown, "has carried on studies of standards of track and equipment to be used on military railways, and troop organizations for the construction, operation and maintenance of such railways. Information is kept up to date on all trackage in the United States and the capabilities of all trackage for the movement of railway artillery. The location of all American railroads is embodied in the railroad map of the United States and this map is used by other departments of the government and is available to the public.

"The fullest of coöperation is rendered by all the railroads and by the interstate commerce commission in all these studies."

Improvements made in carriages for railroad artillery as well as the need for extreme mobility for national defense work in this age of fast warships has resulted in the placing of greater stress on this phase of national defense. Both 8 inch and 14 inch railway guns and carriages have been developed and are now being tested.

Victim's Cries Rout Pal of Bandits; Flee on Foot

Two armed men jumped out of an automobile at Damen avenue and Monroe street last night and compelled John Vasilio, 2113 Warren boulevard, to surrender $10 to them. The victim's cries for help were so loud that an accomplice of the two robbers, sitting at the wheel of the automobile, drove off hastily without his companions. The pair fled on foot. They were pursued and fired on by Policeman Walter DeJeski, but escaped.

EXPECT PHONE BOOTH SHOOTING VICTIM TO LIVE

Milton Mann, 28 years old, 6115 North Artesian avenue, who was wounded late Saturday night in a speakeasy at 4139 North Western avenue, was reported to be in a fair condition last evening at the Grant hospital, and physicians said they believed he would recover.

Mann, who was part owner of the speakeasy, was fired on as he was talking in a telephone booth. It was assumed that the bullet, fired from the outside, was directed at Mann's shadow as it loomed against a window of the booth. He told the police he had received a message asking him to call a man named Morgan at the time the shooting occurred.

A theory that Mann may have been a friend of Ted Newberry, one time leader in the beer wars on the north side, was advanced by the police, but Mann asserted he never knew Newberry.

HOWLETT, CAPONE AID, IN LINE AT POLICE SHOWUP

George Howlett, secretly a lieutenant of Al Capone and ostensibly a respectable business man, member of several clubs and associate of prominent people, was No. 1 yesterday in a lineup of prisoners at the detective bureau. It was the regular Sunday "showup" in which prisoners are put under a spotlight to be viewed by persons who have been robbed or by persons who can identify criminals.

"Have you ever been arrested before?" Howlett was asked. "Only for disorderly conduct," he replied.

"Why are you locked up now?" asked Deputy Chief Walter Storms.

"A government indictment," the dapper prisoner replied.

Howlett was indicted with Capone and 67 others on a charge of being implicated in a huge liquor conspiracy. Until then he was known to the public generally as vice president of a printing concern. Instead, it developed, he was one of the chief aids of Capone, the boss of many of the better known hoodlums who control Cook county's liquor supply.

In addition to the liquor charge the government has an income tax case against him and he is to be arraigned this morning before a United States commissioner. Elliott Ness, assistant chief of a bureau of special prohibition agents, saw Howlett at the Northwestern-Indiana football game Saturday and his arrest followed.

ALDERMEN EYE MOVE TO REDUCE CITY JOBHOLDERS

Hope Legislative Program Will Avert Cuts.

Members of the city council finance committee are expected to comment today upon the unofficial and fragmentary reports that they have received during the last week on the estimates for the city's 1932 budget. These estimates, which are being prepared by J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, will be turned over to the committee within the next two weeks.

The committee will meet today to discuss the financial relief program pending before the special session of the general assembly. Douglas Sutherland of the Civic federation and Harris Keeler of the bureau of public efficiency, both of whom were active in preparing the bills, will analyze the measures for the aldermen.

Hope to Avert Slash.

Some of the aldermen have expressed a hope that enactment of the financial legislation will obviate the necessity for cutting city expenditures 15 per cent next year as it is now reported that Jacobs will recommend. Questions fathered by this hope are expected to be put to Keeler and Sutherland as well as to the committee's own staff of experts.

In urging a 15 per cent cut, Jacobs, according to the reports to the aldermen, contemplates a reduction in the personnel of all departments and a consolidation of many city activities.

In an ordinance drafted by Corporation Counsel Sexton for Jacobs a number of independent bureaus and departments are consolidated in a new department. Some of the activities to be combined are boiler building, electrical, smoke, and weights and measures inspections.

Cermak Opposes Police Cut.

For the fire department Jacobs has recommended the abolition of the rank of division marshal and the reduction in rank of a number of fire lieutenants to firemen. A proposal to reduce the number of policemen has been countered by Mayor Cermak with a statement that the force will not be reduced, although the department's expenditures will be cut.

The water bureau has been slated for the loss of 119 positions, and approximately 50 jobs are to be abolished in the city collector's office, according to city hall rumors. Another reported recommendation would abolish the jobs of all but three of the ward superintendents.

These reports have created some anxiety among the aldermen, and several have been outspoken in their desire to learn whether the relief legislation will make it unnecessary to concur in these recommendations.

Mexican Air Chief Saves Boy from Bull; Loses Ear

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Col. Carlos Castillo Breton, director of Mexico's aviation school, was severely injured in an amateur bullfight in the national stadium today when a bull tore off his right ear. He was acting as matador and had run to the aid of a newsboy who was about to be trampled by the bull. Col. Breton trained as an aviator in Vermont and Virginia. His training was arranged through the late Dwight W. Morrow as a reward for rescuing Morrow, then ambassador to Mexico, from an enthusiastic crowd at Balbuena field in December, 1927, when Col. Lindbergh made his nonstop flight from Washington.

GOES TO TRIAL TOMORROW.

Pana, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Albert Bores of Taylorville will go to trial Tuesday before Judge Franklin R. Dove of Shelbyville for the murder of Bernard Grigsby, whom he is alleged to have shot to death May 23.

FIND 132 UNUSED ROOMS IN CITY'S LOWER SCHOOLS

Report Overcrowding in Other Districts.

Despite overcrowding in some sections, there are 132 unused classrooms in the elementary schools of Chicago, according to the semi-annual report of Don C. Rogers, director of building survey for the board of education. Shifting of population, declining birthrate, and the construction of junior high schools which draft elementary pupils are the reasons given.

Between 1925 and 1931 the elementary school enrollment has decreased more than 6,000. In spite of this, the report shows, 71 per cent of all seats provided during that period were for elementary pupils.

Shortage of 591 Rooms.

Overcrowding exists principally in the high schools, but the report shows a shortage of 591 elementary classrooms in populous districts. It contains no recommendation for the use of the 132 vacant rooms in the districts where the number of pupils has declined.

The decreasing elementary school attendance follows a declining birth rate, the report says. Whereas the birth rate in 1913 was 24 per thousand of population, it was 17.1 in 1931.

The Shifting Population.

The Maxwell street district is pointed out in the report as an example of the shifting population. In 1911 there were 11,117 pupils in the old 20th ward. The enrollment in the same schools this year is 5,892.

On the average, Mr. Rogers said, the opening of a new junior high school results in relieving overcrowded conditions in 26 classrooms and makes vacant three and a half rooms. At present the educational department's recommendations for new buildings are virtually all for junior and senior high schools, he said.

Thirty experts from New York City today will start a survey of Chicago school buildings to determine whether they meet the proper requirements for school purposes. The experts are a part of the staff of the Columbia university group that is inspecting the whole Chicago school system. The survey was recently ordered by the board of education and is to cost $100,000.

TWO TRIED FOR MURDER.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—John Kempster Jr. and James Harper, Negro, charged with the murder of Walter Felton, a farmer near Kickapoo, will face trial here tomorrow. Caught in the act of stealing chickens, Kempster and Harper are alleged to have killed Felton.

SPANISH POLICE NAB 19 IN DRIVE ON MONARCHISTS

MADRID, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Raids and arrests continued today as police sought for evidence of an alleged monarchist plot. Nineteen arrests have been made. Police declined to make the charges public, but it was understood the suspects were accused of organizing a nation-wide group for disseminating church and monarchist propaganda.

Arrest Marquis at Frontier.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Nov. 15—(AP)—Marquis de Albaida was arrested when he attempted to cross the French frontier in an automobile today. His arrest was ordered by authorities in Madrid in connection with the investigation into alleged monarchist activities.

Now Brush Away Stain

Teeth Whiten 3 Shades in 3 Days

There's no reason now why your teeth should be stained, yellow, discolored or prey to decay—why your gums should be spongy and tender. For science has discovered the way to remove the cause of most tooth and gum troubles—the millions of germs that swarm into the mouth with every breath—and make teeth gleaming white. It's called the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique.

Start using this technique—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush. Overnight you'll note an improvement. In just 3 days your teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer and look healthier. Breath and taste will be clean and sweet.

Kolynos is unique.

The very moment it enters the mouth, this highly concentrated dental cream becomes a refreshing FOAM which permits the use of a dry brush, thus making KOLYNOS 10 times more effective.

This penetrating FOAM gets into and cleans out every tiny pit, fissure and crevice. Kills millions of destructive mouth germs, 190 million in the first 15 seconds. Erases tartar and stimulates the gums.

THUS TEETH ARE QUICKLY AND EASILY CLEANED AS THEY SHOULD BE CLEANED—RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL, NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY.

LARGEST COUNTY TAX BILL WILL SOON BE LEVIED

Set at $289,000,000; 2 Relief Plans Compared.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The largest tax bill in the history of Cook county will be levied in the next few weeks. It will be payable before Jan. 1 under the existing statutes, but it appears certain that all of it will not be paid by that date.

ROBERT SWEITZER.

The bill is so enormous, under present business conditions, that the governor's revenue conference and the real estate boards have frankly recognized the advisability of not attempting to collect it all at one time.

Puts Bill at $289,200,818.

The staff of County Clerk Sweitzer roughly estimated this bill yesterday at $289,200,818. This is the probable tax on Cook county property for the tax year of 1930. It is $28,659,000 above the total taxes due last May. And $78,512,635 of those 1929 taxes will remain unpaid.

The taxes due Jan. 1 are $69,384,000 in excess of the taxes for 1928, of which $32,227,189 still remains unpaid. In addition there is $21,309,000 of the previous year's taxes uncollected. This is an aggregate of $131,149,000 in uncollected taxes for the last three years.

To lighten the load, Gov. Emmerson's revenue conference has one plan and the Chicago Real Estate board has another. Both would fund part of the estimated $289,200,818 county tax bill for 1930, but there is a wide difference in the amount to be funded and the period the bonds shall run. Consequently, there is a wide difference in the first year and the ultimate costs of the two plans.

No Details Made Public.

Neither the executive committee of the revenue conference, headed by Joseph K. Britain, nor the real estate board, of which Mark Levy is president, has made available their plans in detail, nor has either made public any figures indicating how they think their plans will work out. A general idea has been given out by each.

The real estate board proposes to the legislature to fund all of the $289,200,818 bill except the state taxes, which are estimates at seven per cent of the total county bill, the state's share would accordingly be $20,244,057, which the real estate board would have the property owners pay; while the remaining $268,956,761 they would fund by the issuance of 20-year bonds.

The revenue conference recommends to this special session of the assembly, which gets down to detail work tomorrow, that the taxes for the state, schools and bonds and interest, in the estimated $289,200,818 bill for 1930, be paid on the due date, and the remainder at the option of the property owner, be paid in five equal installments at 6 per cent interest.

Figured on 1929 Rates

As a preliminary to the extension of taxes, County Clerk Sweitzer has reckoned the amount of the state, school, bond and interest taxes on the basis of the 1929 tax rates. In the towns of South Chicago, Hyde Park and Lake on the south side of the city, he calculated that these taxes will be 60.25 per cent of the total tax bill. On the west side the percentage would be 64.36 and in North Chicago 56.97 per cent, in Lake View 57.16 per cent and in Rogers Park 58.97 in one part and 58.27 in another.

As a rough average, assume that the taxes for the state, schools, bonds and interest will be 57.5 per cent of the total bill. Consequently the revenue conference recommends that the property owners pay $166,290,470 of the $289,200,818 aggregate for 1930 as a first installment, and the remaining $122,910,348 in five subsequent annual installments at 6 per cent interest.

This proposed down-payment on the 1930 taxes is about 10 per cent less than was paid on each of the 1929 and the 1928 taxes.

For the purpose of making a comparison, let it be assumed that every property owner takes advantage of the optional installment plan for paying 1930 taxes. In that event the 1930 tax bill—under the revenue conference plan—would be boosted from $289,200,818 to $311,324,678, because of the interest charges. That would be the ultimate bill for taxes plus interest.

Calls Picture Unfair.

In comparison the ultimate tax bill plus interest at 4 per cent under the real estate board's scheme, would be $405,162,667—$80,537,000 in excess of the revenue conference plan. The difference in ultimate cost lies solely in the interest charges. Under the revenue conference plan the interest charges would total $22,123,000, while under the real estate board's plan they would mount to $112,961,000.

This picture, in the opinion of one member of the governor's conference, is unfair to it, because he contended that many property owners will pay their taxes in full at the first opportunity and avoid the interest. Therefore under the conference plan, the interest will not total $22,123,000.

Undoubtedly that is true, because the property owner who pays the remainder—under the revenue conference plan—of his 1930 taxes in installments will pay the equivalent of 18 per cent on the remainder in interest. To illustrate, the property owner who still has $500 in taxes to pay, after he has handed in his state, school, and bond taxes, will have to pay $90 in interest on the $500 remainder.

It is contended by the real estate board members that the ultimate cost, even with full interest charges, is much more than offset by the fact that the burden on the property owners is much lighter year by year, and especially in the period before business recovers, than the conference plan.

Comparison of Two Plans.

A comparison of the two plans on that basis follows:

Of the $289,200,818 1930 tax bill, Gov. Emmerson's revenue conference recommends that $166,290,000 be paid as the first installment, while the real estate board recommends only $20,244,000.

The revenue conference would have its remainder of $122,910,348 paid in five annual installments with interest at six per cent. The real estate board urges that its remainder of $268,956,761 be paid in 20 annual installments at estimated interest of 4 per cent.

So the second installment under the revenue conference plan would require the payment of $24,582,069 in taxes and $7,374,620 in interest—a total of $31,956,689.

The second installment, under the real estate board, would be $13,477,838 in principal and $10,758,270 in interest—a total of $24,206,108.

Compare Other Installments.

The third installment under the revenue conference plan would be $30,481,765 and under the real estate board's plan $23,663,194.

The fourth installment under the revenue conference plan would be $29,006,841 and under the real estate board $22,130,280.

The amount of taxes due annually, for the last five of the six years, under the conference plan, would be $24,582,000 with the interest decreasing annually by $1,474,924. The amount of principal due each year under the real estate board plan would be $13,447,838, with the interest decreasing annually by only $537,913.

At the end of the sixth year—under the revenue conference plan—all of the 1930 taxes, plus interest, would be paid in full. On the other hand, under the real estate board, at that time $201,617,571 of the 1930 tax bill will still remain unpaid, and also $64,549,621 in interest charges.

M'LEAN, IT SEEMS, HAS PACT TO WED, BUT NO SECOND WIFE AS YET

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Edward B. McLean, millionaire publisher of the Washington Post, who yesterday said that he is eagerly hunting a divorce from his wife, Evelyn Walsh McLean, because he already has another, exaggerated slightly, it appeared today.

He did not actually marry Rose Douras Van Cleve of Long Island, N. Y., after applying for a divorce in Mexico from his wife, according to William H. Wadhams, McLean's attorney. McLean and Rose Douras Van Cleve, it develops, are linked by a paper, which is called a declaration of intention to marry.

Wadhams ascribed McLean's announcement of his secret wedding to mere enthusiasm. Not satisfied with one set of a declaration of intention to marry, McLean recently got another in Riga, Latvia, where he intends to file another suit for divorce. Rose Douras Van Cleve and McLean are registered at the Crillon hotel here.

DOG, SMUGGLED ABOARD, BITES 10 SAILORS; ONE DIES

MANILA, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A small dog which bit 10 men aboard the destroyer J. D. Edwards, while at Chefoo, China, six weeks ago, caused the death from hydrophobia today of Coxswain John Macom Jones of Durham, N. C.

The other nine men are being treated at the Canacao hospital at Cavite naval base. Physicians said none of them had shown signs of infection.

The J. D. Edwards arrived here 16 days ago. Jones developed the disease a few days later. It was reported the dog had been smuggled aboard the ship in violation of orders. For that reason the men did not report their wounds. A board of inquiry has been named and when the men in the hospital are able they will be required to testify.

Two men held up the Lake Shore pharmacy, 101 East Chicago avenue, yesterday and took $200 from Hymie Deck, the clerk in charge.

More Evidence Is Ready in Bank Inquiry.

The grand jury is to delve again today into the affairs of the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, a Bain institution, which closed owing depositors more than $2,500,000. During the week investigation is to continue into the operation of the other eleven closed Bain banks.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers is to present evidence to the grand jury with a view toward obtaining early indictments. He has disclosed that officers and directors had borrowed from the West Englewood bank amounts totaling nearly half as much as the total of deposits.

Former Senator Charles S. Deneen is to appear tomorrow before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg in connection with the search for assets of John Bain, Inc., a holding company which failed with the banks. The former senator is to be questioned on real estate transactions in which he participated with John Bain, Inc.

The West Englewood Quiz.

The investigation of the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank is to follow disclosures of last week on the loans made to bank officials and evidence presented on the alleged misuse of funds. Prosecutor Ayers announced that he will offer evidence to show that the bank was insolvent before it closed, which may result in charges against the officers of accepting deposits while knowing that the bank was insolvent.

The grand jury has voted true bills against John H. Bain, son of John Bain, head of the twelve closed banks, and against cashiers of the Armitage State bank and the Brainerd State bank, both Bain institutions. The true bills charge conspiracy, larceny, and obtaining money under false pretenses. Further investigation of the two banks is to be made.

Receivers and auditors are scheduled to appear before the grand jury. Subpoenas have also been issued for officials of the various Bain banks. John Bain is to appear before the jury as soon as he is discharged from the German Deaconess hospital where he is a patient following two operations.

O'Donnell to Face Jury.

Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, south side gangster, has been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury to testify on reports that he forced John Bain to turn over $20,000 he had on deposit in the West Englewood bank, the day after it closed. O'Donnell was arrested on Saturday with two companions. He appeared in the police showup yesterday and was released after putting up bond of $100 on a disorderly conduct charge.

"I never forced Bain to give me any money," O'Donnell said. "I never had an account in any of his banks. My wife had an account of $20,000 but she took it out late last March. There is nothing to the report."

At the showup O'Donnell met an old friend, Sanford [Gimp] Rosenbaum, who has a long police record. O'Donnell supplied a cash bond of $100 for Rosenbaum, who was also charged with disorderly conduct.

Chicagoan Slain, Tossed from Auto in Denver

Denver, Colo., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A man identified as Ben Williams of Chicago was fatally stabbed and tossed from an automobile on a downtown Denver street tonight. Police were without clews as to the slayers. A bottle of liquor was found in the man's pockets, police said, and two other bottles were found near his body.

Train Kills Woman on Trip to Husband's Grave

Returning from a visit to her husband's grave in St. Joseph's cemetery, Mrs. Josephine Levison, 67 years old, 4746 Race street, was killed yesterday by a St. Paul freight train at the Thatcher avenue crossing in River Grove. Mrs. Levison was hard of hearing and probably failed to hear the warning bell, said her daughter, Mrs. Caroline Larson, 4321 Armitage avenue. Another woman, about 37 years old, was killed at almost the same hour by a Burlington train at the Stone avenue crossing in La Grange. The fly leaf in a Bible she was carrying bore the name of Florence Miller.

This Winter Vacation is Good Business

EVERYBODY needs his share of fun, to balance the work that takes most of his time. But this winter vacation question goes deeper than that.

Take your own case. The hard work of the past months has taken its toll. Next year's problems will require continued effort, alert decisions, tireless energy. Can you afford to face the future without first building a reserve of strength and enthusiasm?

Invest in Southern California sunshine this winter, and get back dividends in health, vigor and new ideas you wouldn't find in half-a-dozen ordinary vacations.

More here to enjoy

Sands, warm in the winter sun, invite you to bask by the friendly Pacific. Gamy deep-sea fish and gay resort islands await you near the shore. Inland are more than 60 all-grass golf courses, and thrilling settings for every other sport.

Ancient Missions, Spanish architecture and nearby Old Mexico lend the glamour of a foreign land. Orange groves and palms carpet the base of forested mountains cradling crystal lakes. Big, hospitable Los Angeles, and Hollywood, where you'll mingle with the stars, offer smart shops, hotels, theaters and gay night life.

Close by are world-famous resort cities, Pasadena, Long Beach, Beverly Hills, Pomona, Glendale, Santa Monica . . . and the celebrated oases of the winter desert.

Enjoy all this now, when you need it most. Come to Southern California for a glorious vacation. Advise anyone not to come seeking employment lest he be disappointed, but for the tourist the attractions are unlimited.

Costs no more than at home

In this year 'round vacationland you escape the "peak prices" necessary in short-season resorts. In fact, costs while here need be no more than at home. We prove these statements in a remarkable new book which the coupon below brings you free.

It outlines, day by day, a winter (and also a summer) visit to Southern California, including nearly 100 interesting gravure photographs, map, information about routes, itemized daily cost figures, etc. . . . perhaps the most complete vacation book ever published. Send the coupon for your free copy. Start planning now!

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE FACTS ABOUT THE FARM BOARD.

The articles by Mr. Henning on the farm board, its aims and its accomplishments, have been instructive in more senses than one. They demonstrate, among other things, the curious fact that, though the government has run up a loss, actual and potential, of $130,000,000 in its wheat operations, the Farmers' National Grain corporation, which has been doing the buying and selling with the government's money, has a profit to show for its efforts.

The farm board is not in the market. It set up the Grain Stabilization corporation and that corporation, in turn, uses the Farmers' National as its marketing agency. Through the Farmers' National millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money has been siphoned off.

Mr. Heqning has made a study of the organization of this remarkable corporation. He finds that its capital stock totals 100,000 shares, which at $100 a share would be worth $10,000,000. Of this amount only $696,700, or less than 7 per cent, has been paid up. The shares are held by an assortment of farmers' organizations, some of which are coöperatives and others not. The dominating figures in the corporation, though they deny that they control a majority of the stock, are the Rev. C. E. Huff of Kansas, a former preacher who organized some small coöperative enterprises which are now defunct; Mr. M. W. Thatcher of Minnesota, who was associated with the unfortunate ventures of the Nonpartisan leaguers in North Dakota, and Mr. John Manley of Oklahoma.

If the Farmers' National is a coöperative it differs strikingly from other organizations which bear the name. Indeed, it has aroused the opposition of coöperative marketing associations whose facilities it has swallowed up. Its operations, Mr. Henning finds, have driven a wide breach in the ranks of the farmers, many of whom are as vehemently opposed to the corporation's activities as is any member of the Board of Trade.

In disclosing the extraordinary nature, methods, and purposes of this corporation, Mr. Henning has performed a valuable service. The farm board has refused to make its accounts public, but that refusal, in reality, is of little consequence. Mr. Henning, without bias and with great objectivity, has discovered enough of the relevant truths to indicate a scandal of grave proportions.

Mr. Henning's survey is another proof of the power for good which lies in the hands of competent newspaper men, even in Washington, where the acts of the officeholders are hidden in a jungleiike secrecy.

A SAMPLE OF GOVERNMENT.

A statement from the White House explaining the navy budget which will be submitted to congress said: "It does not propose to abandon any of the navy yards at present." When Secretary Adams of the navy department submitted his plan of economy cuts, at the President's orders, the abandonment or curtailing of certain land activities of the navy, in shipyards, etc., was included. As soon as it was known that such cuts were being considered the political influence of the congressional districts enjoying perquisites from naval expenditures in the shipyard regions was exerted.

Whatever advantage economy might work in these regions, it was apparent that it would be all political disadvantage, and it was also apparent that such economies would not be insisted upon. There was nothing unexpectable and unnatural in this. It was political action proceeding by its usual channels. It is the rule of governmental action, but its application is broader than departmental. It is not only that it affects the navy, as in this case. It will affect every undertaking of government in any field. If government goes into business this is the fashion in which it will and must go.

A government undertaking must be calculated upon the political requirement of any given situation. A government function supported by taxation may be able to survive it. A government business must be ruined by its costs.

The law of political action is one of compensations which private enterprise cannot survive. Political enterprise cannot survive without them and private enterprise cannot survive with them. These compensations may be legal or corrupt. They need not to be dishonest to be ruinous for any business undertaking which is not to be supported by indiscriminate taxation. Indiscriminate taxation will ruin the taxpayer. When the compensations government makes for votes are dishonest, as they frequently are in nearly all localities one time or another, it is difficult for even the political structure to survive.

No one explains how it will be possible for an American government in business to get its authority from any other source than that of popular elections in which political favors are relied upon for votes. No one can get the essence of the political system out of it, and hence no one advocating radical invasions of private industry has been able to explain how government possibly can operate anything which is supposed to support itself.

SLAUGHTER IN WAR AND PEACE.

Armistice week is an appropriate time to talk about automobile accidents. If only a small part of the money and thought which has been devoted since 1918 to the prevention of war had been spent on the prevention of automobile accidents there might be some real accomplishments to point to. As it is, Americans are being killed and maimed on the streets and highways of this country at about the same rate at which American soldiers fell in the war. One difference, of course, is that in the war only men were killed and wounded. Automobiles do not respect either age or sex. Women and children, young and old, appear in the casualty lists.

There are at least a dozen organizations in Chicago alone which are earnestly engaged in seeking to prevent the slaughters of war. Relatively little attention is paid to the slaughters of peace. This is doubly curious in view of the fact that the automobiles kill year in and year out at an ever increasing pace while wars occur relatively infrequently. Last year 30,000 Americans were killed in motor accidents and thus far this year more than 1,100 have been killed in Cook county alone. In ten years, at this rate, 300,000 American lives will have been sacrificed, and in twenty years 600,000. That is about a dozen times as many Americans as were killed on the battlefields or died of wounds received in the bloodiest war which men have ever engaged in.

These facts are not recited with a view to minimizing the horrors of war or encouraging the military men to improve their techniques of slaughter to keep pace with civilian accomplishments in this line, but rather to emphasize the fact that automobile accidents in our day constitute a major problem of our society second to none in humanitarian interest. If wars continue despite the efforts of those seeking to prevent recourse to them, the people of this country cannot hold themselves exclusively responsible. Englishmen, Frenchmen, Japanese and Russians, and the rest of mankind must share the blame, and we can hardly be held accountable for their acts. But Americans have no parallel excuse for failure to reduce the automobile fatalities. If the motor deaths continue at the present pace it is because the American people haven't the intelligence or the humanity to stop them.

One means of prevention that presents itself as immediately available is a periodic inspection of motor cars. Safety engineers are of the opinion that at least 25 per cent of the automobile accidents can be explained in whole or in part by mechanical failures. Faulty brakes, lights and steering apparatus are particularly dangerous. These faults are readily detected. Failure to correct them is costing 7,500 or more lives this year alone.

Some expense, of course, would be attached to compulsory inspection of automobiles. In the present state of Chicago's finances it is not easy to see where the money would come from. Fortunately, however, the state has ample funds collected from motorists in the form of gasoline taxes. This money is lying idle in the treasury and could be made available for motor car inspection. If the calculations of the safety engineers are correct, the expenditure of a small portion of the money would prevent the loss of perhaps 400 lives a year in Illinois and some 6,000 serious injuries. That would seem to be worth a moderate expenditure even at the cost of a few dozen miles of hard road in a remote corner of the state.

SENTIMENT AS A TARIFF.

British industry, with the help of the government and the royal family, is starting a great sentimental drive for the buying of British goods. Trade is seeking the equivalent of a tariff by appealing to national interest and patriotism to exclude foreign goods by voluntary coöperation in buying only goods made at home. It will not be called a boycott because it is not directed against any particular nation for any particular reason. When the East Indians refuse British cotton goods and buy Japanese, it's a boycott, as when the Chinese refuse Japanese and buy British. Whatever the British undertaking may be called, it is the same thing. The goods of all nations are to be kept out by an emotional process. The promoters will try to get up a sufficient head of steam under patriotism to convert it into a protective tariff.

It is not easy to perceive wherein a sentimental tariff has many advantages over a statutory one with specific schedules. The former dodges the issue as one of economic policy, but it merely undertakes to substitute emotionalism for legislation. It takes to ballyhoo instead of parliamentary bills. If it succeeds it creates a prohibitive tariff instead of a protective one, but the chances are it will not succeed and no manufacturer could rely upon it. The best price should win and the manufacturer should expect it to win if there is only a stimulated sentiment against it.

Nations are as likely to retaliate against a sentimental boycott of their goods as they are against a vindictive one or against a tariff. If Great Britain wants protected industries there seems to be no reason for going to the soap boxes for them rather than to parliament.

THE COLORADO DRY KILLING.

(The Denver Post.)

Prohibition Administrator Vivian has been begging the people to withhold judgment on Federal Agent Dierks until the United States government investigates. A week has passed since Dierks struck Milford Smith, Englewood youth, on the head with a revolver and injured him fatally. But no complete report of the affair has yet been received at the United States bureau of prohibition in Washington, D. C. The patience of the people is exhausted.

With one breath Administrator Vivian declares a thorough investigation of the Smith killing will be made, and with the next breath he says his office will "stand 100 per cent behind Dierks." It must be apparent to everybody that Vivian approves the brutal conduct of his subordinate and that Vivian's talk of an investigation is merely a stall to allay public indignation.

Vivian is just as unfit to be a federal prohibition administrator as Dierks is unfit to be a prohibition enforcement agent. The very fact that he countenances such brutality as Dierks has been guilty of is enough to warrant Vivian's immediate removal.

The killing of Smith was one of the worst outrages that ever disgraced this community. The thought of Dierks, a large man, 6 feet in height and weighing around 200 pounds, cracking the skull of Smith, who was only 5½ feet in height and weighed 134 pounds, is enough to make the blood of any human being boil. Dierks didn't need to use his gun as a club to handle such a small prisoner, but he happens to be the type which is made overbearing and cruel by a little power and authority.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

"HOW QUEER we humans are!" We had hoped against hope that people would quit sending us chain letters with instructions to make nine copies and mail at once. If done, then a big piece of good luck within a few days; if not, then sorrow, death, winter itch! The one we got yesterday contained the sad things that happened to those who had broken the chain. Mr. Wells' house was burned down the sixth day; Mr. Smith's auto turned over in the ditch; Mr. Robinson's head became quite bald. And as we tossed the chain letter into the biggest waste paper basket in the office we wondered if people really do make nine copies of those things and send them on. And if they do, then what's the use of building schoolhouses and colleges?

TEMPUS FUGIT.

Where has yesterday gone?
How I wish that I knew!
There were so many things
That I wanted to do.

I had barely begun
On the tasks of the day
When somehow and somewhere
It vanished away.

And if I could find it
—I'd say, with a smile,
"Today I'll do something That's really worth while."

But yesterday's gone:
And this, also, is true—
Tomorrow, today
Will be yesterday, too!

"$600,000,000 IN YULE FUNDS."—Headline. Christmas is a lovely season, the most loved of all our anniversaries. We look forward to it with such yearning, the illiterate and those without imagination are even said to count the days that intervene. But there is, as Cleopatra said to Marc Antony, "a thorn in every rose, a fly in every ointment, a roon or a nooze or a constitooshun in every radio program." Thus it is with Christmas. Just when we commence to look forward to it, smiling somewhat wanly, but none the less smiling, up jumps somebody to call it "Yule." It just kills the darn thing so far as we're concerned.

Dick. If it aint one thing its 2 others up at that battle-ground of mine. They call the apartment Three G.B. It oughta be called One H.L. I gets home one night lass week as hungry as tha base drummer in Coxies Army an tha damn supper table aint even set. Being a perfect gentleman of the very 1st waters I nonshalontly inquires in my usual suave manner, "Fer cryin out loud, em I eatin in my own domicile or do I gotta hamburg at the Greeks again?", to which my darling spouse replys in her delightful ever charming manner, "You gotta helova lotta nerve bustin in with a armful of sarkasm after checking in this morning at ½ past 3 by tha light of tha stars, smelling like Jupiters granpa an full of Moon!" Well, I'm in no mood fer a lesson in astronomy, all I wanna know is do I eat off'n tha weekly allowance or not and she cracks back with "Maybe you mean tha weakly allowance, dearie." After 10 minutes more of brilliant repartee, pro an con, I gets told that if I wanted to wait till she fixes some waffles its oke with her, if not I cood eat where I damned pleased. I've eaten them rubber waffles so often I figger that stomack of mine must look like a nonskid tire. Between 6 and 7 o'clock were not talking. It wood suit me better if she made it between 7 an 6. Getting into tha whys an where fores, tha reason for tha non-eating contest was that tha B an C had been thru a hectic afternoon with tha girl frens. Seems they got a notion they can end tha depression by throwing a card party fur tha rest of tha unemployed. The hens are setting on tha following program, 16 of em each pay 50c thereby netting 8 bucks. Our house is selected cause only 3 of our chairs are wobbly. So as none of tha buzzards will talk about us I'm presented with a list of junk to bring home, it includes 4 prizes, score cards, 4 decks cards, 3 bottles olives an 2 lbs candy. Looks like tha only thing tha hens are donating will be burnt holes in tha table cloth an carpet, an borrowing of 6 to 8 books. After estimating what all tha junk is gonna cost me it looks like tha unemployed gets 8 bucks relief an I am relieved 9 bucks. Me, being a studerft in eckenomics, I figger if ya opened a bizness an run it her way tha sheriff wood be tha guest of honor at tha grand opening. A MIGRAINE SUFFERER.

AN intelligent man, who has long wrestled with the migraine habit, tells us of remedies that have been of service with him.

"No medical or other intervention ever cured migraine. The sufferer should be thoroughly overhauled and any defects or lesions impairing function, especially in eyes, teeth, throat, and pelvis, removed. He should regulate his diet, his sleep, and his daily routine. Probably every patient should have recourse to a nightly laxative, preferably aloin, which may be taken with benefit for a lifetime. But the great and only specific is cannabis indica, which not infrequently gives almost complete remission as long as exhibited, but little longer. Individual attacks yield to calomel, which should be taken at the first prodromal symptom, in one dose, not in one-tenths, and followed by a saline. Thus attacks impending may often be aborted, and in any event there is no excuse for days of misery, all too common.

"Cannabis is harmless and foolproof to all but the fools, whose name, unfortunately, is legion, to whom bread pills or other placebos are habit forming. To handle calomel efficiently is an art which each patient must acquire for himself; and calomel may be subject to abuse, albeit the prejudice against it is largely superstition. It certainly does something in migraine that no other drug will or can do, though for those who cannot take calomel, podophyllin may answer, imperfectly.

"No very beneficent or lasting results may reasonably be expected unless or until the patient is willing to pay meticulous attention to his daily life. Dietary indiscretions or excesses, insufficient sleep, scant ingestion of fluids, emotion, excitement [even pleasurable], sex indulgence, overwork, will singly or combined defeat almost any medical intervention or remedial measures.

"Beginners often suffer no more than one explosion in months, or even a year or more, ascribed usually to some food eaten; it is not to them that this message is directed. But migraine uniformly tends to greater frequency and severity as the years go by. It is not unusual for a patient to end in two or three seizures a week, with a constant fag headache incident to pain and loss of sleep. To such, a really active life is well-nigh an impossibility. Unfortunately, many subjects are thought, by their unfeeling and skeptical relatives, to be malingering, and are thus able to protect themselves with difficulty or not at all.

"In truth, a well established and pronounced migraine is one of the greatest tragedies of life, for its victim probably undergoes more physical and mental misery than falls to the lot of several hundred normal individuals, and at its worst it is capable of wrecking any career. There is some hope of melioration, even for the most abject, in a prophylactic regimen, and in resort, under experienced medical supervision, to the medication indicated."

SHAKING UP THE LIVER.

E. M. writes:

1. Is there any means of stimulating action of the liver in a semi-tropical climate, without resorting to laxatives, medicines, etc.?

2. Are there fruits or vegetables which, if taken in their natural state, raw, or cooked, would have the mentioned effect? Please name them.

3. Could an impingement of a nerve at the vertebrae cause a poor liver?

REPLY.

1. Have you tried horseback riding? Or rowing? Bending exercises are valuable. About two-thirds of our opinions about torpid liver are incorrect. Nine-tenths of the so-called liver medicines have no effect on the liver except as every purge acts indirectly.

2. No, except as they would give the liver something of a rest. Eggs, meat, fats, sauces, and condiments make the liver work overtime. Ordinary nonsweetened fruits and vegetables throw less work on that organ.

3. No.

CHILBLAINS.

Good Luck writes: I have lived in Wyoming and know what it is to suffer from chilblains. They are caused from placing one's very cold feet too near a hot stove. People living in stove heated houses suffer more from them. I am sure that if you keep your feet away from the hot stove your chilblains will leave you. No other treatment is necessary. If I were not so sure that this is the only cure I would not bother to write this.

REPLY.

Your theory is nearly right and your method is nearly perfect as a preventive. As a cure it is helpful, but it leaves something to be desired. Unfortunately, the ex will get in the ditch, and most people who are interested want to know how to get him out. A person who has had frostbite and has chilblains should follow your advice, and then do whatever else may be necessary.

LEECHES SOMETIMES USED.

F. W. H. writes:

1. Does the medical profession still use leeches?

2. If so, for what disease?

3. What length of time are they generally applied?

4. Where can one purchase them?

REPLY.

1. Very seldom.
2. For black eyes and local inflammations and congestions.
3. Until they drop off.
4. A few drug stores sell them.

CAR LINE EXTENSION.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—As it will be some time before the tracks are elevated at Archer avenue, it would be a great aid to the people employed at the stockyards and points east of the yards and living west of 47th and Archer should it be possible to extend the 47th street car line to the railroad at 47th and Archer avenue before the frost sets in. A. J. J.

An extension of the 47th street line is not at present contemplated. The new transportation ordinance provides for the extension of 47th street from Kedzie avenue to Cicero avenue. It is improbable, however, that any action will be taken until the new ordinance is accepted by the companies. Proceedings are now pending before the Supreme court of this state, and a decision is expected this fall. If this ruling is favorable the ordinance may be accepted early in 1932, in which event the extension of this line to Archer avenue will very likely be constructed during the coming year.

CODICIL TO WILL.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I made a will drawn by a lawyer and duly signed by witnesses. Now I wish to add a codicil and want to know if it will be legal to write same in longhand and attach to the original, which I hold, or do I have to consult the lawyer at added expense? A. M.

The codicil should be executed in the same manner as a will. We consider it poor economy to try to dispense with the service of an attorney.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 16, 1915.

MILAN.—The Corriere Della Sera reports that Earl Kitchener, the British war secretary, has arrived at Mudros on the Island of Lemnos in the Ægean sea. Recently British and French transports have been reported in the harbor of Mudros, which probably is being used as a base for the operations in both the Dardanelles and the Balkans.

LONDON.—Preliminary arrangements for Anglo-American banking credit to relieve the exchange situation have been completed, the Times understands. The plan provides for the raising of a first credit of $50,000,000 in New York. Subsequent credits also are contemplated which would bring the total up to about $400,000,000.

BERLIN.—The war office gave out the following report on Balkan operations: "Our pursuit continues everywhere. Yesterday a total of 8,500 Serbians were made prisoners. Of these the Bulgarians captured 7,000 men."

LONDON.—On the eastern battle front the Russians are continuing their offensive in the north and have driven the Germans back several miles farther from Riga. In the center the Germans have repulsed Russian attacks. In the south the Austro-Germans have thrown the Slavs back across the Styr river in the Russian province of Volhynia.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson instructed Postmaster General Burleson to restore George Burkitt unconditionally to the position of assistant postmaster at Winnetka, Ill., from which he was discharged for remarking in conversation that the President ought to have waited longer after the death of Mrs. Wilson before becoming engaged to Mrs. Galt. The President held the course of his subordinate in discharging Burkitt was wholly unwarranted and ordered the reinstatement.

NOVEMBER 16, 1901.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The 20 round fight for the heavyweight championship of the world between Jim Jeffries of Los Angeles and Gus Ruhlin of Akron, O., proved a fistic surprise and fiasco, as it ended in the fifth round with Madden throwing up the sponge for Ruhlin, who, he admitted, never had a chance from the first round. In the first round Ruhlin sized up fairly well as he kept dancing around the ring, but it was plainly evident that he stood in fear of the terrific right and left jolts which Jeffries landed almost at will on his neck and heart and on the solar plexus region.

NEW YORK.—Gathmann's dynamite shell, fired from his big 18 inch rifle, the largest gun in the world, proved a failure in a test at Sandy Hook, but a 12 inch army gun produced results that may revolutionize naval warfare. Its shell penetrated armor 11½ inches thick and exploded.

METUCHEN, N. J.—Mary E. Wilkins, the novelist, is now Mrs. Charles M. Freeman. Just when they were married is not known, but Dr. Freeman returned from a several days' absence yesterday. His bride was with him. He announced his marriage to Miss Wilkins.

CHICAGO.—Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field Jr. have returned from England to reside permanently in Chicago. They are at present at the residence of Marshall Field, 1905 Prairie avenue. They will occupy their own residence at 1917 Prairie avenue.

NOVEMBER 16, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—Nine jurors have been secured in the trial of Charles J. Guiteau for the murder of President Garfield, and another panel of seventy-five talesmen has been ordered. The jurors secured yesterday are Michael Sheehan, "an Irishman with a pronounced brogue," who said he believed Guiteau "was out of his head"; George W. Gates, a machinist; Samuel T. Hobbs, a plasterer, and Ralph Wormley [colored], a plasterer. There were few incidents of importance in connection with the trial during the day. Guiteau was jeered and hissed as he left the court and the cowardly wretch sought shelter behind a big policeman.

PARIS.—Gambetta outlined his program to the chamber of deputies when he presented his new cabinet. His program embraces the reform of the judicial system, the perfection of the national education system, completion of military legislation and the extension of foreign commerce by treaties.

NEW YORK.—The steamer Bohemia brought over 169 Jewish exiles from Russia and Germany, being the first that found asylum in Spain from persecution. They were assisted to this country by the Alliance Israel Universelle. The steamer Silesia will bring 250 more next Wednesday and it is said that 5,000 will come to this country this winter.

NEW YORK. — Funeral services over the late Mrs. Edwin Booth will be held tomorrow at the residence of J. H. McVicker, with the Rev. Robert Collyer officiating. The remains will leave for Chicago in the evening.

INTERPRETING JAPANESE ACTIONS.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 9.—Permit me to call attention to one or two points which seem to be generally overlooked in the public discussion of the Manchurian imbroglio. In the first place, what moral rights has the United States in a strictly Asiatic problem? We insist on both Europe and Asia keeping out of our own policies in the western hemisphere; is it then justifiable for us to back up a European league in its attempts to bolster up the pretensions of bandit-ridden China against the claims of a nation which stands as much for order and progress as any of its European critics?

Again, if we compare Japan's position in Manchuria with our own in the Philippines, is there not cause for surprise that Japan has not long ago annexed outright a territory which she rescued at great cost of blood and treasure from the maw of Russia? When Spain's power collapsed in 1898 we did not hesitate to appropriate outright all her Asiatic possessions besides those in the West Indies, and the Philippines are 7,000 miles away from America, whereas Manchuria is almost on Japan's doorstep. If justifiable in the one case, why not in the other? Or has a white man a God-given right to help himself to whatever he wants and can take, while the Asiatics must take their orders from Europe?

Also, one must not overlook the past conduct of the principal league members in their treatment of China! Do not the French and British princely colonies of Indo-China, Burma, etc., and Germany's historic rape of Shantung exhibit in concrete form the greed which motivated these, and which, but for the rise of Japan, would not have hesitated to parcel out all China among themselves? Now they see danger of Japan appropriating what they had hoped to possess; hence the very evident antagonism towards the Japanese exhibit of their own beloved aggressive policy. The white man evidently expects of a heathen nation a more disinterested policy than he himself ever practiced! REV. R. C. MCADIE.

FROM DR. VOLLBEHR.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—As the Library of Congress received through me, with my 2,999 other incunabula, the great Gutenberg Bible on vellum, formerly in the St. Paul monastery in Corinthia, called the oldest and most valuable book in the world, I was very much interested in the dispatch in your great paper dated London, Nov. 8.

This dispatch recounted the purchase by a private collector of the paper copy of the Gutenberg Bible for considerably more than $100,000. As I can probably call myself an expert as to these questions, I should like to correct certain statements in the London cablegram. It was about twenty years ago that Henry P. Huntington, the great philanthropist in Pasadena, bought a copy of the Gutenberg Bible on vellum for $50,000, but unfortunately the Bible was incomplete, with some leaves on the end missing. The last sale of the vellum copy took place in 1926. It was the above mentioned St. Paul copy. The Benedictines received from me in cash $375,000. This included the Austrian government's export tax, amounting to $25,000, and the seals for the contract, $5,000. This copy is now in the Library of Congress.

There are only three complete copies on vellum extant—one is in the British museum, London; the other in Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris; and the third, the above mentioned copy in the Library of Congress, Washington, is the best of all. You may remember that Mr. Rosenbach, the great book dealer and expert on old books in Philadelphia, in an article which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, prophesied that the sale of the next Gutenberg Bible on vellum, if one would by chance come on the market, would bring a million dollars.

The book of Edwin Emerson, "Incunabula Incunabulorum," tells everything about the St. Paul copy in the Vollbehr collection.

TO SAVE MONEY.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—In line with Mayor Cermak's economy program I suggest that the lighting system at 79th street, between Western and Cicero avenues, be discontinued until such time as this section is built up. There are no more than four or five buildings on 79th street west of Western to the city limits; also no sidewalks, so consequently there are no pedestrians. WM. C. LARSEN.

JUDGES OF THE WORLD COURT.

Easton, Pa., Nov. 10.—It is surprising to find John W. Davis associating himself with the gross misrepresentations persistently disseminated by world court propaganda:

As chairman of the committee on foreign relations of the American foundation he writes that our delegates to The Hague have "urged the other nations of the world to establish just such a world court as has now been working successfully for nine years." In 1907 Elihu Root, secretary of state, in his instructions to our delegates to The Hague, "emphasized the importance" [said his successor, Charles Evans Hughes, quoting these instructions with approval in 1923] of a court which should be, in Mr. Root's own language, "composed of judges who are judicial officers and nothing else . . . who will devote their entire time to the trial and decision of international causes by judicial methods and under a sense of judicial responsibility."

Does this describe "just such a world court" as the present? The judges of the present court do not devote their entire time, or even most of their time, to the trial and decision of international causes. They devote most of their time to rendering advisory opinions, which decide nothing at all, to serve as makeweights for the purposes of the league of nations. They are not judicial officers and nothing else. They are, in greater part, attorneys for the league, furnishing their client upon request with advisory opinions which, as they advise nothing, so they impose no sense of judicial responsibility.

Mr. Davis further writes that the conditions attached by the senate to its resolution providing for our adherence to the court "are now satisfied by the pending treaties." This is best answered by the texts, which the propagandists rarely quote. One of the senate's conditions was that the court shall not "without the consent of the United States entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest." Toward satisfying this condition, the pending protocol of adherence provides in ambiguous language that if the United States objects to a request for an advisory opinion and after an exchange of views "it shall appear that no agreement can be reached and the United States is not prepared to forego its objection, the exercise of the powers of withdrawal provided for in Article VIII. here will follow naturally" . . . with nothing to prevent the court from going on to render the opinion. Mr. Davis seems to consider that the senate's condition is satisfied by pointing the United States to the door whenever the condition is about to be violated. JOHN W. FARQUHAR.

SLOW PAY.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—If every person who could, would pay his bills, both small and large, promptly, many business men would not be forced to close their doors, and become members of the army of unemployed. I personally know wealthy people, also others not so wealthy, who put off their creditors for months, and only pay when they get good and ready.

Every business man in the country should keep a record of those who can pay promptly, but won't, and when conditions return to normal, and business is good, refuse these slackers further credit. CONSTANT READER.

WRITTEN IN GREEN INK.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 10.—Again that old time-honored bromide about the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame asserts itself. Always a great wheeze and always good for a laugh. Each one each year thinks he has put out something original and now we see the "Fighting Irish" gag.

The late Knute Rockne, fifteen years ago, first said [and it certainly holds good for the Notre Dame squad of today]: "They're all Irish to me. They have the Irish spirit, and that's what counts." T. J. WALSH.

GREEK.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—John Hochschmidt says President Hoover is a practical man and has never needed Greek to get where he is today. Premier Laval of France, a more successful statesman than President Hoover, started out as a wretchedly poor boy and almost the first thing he did was learn Greek. The French are a practical people. Greek is an essential part of French education. Perhaps this country would be better off if President Hoover had learned Greek and studied Greek history and Greek thought. T. E. MILL.

DANGERS SIGHTED IN GROWING U. S. RULE OF SCHOOLS

Committee Urges Return to Local Autonomy.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A return to the early American tradition and practice of local autonomy in management of schools, as distinct from the recent dangerous tendency toward federal intervention and control, forms the chief recommendation in the report of the National Advisory Committee on Education which is made public today.

At the same time, in what a minority of the committee declare to be a recommendation inconsistent with the spirit of the report, it is asked that a new department be added to the government, that of Secretary of Education, for the purpose of coördinating all the educational activities of the government. These are now found to be in such a chaotic condition that no one knows their extent and ramifications.

Purpose of Department.

The functions of the proposed new department, as outlined in the report, are to collect "such statistics and facts as shall show the condition and progress of education in the several states and territories," and to diffuse "such information respecting the organization and management of schools and school systems and the methods of teaching as shall aid the people of the United States in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school systems, and will otherwise promote the cause of education throughout the country."

This committee, which has prepared its report for President Hoover after two years of work, consists of 51 of the foremost educators of the country. The final vote on the report as a whole was 41 to 8.

The committee had the aid of many cooperating groups. The Chicago member of the committee was Dr. Charles H. Judd, director of the school of education at the University of Chicago. Prof. George A. Works of the University of Chicago was special consultant.

Headed by C. R. Mann.

The chairman was C. R. Mann, director of the American Council on Education. The studies of the committee were made possible by a grant of $100,000 from the Julius Rosenwald fund and were carried out under the direction of Henry Suzzallo, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

The report is published in two volumes, one on recommendations and findings and one on basic facts. As to the educational situation in the federal government at present, the report states:

"It is not possible to list accurately or comprehensively all the formal educational activities of the federal government. No office of the government provides such comprehensive information.

"Governmental reports do not reveal all that is done in the field of education by the federal government; but it is clear that there is not a single aspect of education which is not a concern of some branch of the federal government."

A Changing Federal Policy.

The change in federal relations to education in the states is described as follows:

"The American tradition and practice of local autonomy in management of schools grew naturally out of the conditions of pioneer life. . . . From the revolution to the civil war, the federal government encouraged and financially aided education in the states. . . . Throughout this period, its spirit and acts were in harmony with the principle of state and local autonomy.

"With the Morrill act of 1862, the federal government changed both its policy and its procedure. Where before it had been solely interested in the encouraging and aiding of states to provide educational facilities as a whole without emphasizing special phases of the curriculum, it now entered upon a program of stimulating and favoring with financial grants specialized types of aspects of education in order to extend them rapidly throughout the states.

The Smith-Hughes Act

"The extent to which federal legislation has tended to remove final control of education from the states to the federal government may be indicated by citing the last important act establishing a new and extensive program of federal participation, the Smith-Hughes act of 1917. This act requires the final approval of the federal board for vocational education for every state plan adopted. The plan must be initiated by a state, but it can be rejected by the federal agencies.

"The American people must face the problem of conflict between our traditional policy of state and local autonomy and this growing trend toward federal centralization. It is the conviction of this committee that harm results when intimacy between schools and their patrons and neighbors is disturbed by remote control of a distant authority.

"Weakened personnel and local responsibility for so important a social function as public education may ultimately sap the foundations of popular interest and of support which historically have been among the major factors in the development by the United States of the most democratic system of education in the world."

Danger of U. S. Entry.

"The apparent danger that lurks in all our more recent attempts to inject the federal government into education in the local communities is that it has not always nor even generally manifested that tender regard for local modes of management which has characterized state and county coöperations with local schools. Federal agencies frequently tend to set up modes of management highly centralist in spirit and effect, wherever they have tried to work in coöperation with statewide agencies and local boards.

"This development of administrative power by the federal government in highly specialized fields of education presents a threat that cannot longer be ignored. Unless there is an early reversal of policy, further federal participation in special phases of education within the states will involve us in a form of incoördinated centralization with evils far greater than those which characterize some of the European governments."

Decentralization Is Urged.

To the end that education may be again decentralized the committee advocates abandonment both of federal appropriations to the states for special forms of education of interest to special groups of people and of the practice of requiring that federal appropriations be matched by the states.

A continuance of federal aid to the states in education is indorsed, provided that each state is left free to use the money as state authorities consider to be for the best interests of the people of the state and without direction from Washington.

The office of education now in the department of the interior is regarded as a nucleus for the new department recommended in the report. It is emphatically stated, however, that such a department must not be used to encourage centralization. As stated in the report, it would have "no legal or financial power and no regulatory or executive authority, direct or indirect, explicit or implied, by which it may control the social purposes and specific processes of education."

POLICE PREPARE TO PROSECUTE GANG ARMORER

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker declared yesterday that he hopes to make an example of Louis Scaramuzzo, in whose possession ten revolvers were found with the serial numbers defaced. A raid on Scaramuzzo's gunsmith shop two weeks ago resulted in the finding of 64 pistols which Scaramuzzo said belonged to men who had taken them to him for repairs.

"Under the new state law possession of a gun with altered or defaced numbers is prima facie evidence of the guilt of the possessor," said Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne. The prosecutor and Chief Schoemaker discussed a probable defense by Scaramuzzo, who might try to show that he had nothing to do with the destroying of the numbers on the guns.

"I am satisfied the hoodlums took their guns to him to have him file off the numbers," Chief Schoemaker said.

COURT WILL FIX DATE TODAY FOR PASCHEN TRIAL

Christian P. Paschen's income tax case is to be called in the federal court of Judge John P. Barnes today, to be set for trial. The former city building commissioner is charged in indictments with willful attempts to evade and defeat $118,497 in income taxes, on an alleged income of $568,925 for the years 1927 and 1928.

Federal prosecutors have indicated that they will not seek a trial date earlier than Jan. 1, since considerable work remains to be done on the evidence against Paschen and the prosecutors are now busy on Al Capone's income tax case appeal.

The trial of Paschen is expected to disclose flagrant official misconduct, according to federal investigators. Paschen's term as building commissioner was marked by many charges of fraud, and in a civil proceeding a draftsman testified that bribes were solicited and paid in his office.

ADVISORY GROUP TELLS OF NEED OF SCHOOL LUNCHES

Committee Studies Work of Children's Fund.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4155 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

People still are saying: "Surely these stories about hungry school children can't be true." But Mrs. Thomas B. Stephenson, district director of the Illinois Congress of Parent and Teachers, after an investigation, says that far more remains to be told than has yet been impressed on the public.

Mrs. Stephenson is one of four women appointed the latter part of October by Superintendent William J. Bogan to coöperate with Miss Frances L. Swain as an advisory committee on the administration of the Hungry School Children's fund. The others were Mrs. James Graham, also representing the Parent-Teachers, and Mrs. Samuel T. Lawton and Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz of the Chicago Association for Child Study. The committee members have paid numerous visits to the schools since then.

Tells of Visiting Schools.

"You asked when I was appointed," Mrs. Stephenson wrote in part yesterday in a communication to this newspaper, "whether these stories seemed overdrawn. I say, emphatically, 'No.'

"We visited one school in the steel mills district and a boy came in who had had no food in two days. The visiting nurse went to this home and found absolutely no food in the house. There is another lad who is hungry, his teacher is sure, but all he will answer is 'O, I'm all right.' These people have made good wages in industrial plants, but now some of them get only two days work a week and many have no jobs at all.

"A mothers' group plans to clothe all they can. In fact, Mrs. O'Neill, the president, had just bought four pairs of rubber soles to be glued on for some children whose feet were on the ground, and was going back with another pair that evening. They have collected some clothes for high school students, too, and found that about twelve or fifteen were staying home for lack of carfare."

Season Increases Needs.

Each day at this time of year increases the need in the schools, according to the teachers. Present needs, by comparison, are considerably greater than when the fund was started, at the beginning of October. Twenty-three thousands dollars has been raised so far, but in view of the thousands of children who should now be added to the list receiving free lunches, the total seems small. Even the smaller gifts are welcome.

Yesterday receipts for the fund amounted to $145.10, as follows:

In the mail accompanying the donations was the following communication from Eldorado, Ark.: "I am a little girl seven years old. I am sick in bed. Daddy gave me a dime to take some bad medicine. I was going to take it to school when I get well and buy something. My mama read me about the hungry children in Chicago, so I want her to send it to you and you buy some little girl or boy one good meal for me with it. Yours truly, Yvonne Armstrong."

Yvonne's dime will buy not only one lunch, but two. Or it will purchase a good filling lunch for one junior high school student, all because one little girl swallowed her 'bad medicine.'

AUTOISTS URGED TO TURN ON REAR LIGHTS IN STORM

The Chicago Safety Council in a bulletin last night urged that all motorists keep the rear lights of their automobiles burning during foggy or stormy weather. Rear-end collisions are nearly as numerous as head-on crashes, especially when vision is obscured by fog, heavy rain, sleet, or snow, the bulletin said.

Five men were injured yesterday in a collision between a private automobile and a taxicab at Crawford and Kedzie avenues. They are Robert Pfeuger, 3421 North Claremont avenue, the taxi driver; and four men in the other car, James Riordah, 4656 Maypole avenue; Gus Roberts, 2524 North Central Park avenue; Norman Fleming, 330 North Hamlin avenue; and a man believed to be Eugene McCarthy, 4452 Maypole avenue. Fleming and McCarthy were seriously hurt. The police said the car in which the four were riding bore stolen license plates.

Joseph Szuszalski, 34 years old, 1054 West 31st place, was killed yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding skidded on U. S. highway 12, north of New Buffalo, Mich., and crashed against a truck. It was the 32d fatal accident on Berrien county roads this year.

With no fatalities reported in Cook county yesterday, the motor death toll for the county since Jan. 1 remained at 1,116.

Burglars Carry Safe Away from Home; Get $1,000

Burglars broke into the home of Philip Francis at 6557 Laflin street yesterday afternoon, busied themselves in the basement for an hour or more, and then departed. They took with them a steel safe eighteen inches wide and three feet high. In the safe reposed $1,000 in cash and $6,000 in real estate bonds. They were the property of Francis and his brother-in-law, F. Salvortora.

MOVES TO SLASH ARMY PERSONNEL IN WASHINGTON

MacArthur Plans to Send 100 Officers to Field.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—A war department investigation designed to cut down overhead both in Washington and at all army corps headquarters now is being conducted under direction of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff. The plan as outlined today is to reduce the number of officers and enlisted men on duty at Washington and at the corps headquarters to the very minimum consistent with efficiency.

DOUGLAS MACARTHUR. [Harris & Ewing.]

According to information current today, Gen. MacArthur expects to cut the number of officers assigned to Washington by 100, bringing the total down from around 550 to around 450. Proportional reductions are to be made at other headquarters. Some cuts in enlisted men on duty at the capital also is planned. Personnel released from duty in Washington as a result of the survey would be utilized in the field where shortages now occur.

Washington Posts Popular.

Washington never has been fully demobilized of officers and men since world war days. Duty in the capital usually has been popular with army officers and their families. The result has been that more officers have been maintained here than now are considered necessary.

For some time Gen. MacArthur has been represented as believing that too many staff officers are maintained in Washington. The increased number of officers has an increased amount of paper work and ultimately in increased federal expenses. At present there are 103 staff officers in duty in the capital. About thirty-five officers are working in the adjutant general's office, another forty-three in the judge advocate general's department, fifty-two in the quartermaster general's branch, forty-four in the ordnance branch and thirty-one in the office of the assistant secretary of war. Numerous other officers are assigned to other branches, such as the infantry, cavalry and artillery.

Would Cut Paper Work.

More than a year ago, Inspector General H. A. Drum recommended that much of the army's paper work be eliminated in the interests of efficiency. One thing that now takes up considerable effort and time on the part of officer personnel is the preparation of the voluminous annual reports by the various branch chiefs and the secretary and assistant secretaries of war. In some cases two or three men work for months preparing the data for these reports.

Thus far no move has been made to cut down naval officer and enlisted personnel assigned to Washington. Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder precipitated a tempest when he urged that such a step be taken two or three years ago. He charged that Washington was top heavy with admirals and officers who should be out with the fleet or in school.

NEW YORK RELIEF MEN TO CANVASS HOUSE TO HOUSE

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Pressing forward in its campaign to raise a fund of $18,000,000 to provide jobs and relief for unemployed, the emergency unemployment relief committee here will launch a house to house canvass, throughout the city tomorrow in a mass effort to attain the goal of the campaign. More than 17,000 volunteers, men and women, will participate in the drive, under direction of former governor Alfred E. Smith. The block to block and house to house canvass will continue for 10 days.

Attention was called to the fact that the emergency unemployment relief committee, headed by Harvey D. Gibson, is a private organization of prominent citizens and business men and has no relation to any of the unemployment relief work conducted by the city and now under investigation by the Hofstadter committee inquiring into municipal affairs.

While final plans were completed today for the big drive to begin this morning, registration of unemployed men and women by the emergency work and relief bureau of the Gibson committee mounted to 73,450, it was announced by Raymond W. Houston, work bureau manager. Placements at emergency work are now proceeding at the rate of at least 650 a day.

NATIONS BATTLE FOR BLUE RIBBON OF THE ATLANTIC

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Tribune Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—More trans-Atlantic "round trips" per season, more room for passengers, the least possible expense for all of this, and a "sure fire" publicity campaign so that every voyage will bring a full passenger list—such are the characteristics of the ideal ocean liner, as seen from the standpoint of owners, the men whose conditions must be met by designers and builders of ships.

Of the many ocean greyhounds, the two which best fulfill these conditions are the Europa and the Bremen, pride of the North German Lloyd.

After a year of tracking back and forth across the Atlantic in record breaking time, the type of these two vessels has proved its performing and earning ability. In a season during which tourist travel fell off alarmingly, the Europa and the Bremen have suffered less than the once world's greatest vessels.

Rivals Follow Suit.

Part of the success of these new liners is due to novelties and improvements adopted in their construction. French, British, and Italian competitors have hastened to follow suit and are building new "superliners," even though the world is now than sufficiently supplied with passenger ship tonnage.

At least until 1935, when rival liners of other countries have been launched, the German sea giants expect to hold their blue ribbons. And future ocean greyhounds will embody the ideas used in the German vessels, which have passed the test of service.

Such is the opinion of the prominent naval architect, Dr. E. Foerster, designer of a host of great ships, including the Leviathan and the Majestic, the pride of the German mercantile marine until they were turned over to the United States and England during the war.

In the annals of German naval architecture, the Bremen and Europa stand out in all the elements of steamship construction—hull design, generation of steam, and conversion of steam into power, namely engines.

Why Liners Stand Out.

The improvements embodied in the Bremen and the Europa, which enabled them to steal a march on the world in the field of naval construction, and obliged three other European mercantile marine powers to relinquish the older type of boat in favor of their type have been analyzed by German naval architects.

To begin with, as Herr Foerster points out, the improvements which enabled the boats to surpass the steamship speed record of 22 years' standing are the following:

The hull design, including the so called "bulbous bow," and a reduction in weight achieved through the use of light steel; vastly more efficient oil fired water tube boilers equipped with superheaters; triple expansion turbines driving four giant propellors through reduction gearing.

The "bulbous bow" idea came from America. It was the invention of Admiral Taylor and was first introduced on the liner Malolo, a 20,000 ton ship running between San Francisco and the Hawaiian islands. It is a particular, bulging design of the under water portion of the ship's bow, which reduces head resistance and hence, increases speed.

These improvements account for the 27 knots speed of the vessels.

New Type of Engine.

"But by far the greatest advantages of the Bremen over previous types," Foerster said, "are to be found in the boilers and engines. A comparison with the equipment of the Leviathan reveals, first of all, the enormous progress made in high pressure steam generation. The Leviathan's 46 single ended water tube boilers supply vapor for engines of 60,000 to 70,000 horsepower. The Bremen and the Europa have only 11 double ended boilers and 9 single ended boilers, though they are ample for the 165,000 horse power turbines."

The Bremen and the Europa are 300 tons lighter than pre-war boats of the same dimensions and so it is that a crew of 1,000 and a passenger list of 2,200 in four different classes of cabins can be driven safely across the Atlantic in five days' running time, amid various degrees of luxury. Though each of the ships cost $15,000,000, each round trip between New York and Bremen has to date yielded a gross return of about $400,000.

FALL FATAL TO RAIL AGENT.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 15.—Complications resulting from a fractured hip received in a fall at his home here Nov. 4 proved fatal to William E. Blakeley, 57, baggagemaster at the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway station for the last 15 years. He was a native of Rockford, Ill., but had lived in Evansville for 35 years.

STUDY PUTS STRAIN ON YOUR CHILDREN

During School Days They Need Extra Nourishment

During the long school year, many children become pale, thin and tired. The strain of study is too great for the growing child in many cases. Thousands of mothers give to their children Father John's Medicine regularly.

It supplies the vitamins which they do not always get in their daily diet. Its special value is due to the fact that its basis is medicinal cod liver oil blended in a scientific way with other valuable ingredients easy to digest. Start giving it to your children today. Used in 134 Hospitals and Institutions.

Indiana Lady Thrilled! Loses 40 Pounds of FAT

Well-Known Indianapolis Woman Wins Big Reduction in Weight With New Battle Creek Treatment. Says Loss of Excess Pounds Makes Her Much Happier.

Suppose you weighed 235 pounds, and every time you looked in a mirror you were so discouraged as you gazed upon a huge double chin, heavy arms and legs, large hips and bust.

And suppose this over-fat condition made you too heavy for your own feet—until you felt constantly all dragged out, stomach upset, gas pains that made you cry out with pain.

And then you tried one thing after another—and you're all ready to give up in despair.

Such was the dilemma of Mrs. Upa Lutz, 533 Division St., Indianapolis, Indiana. Her druggist recommended Bonkora to her, which he knew to be the one safe, natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing moisture from fatty tissues. But let her tell her story:

"How is this for a speedy reduction of new weight—of those unwanted pounds that drag you down, undermine your health and make you look older than your years? A month ago I weighed 235 pounds—today 195—a loss of 40 pounds. My joy knows no bounds. I have lost 2 inches in the bust, 4 inches in the hips, and I can wear dresses 2 sizes smaller now. I used to suffer from headaches, dizzy spells and other ailments stout people think they must endure. I am so glad I heard of Bonkora, for I know it has helped me so much—not only in reducing, but my health is improved. Anyone knows those extra pounds off your feet would make a person much happier."

You may not want to lose 40 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages," as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of correct combinations of foods you probably like best furnished free.

Bonkora, the safe and effective method to reduce—recently perfected by a skilled chemist—contains only the choicest and most efficacious medicaments of Nature. No thyroid or other drug that may jeopardize your health.

Simply get a bottle of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, at your druggist's today—unhealthy fat will quickly disappear and with it bloat, gas, and other stomach ills. You'll feel younger; yes, you'll look younger with those bright eyes and that clear skin and stunning, youthful figure which only perfect health can impart.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Unlovely Sections Edge Low Fare Zone.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The squalor of New York City's suburbs lies like a grimy ring around this congested town. The subways cut Manhattan's acres with the regularity of furrows in a farmer's field, its jig saw puzzle buildings give it the appearance of a cemetery gone crazy with pride over monuments, and it is entirely surrounded by sewer laden waters. Nevertheless, its very congestion, its layer upon layer of stone, gives it a certain pattern of beauty and then, too, Manhattan is kept reasonably clean on the surface.

It is in the close lying suburban districts that the city's real ugliness becomes apparent. Here its polyglot population has been permitted to run riot and the result is unpleasant to the eye, distasteful to sensitive nostrils and unfortunate for those who have to live there.

Rim of Low Fare Zone.

Draw a great circle around the rim of the low fare rapid transit zone and it will take you through the mud bog fringes of Brooklyn, across the ash dumps of Queens, into the insect ridden swamp land between Flushing and Corona and on across Astoria and some of the most beautiful suburban territory in the world.

Jump across Riker's island with its smoldering garbage fires and one encounters that most unsightly area where the none too lovely Bronx is beginning to fade into the country and where aristocratic Westchester has not quite begun. The circle takes one on across the Hudson to New Jersey and her stagnant water "meadows" back of the Palisades and finishes its orbit where the dingy buildings on top of Staten island's red clay banks look across the narrows of the boy to Brooklyn.

No Community Pride.

Three things stand out among the many factors contributing to the squalor of New York City's suburbs. These, according to city planners who long ago admitted defeat, are the mixture of races, the vocational need for close in residential districts and the standardization of lives and homes. There is no community pride, few lawns or gardens even when there is space, and dirt rules throughout the area.

The boxlike, bare, unadorned two family houses that dot the landscape like discarded cartons on a dump heap frequently are referred to as "the Long Island type of architecture." There are thousands of them, line upon line, facing rutted alleys bearing such high sounding names as "King's boulevard," "Lindbergh lane," "Park avenue" and the like.

One may stand upon a pleasant hillside between Flushing and Jamaica twelve miles from the heart of Manhattan, and look down upon ten thousand such homes in three directions. The same "pea in a pod" type of architecture lines the streets of close in suburban Jersey, and Staten island has its thousands of standardized box houses.

A prominent architect says the same size cottage could be built along original lines for the $3,500 to $7,000 the box houses bring, but builders have found that the standardized type sells better. His explanation is that the middle class suburbanite in New York has become so standardized in his life that he fears anything different from that of his neighbor.

Lack of space cannot be blamed for the dinginess, dirt and general ugliness of this town's suburbs. There are plenty of wide open spaces—beautiful countrysides. The trouble is the suburbanites insist on huddling together and they can, in the opinion of former prideful villages lately linked to the inner suburban circle by subway extensions, make a dump heap out of a park settlement in three months.

Keeps Getting Worse.

General architectural unsightliness, lack of community pride and the inability to keep their surroundings clean are only a part of the squalor of the close-to-the-city surburbs. The streets are as dirty as the homes, nobody bothers to replant the trees cut down by the development company, the Rapid Transit lines take to stilts and nobody ever bothers to give the aging buildings a coat of paint. Billboards are everywhere.

Outside the ring of squalor, a commuter's ride from town, New York city's suburbs compare favorably with those of our other great centers. Westchester has been rightly called one of "America's garden spots," Long Island and New Jersey have their lovely villages, but there is a suburban circle just outside Manhattan that cannot be equaled anywhere in this country for sheer squalor and ugliness.

ROOSEVELT LEADS BY 8 TO 1 IN STRAW POLL TO LEAD DEMOCRACY

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt led all others by more than 8 to 1 in the fifth of a series of Democratic presidential polls made throughout the country by Jesse Isidor Straus, chairman of the emergency unemployment relief administration, it was announced today.

The poll, made in all states but New York in this case, was among the smaller business men, with $5,000 to $35,000 capital, of the smaller communities. In his previous polls, always showing Gov. Roosevelt the leader, Straus canvassed the country's larger business men, bankers and civic leaders.

Results of the latest poll were: Gov. Roosevelt, 806; Alfred E. Smith, 93; William H. Murray, 82; Owen D. Young, 58; Newton D. Baker, 48; Albert C. Ritchie, 30; Joseph T. Robinson, 20; James A. Reed, 10; William G. McAdoo, 3, and one vote each for Melvin A. Traylor, J. Hamilton Lewis, Pat Harrison, Joseph B. Ely, M. R. Patterson, Samuel Seabury, and Will Rogers.

GOV. ROOSEVELT MAKES DATE TO MEET AL SMITH

Secluded Luncheon Parley Arranged.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Gov. Al Smith—the former the outstanding aspirant for the Democratic nomination for president next year, the latter the titular leader of his party in the nation—will meet in secluded conversation at luncheon one day this week, prior to Gov. Roosevelt's departure for a holiday at Warm Springs, Ga.

No public announcement has been made of the coming conference, but it has been learned that it was sought by Gov. Roosevelt, not by his predecessor in office. Mr. Smith received the governor's invitation in a letter from Albany last week-end.

Object Not Revealed.

It was suggested in one quarter that there were many topics that Gov. Roosevelt might wish to discuss with his predecessor, such as the state budget and new taxes that may be necessary to meet the threatened deficit. Mr. Smith, in an address toward the end of the campaign, made some criticism of Gov. Roosevelt's fiscal program.

A different interpretation is expected to be placed on the meeting by Democratic politicians throughout the country. It is certain that it will be watched with interest by party leaders in other states who follow closely the controversy between Mr. Smith and Gov. Roosevelt over the reforestation amendment. Newspapers all over the United States characterized this dispute as a battle, purely political in its nature, in which Mr. Roosevelt won the victory.

The meeting of the two men will follow the extensive conferences between Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, Mr. Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee. With Governor Ritchie, also a presidential aspirant—the man on whom the Smith-Raskob group are said to be prepared to concentrate in next year's Democratic national convention—the conferences of last week have been regarded in political circles as the prelude to a drive for Ritchie delegates in states where the Democrats are not bound to other candidates.

Showdown Is Expected.

Occurring so soon after these developments and within a few weeks of the presidential primaries in some of the western states, there is little doubt that the meeting between Governor Roosevelt and Mr. Smith will be viewed by politicians all over the land as likely to bring a showdown between the two principals and have important consequences next year.

There is ground for the belief that Governor Roosevelt in sending the invitation was actuated by a desire to bring about, if not complete harmony and understanding on leading questions to come before the Democratic national convention, at least a modus vivendi to avert a stormy opening of that meeting which might later harm the party in a year which Democrats believe holds out a strong promise of victory.

OF THE FORD TRUCK

IN A ROAD improvement project in the mountains of Kentucky, sand and gravel are taken from the river bed, and loaded into dump trucks. The trucks have to run in the river for some distance before reaching a 14% grade, up which they must pull, loaded, to the highway.

When this work started there was but one Ford in the contractor's fleet. That performed in such an extraordinary manner that more were ordered, and today out of twelve trucks in this service, nine are Fords. One of them at the end of six months had a repair bill of only fifteen cents.

Such conditions of service are most unusual, and the fact that the Ford truck can stand them triumphantly, and win the preference of the operator, is significant to every truck owner, in the cities as well as in the country.

Ford truck reliability and economy are due to typical Ford features of mechanical design. The four-speed transmission enables the driver to cope successfully with the most difficult road and load conditions. The fact that the entire drive in all forward speeds is carried on ball and roller bearings lessens friction and insures long life to the transmission. The spiral bevel gear rear axle, with straddle-mounted pinion, is unusually sturdy. The three-quarter floating construction takes the weight off the drive shafts. These are but a few of the Ford features that give you "value far above the price."

There is a Ford truck for every business. You have a choice of more than 40 different bodies, including such diverse types as de luxe panel delivery, bus, platform, dump, garbage, coal, stake. Ask your Ford dealer to demonstrate the Ford truck that will lower your hauling costs. In addition, you can purchase a Ford truck or commercial car on easy terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.

Planter Wins Goncourt Prize by First Book

Conveys Spell of Malayan Scenes to Readers.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Malaisie," by Henri Fauconnier. [Macmillan.]

ONE of the most coveted literary prizes in Europe is the Goncourt prize offered each year in France. The winner of the prize for 1930 has just been published here in an English translation made by Eric Sutton, who translated "The Case of Sergeant Grischa." It retains its French title. It is an idyl, a Malayan symphony.

The author never had written before. He had spent fifteen years as a rubber planter in Malaya before he thought of writing his Malayan hymn. The book has the rare beauties of a volume conceived in love and born in the spiritual luxury of memory. Some one said every man has at least one book in him. That book always is the distillation of one's most intense experiences. M. Fauconnier may write other books, but this book is the book of himself. To him Malaya [Federated Malay States] was not only a place but an oddly potent being, almost a state of mind, of his own mind as well as of the native consciousness. It was something far more subtle than jungles and the songs of birds. Of those songs he has one of his characters say, "Don't you believe that when Wagner wrote 'Forest Murmurs' he must have been transported in spirit to those mountains! In Europe the birds don't sing, they chirp. Here he had only to copy what he heard; to note down the pattern of bird song against the vibration of the cicadas."

Those days in Malaya came to mean to him, in memory, such spiritual effusion of bliss that he found he could not write of some of them.

"The loveliest dreams are those we dare not tell," he writes, "because they would be tedious. No one would understand the thrill they had for us, and we ourselves have forgotten them because the fibers that they touched were too deeply set. We should never try to describe happiness. Those, the happiest days of my life, when we lived naked in the sunlight. I fear to think of them too much, lest, in my memory, they fade. I do not even want to meet with others like them. They are, to me, like a divine apparition that leaves a man blind, and I believe that the visionary is he who has no longer need of light."

That paragraph is in the tone of the whole book—a tone of ecstasy rarely met with in modern writing. It is a strange tale with a mystic power over the reader. When it is finished Malaya, that state of mind rather than any physical picture of an earthly scene, has become to the reader something of what it was to the author, who writes with such keen and such deep truth when he says that memories, too often dragged from their sanctuaries, often fade. M. Fauconnier has succeeded in sharing in a strangely rare fashion, a psychological experience induced by a place.

Have you ever realized how much more permanent some psychological experiences of places are than comparable psychological experiences of persons. One may have met one's true love on a mountain side in the French alps. Friendship may have been born for one in a country road on a western prairie. Death may have touched one at sea. Hatred may have reached heights of power in one's life on a London street. Paris may have comforted one in despair. But gradually as the memories of those emotions induced by human contacts are touched by time, they become more nebulous, even though one knows, when they are burned into one's consciousness that they will never fade either in glory or in terror. But the places where those emotions were born remain forever in one's consciousness, gradually assuming the qualities of the emotions, until it is the place and not the spiritual upheaval which grows clearer and clearer with the passage of the years. M. Fauconnier chronicles the birth of a great emotion—the emotion of friendship—sets it, like a jewel, in the delicately beautiful framework of the place where it was conceived and where it had its fruition. Then, viewing his emotion from the perspective of the years, he sees again the place, he feels again the spirit of the place more keenly than he sees a person or feels an emotion.

"Malaisie" is a subtle interpretation of a sensitive man's emotional reaction to places. It is written with beauty and a dignified aloofness from the accepted forms of description.

This Is Book Week Throughout the U. S.

This is national book week and juvenile reading commands especial emphasis. Writers, artists, poets, lecturers, dancers, and vocalists will turn their divergent talents to make this National Book week notable for the youngsters. Among those scheduled to participate locally in the exercises are Eunice Tietjens, poetess and globe trotter, who recently returned from the south seas; and Elmer and Bertha Hader, widely known illustrators of many books for children. Mrs. Tietjens will talk at the Henry E. Legler branch of the public library tomorrow afternoon on her travels. The Haders will appear on Thursday at the Frederick H. Hild branch.

Yale's Drama Department Gets Eugene O'Neill Bust

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—More than 1,400 New Haven citizens met in the Yale theater and presented to the university's department of drama a bust of Eugene O'Neill. These persons comprised the "special audience" which criticizes plays written and produced by the department. The bust was presented by Edwin P. Root, former chairman of the New Haven Clock company, and was accepted on behalf of the department by its director, Prof. George Pierce Baker.

Now here's a right entertaining little program picture!

The story, dealing with the racing and speakeasy side of life, is interesting and beautifully acted. The director understood what it was all about, and photographer and sound mixer did their part with a will.

If you don't find yourselves intrigued with the affairs of young Mrs. "Doggie," one time manicure girl who adores her young and irresponsible husband and is in turn the heart's desire of a not too ethical bookmaker, I'll be surprised. Mae Clarke, Norman Foster, and Ricardo Cortez are all SO likable! And SUCH smart players!

KIND: Yclept, musical comedy. [Yclept.]

PHOTOGRAPHY: Splendid.

DIRECTION: You say it.

ACTING: Ineffectual because of the script. Charlotte Greenwood, Bert Lahr, Charles Winniger, and Kathryn Crawford do their dead level best—but what's the use!

DIALOGUE: Banal and, at times, more than bordering on the vulgar.

Cardinal Dedicates New St. Gertrude's Church

Cardinal Mundelein dedicated the new $450,000 St. Gertrude's Catholic church at Granville and Glenwood avenues yesterday morning. The edifice, built in English Gothic style, is regarded one of the more beautiful in this city.

The church seats 1,212 persons. It was filled to capacity for the service. Many who came to the dedication stood reverently in the street throughout the entire ceremony.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Peter F. Shrewbridge, organizer and former pastor of the parish, was the celebrant at the solemn high mass. The preacher was the Rev. James F. Mertz, S. J., of the faculty of Loyola university. The Rev. B C. Heeney is the pastor of St. Gertrude's church. Under his leadership the new church was erected.

THE STAGE

EARL CARROLL'S "VANITIES."

Eighth edition of this revue, given at the Erlanger theater Nov. 15, 1931. Music and lyrics by Jay Gorney, E. J. Harburg, Harold Arlen, and Ted Kohler; dialogue by Eddie Welch and Charles Ashley.

The company:

Herbert Williams	Jack Benny
Mary Marlowe	Betty Veronica
Ruth Collette	Mildred Collette
Chaz Chase	Curtis Coly
John Hale	Julia Jenner
Claude Stroud	Clarence Stroud

And others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

ONE way to report a revue is to ransack the dictionary for voluptuous and carnal adjectives, seeking to imprison in print the physical allurements and mental enticements that the show has offered to its audience. Apropos of last night's première at the Erlanger, for example, an account written in this vein might start off as follows:

"The white, sleek bodies of Earl Carroll's nude nymphs gleamed with the pagan glamour of a senile sultan's reveries of an erotic paradise."

But there is too much strain in this style of theatrical reviewing for me. I have seen too many of these shows to get feverish about them, and I prefer to deal with them in a more casual manner. Every one knows by this time that when an Earl Carroll show comes to town you can take the girls and their lack of clothing for granted.

I counted thirty-six neat little votaries of Mr. Carroll's Nackt-Kult in the main herd of this "Vanities," and after giving them, one and all, a close scientific inspection I decided that their high priest was keeping faith with his public. He may be slightly bombastic when he claims to have a monopoly on the most beautiful girls in the world, but this is a pardonable delusion. However, I studied Mr. Carroll's thirty-six joys and prides in all their manifestations, beginning with frilly long skirts and ending with the minimum of beads, and decided that they were running true to form.

Herbert Williams—A dry and elderly droll with a vague, hesitant vein of humor. Years ago he was famous as the leader of an eccentric piano act in vaudeville, and in this show he dawdles through the sketches without startling any one into hysterics of laughter.

Chaz Chase—An uncanny little zany whose comic methods suggest that he graduated from Joe Cook's "stooge" university. He has a "stooge's" repertory of shaggy, misfit costumes, and also the true "stooge's" delight in taking punishment. As a comedian on his own, however, he tortures himself. Chaz rises to his highest flight of humor when he eats illuminated cigarettes, burning matches, fragments of his starched shirt, pieces of paper, a cluster of fern leaves and a nosegay of carnations. He appears to swallow this unbalanced meal with gusto. Then, to prove that he could be burned at the stake without losing his simian grin, he drops a flaming box of matches down the waistband of his Charlie Chaplin pants, and, as if to celebrate the anguish that he is suffering, dances a frantic kasotsky.

The Collette Sisters — Two pretty girls who have a pleasant repertory of toddling and writhing dances, and who sing in the mewing, off-key way that is characteristic of adolescent "sister acts." They are most active in an elaborately staged song-and-dance number called "Bottle," the words of which establish a record for inanity.

Jack Benny — He acts in the sketches and serves as master of ceremonies, and is useful without being impressive.

Betty Veronica—A snappy soubrette who plays the wild, tough girls in the wild, tough anecdotes, and is generally an effective actress, according to revue standards.

The sketches represent the Broadway sense of humor, dealing with its favorite subject, which is smut, in a way that always fails to be clever. The episodes of the spectacle are handsomely staged, and the first act finale is a striking example of pageantry with a purpose—which is satire on prohibition.

The last word to say about these "Vanities" is that the show is weak on laughter and up to Mr. Carroll's standard in its appeal to the eye.

University of Chicago Obtains Letters, Etc., of Jas. O'Gorman Mahon

A collection of letters and documents by and about the more important figures in 19th century Irish history, and centering largely around the life of James [The O'Gorman] Mahon, Irish soldier and politician, has been acquired by the University of Chicago. The collection was purchased for the university by two citizens of Irish extraction, D. F. Kelly and John M. Smyth.

All of the individual items of the collection are unpublished.

Golden Cards Contest Calls to Bridge Fans

General Play Dec. 3 and Final Test Later.

ALL the proceeds of the Golden Cards tournament on Dec. 3, above the actual costs of cards and printing, will be turned over to the joint emergency relief and the Hungry School Children funds.

THE TRIBUNE is sponsoring the tournament that bridge players of all Chicagoland may have the opportunity not only of playing their favorite game in real competition, but that they may, as a single unit, contribute their bit to these funds.

Thousands of Chicagoans, unemployed through no fault of their own, face a dark winter. Thousands of school children, deprived of the warm, substantial meals they get at the schools, would have to stay away from their studies. They would be unable to concentrate.

The joint emergency relief fund still is far short of its $8,800,000 quota. Much more money than has been gathered for their fund thus far is needed to feed the hungry school children. If all bridge players who are beyond the reach of want could see what social workers and school teachers see of actual suffering there would be few to hesitate.

This is the easy way to help the poor and helpless. All that bridge players have to do to enter the tournament is to send in their orders and remittances to the Golden Cards editor for the prearranged packs of cards that must be used. THE TRIBUNE guarantees to see that the cards reach the entrants well in advance of Dec. 3, and that the rules of the contest will be thoroughly understood by all.

Play is in four hands and four prearranged packs are needed for each table. The price is $2 a pack, $8 for four players. As the cost of the cards will be less than 40 cents a pack, each table will donate about $6.40 to the relief funds.

Charles True Adams, bridge expert for THE TRIBUNE, is to broadcast over W-G-N frequently before the day of the contest. He states that either contract or auction may be played and that the hands are so laid out that skill alone will determine whether the North-South or the East-West team at each table is victor. The winning team at each table takes possession of the Golden Cards, the special trophy decks with the gold backs. A final tournament will be held later.

Did you ever have your car repainted? If you have, were you able to recognize it after the job was done?

Last Thursday I gave you a hand illustrating the rule of eleven. In yesterday's play-a-problem I repainted the hand, so to speak. That is, I gave you precisely the same situation with the suits changed around and the hands somewhat varied. I wonder if you recognized it. The hand was:

♦—K,Q,J,10,8,7
♣—Q,5,3

WEST
♠—K,10,6,5
♥—K,10,4
♣—K,9,7,6,5

EAST
♥—Q,8,7,6
♦—9,6,5,3,2

SOUTH (Dealer).

South dealt and bid two spades. He has a very pretty problem here. A forcing bid of three requires nine probable tricks if it is to be played at a suit, but if the hand is capable of being played at no-trump the bid may be made on eight probable tricks.

South's hand was capable of being played at no-trump, but it looked like a far better bid at a suit declaration. It also looked as if a slam was very possible if partner held some strength and could support the spades or had by chance a biddable heart suit. South would have slightly more chance of obtaining information of a possible slam at a bid of two than with an opening bid of three. However, he was taking a risk of having the other three players pass and, therefore, losing a practically sure game.

I am giving you the bid as it occurred. The South that played the hand bid two spades. I think the odds decidedly favored an opening game demand bid of three spades.

The next hand passed and North bid three diamonds. East passed. With North's three diamond bid the no-trump looked like a better bid to South. The bid showed his partner with a minimum of 1½ high card tricks. South very naturally pictured North with the K-Q at the head of a five card diamond suit and a side K or Q-J for the half trick. He, therefore, thought that there would be no difficulty in getting into North's hand in spite of his lack of a diamond entry. South, therefore, bid three no-trump and all passed.

West opened the ♣ 6. North played the 8, East the 10, and South stopped to consider his hand. Here enters our friend, the rule of eleven, which we met for the first time last Thursday. The ♣ 6 was led and 6 from 11 leaves 5. Since East played the 10, dummy held Q and 3 and South held A and J. West was placed with every other club above the 6. Since dummy's only entry was the ♣ Q, the ♣ A must be played on the first trick. Otherwise, West can block any attempt of South's to get over to the dummy hand.

Having played the ♣ A, South led the ♦ A to unblock and then led the ♣ J to his dummy. If West's K goes up, South can get across to his Q on the next lead of clubs. If West withholds his K, South will overtake his J with dummy's Q.

There is little need of giving you the rest of the play. South cannot fail to make his bid and one extra. He has his two club tricks, six diamond tricks, a trick in spades, and a trick in hearts. If his adversaries should discard carelessly he might pick up a trick or two more.

E. J. Tobin, one of the most brilliant bridge players of Chicago and an authority of note, passed both these hands along to me, considering them worthy of comment.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S, 3, H, K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Twenty Thousand to Attend Third School.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

THE TRIBUNE SCHOOL OF COOKERY will open its third week at Guyon's Paradise, 4000 Washington boulevard, tomorrow afternoon. During the four classes 20,000 west side housewives will take lessons in cookery from one of the foremost food experts in the country, Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, who is conducting the school.

RICHARD BENNETT.

The attendance record for the two weeks just past has totaled above 40,000. The school opened on Nov. 3 at the Trianon ballroom and demonstrations were given daily for four days before a capacity audience of 5,000. The same was true of the sessions last week at the Aragon ballroom for north side women.

Housewives began arriving as early as 8:30 for several classes, although the program did not begin until 1:45. To clear the crowds from the street the doors were opened two or three hours in advance. Although the ballrooms were filled to the last chair and the doors guarded by policemen stationed there, hundreds of women remained at the entrances hoping to gain admittance later in the afternoon.

The fame of Mrs. Chitwood's recipes grew with each class as housewives passed along the word or brought their friends next day. Each day she gave two lectures, making swiftly the recipes appearing on the lesson sheet each student received. She was introduced daily by Mary Meade, TRIBUNE home economics expert.

During the eight classes for the north and south side women Mrs. Chitwood has demonstrated eighty recipes in her kitchen up on the stage. In addition she has given numerous hints to make cooking easier and household tasks lighter, and her desk has been flooded with requests for recipes and questions pertaining to cookery.

Tomorrow's session is open to all west side housewives, who are warned to come early to obtain the 5,000 seats. The program will start at 1:45 with a welcome by Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies. He will introduce the entertainers, musical, dancing and radio stars.

Frank Bennett will lead the community singing with Mrs. Bennett at the piano. Other numbers will include Sylvia Loder Stone, contralto; Mrs. Bennett, soprano; Emery Darcy, baritone; Gayle Hinton, collegiate blues singer; Delos Owen, W-G-N pianist, and the Cecille Barnett dancing students from the Chicago Musical college. These entertainers will appear preceding the opening lecture by Mrs. Chitwood and during the intermission.

During the week another entertainer will be the dancer, Richard Bennett of the Ned Wayburn Institute of Dancing.

Prizes will be given out daily, and on the last day grand prizes will be awarded. These will be an electric refrigerator, washer, iron, mixer, toaster, and percolator.

West side club women will act as hostesses each day.

Chicago Passes 6 Million for Jobless Relief

Women Report on Work of Collection.

Subscriptions soliciting committees of the joint emergency relief fund campaign will start this week on the final third of the $8,800,000 they seek to collect as Chicago's quota for the winter in the vast amount of welfare work required by the community. Reports last night by the women's division, captained by Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, revealed an additional sum of $54,988 in contributions and pledges, bringing the present mark to $6,103,808, according to an announcement by Samuel Insull Jr., chairman of the fund.

The encouraging returns from the women's division drew much commendation from officials of the drive, as a previous report of their efforts had revealed $22,808 already received, and yesterday's figures brought the total for the group to $77,796. Subscriptions have been obtained, Mrs. Cudahy said in tendering her report, from more than 1,000 individuals.

"We are having a wonderful response," she added, "from the women of Chicago. Not only have they collected a substantial amount of money for the relief fund, but through their clubs they are arranging benefits of various kinds which will also be the means of raising money."

Seven gatherings scheduled for today will have speakers to detail the necessity for raising the entire quota, and to explain the procedure to be followed in administering the fund.

Jacob M. Braude will address the Yarmo-Devere post of the American Legion this evening at 3216 Roseveit road; John J. Moran will talk at the Shakespeare school P.-T.A. meeting at 2:30 o'clock at 1119 East 40th street. Chicago Police post of the Legion will hear Frank D. Davy at the Hotel Sherman at 3:30 tonight, and Chipilly post of the Legion, meeting at Michigan avenue and 16th streets, will have Samuel P. Reese as its speaker.

Ogden Park lodge, A. F. & A. M., will be addressed at 3:30 tonight at its meeting at 1403 West 64th street by James H. Turner. George S. Galloway has been assigned to tell the story before St. Augustus council of the Knights of Columbus at 8:45 tonight at 5209 South Justine, and Auburn Park council of the same organization will have John J. Moran as its orator on the topic, at St. Leo's school, 7748 South Emerald avenue, at 8:15.

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A jump of thirteen per cent over last year in contributions to 49 community chests already completed was recorded in a report made public today by the Association of Community Chest Councils.

The report, showing that 54 completed chest campaigns have raised 92 per cent of the aggregate goals, or $19,566,094, was submitted to Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's organization of unemployment relief, and to Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief sources.

LAWRENCE TIBBETT FINE SINGER OF WELL SELECTED PROGRAM

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Lawrence Tibbett, baritone notable of the concert stage, the opera, and the films, came back to Chicago in the first of these assignments yesterday afternoon. It had been several seasons since he had been heard here in person, and his song recital at Orchestra hall showed a fairly astonishing change, all of it in the direction of better singing. Where not so long ago he was a young singer with a fine voice and using all of it, he is now a serene, poised artist with power in reserve and a manner of singing that is generally ingratiating and frequently stimulating. He is an American artist who has made good.

He is also a canny program maker. Apparently he follows no set rule, certainly not the conventional one of groups from different lands, only the idea of putting together coördinating groups that contrast favorably, whether of English or foreign words. Some were old, some were new, all were projected with the art of an expert.

After an absence of about a dozen years Elisabeth Schumann, German soprano, returned to the Studebaker yesterday afternoon. With her husband, Carl Alwin, at the piano, she gave a recital of lieder by Schubert, Robert Schumann, from who she would seem to be descended mentally if not lineally, and Richard Strauss. She is one of the most noted artists of Germany, and apparently represents the art of lieder singing at its height, an art in which the poetic line takes fully as much importance as the melodic curve, and sometimes even more. In other words, it means interpretation of the poet quite as much as of the composer. Mme. Schumann makes it a persuasive art. She was popular with her audience, and deservedly so.

Felix Salmond, a famous cellist, appeared next door to Mme. Schumann at the Playhouse in a program of his specialty. He played with a beautiful tone, one that retained the gravity of the cello and yet was flexible and brilliant, and he interpreted with the warmth and intelligence of the highly cultivated musician. Perhaps he was at his finest in the Brahms Sonata in F, in which his accompanist, Ralph Angell, was a highly competent partner at the piano. Most of his other numbers were of less dimensions, but played exquisitely.

A bit out of the beaten track of concert givers, the Chicago String quartet began a new season yesterday afternoon in the pretty theater of the Chicago Woman's club. These four are an ambitious organization, eager in the search for good new music as well as the approved classics, and playing them with attention to manner and style as well as notes.

Woman Tells About Society, Politics, Queen

Her written memoirs, flavored with reminiscences dealing with notables, domestic and European, and others of scantier degree, have just come off the press. They are contained in a volume titled "Society's Mountaineer." Although her real name appears on the book, the pen name employed is Brown Glasgow.

A perusal of the introductory pages reveals that Mrs. Brown was born in the mountains of Kentucky, or as she says, "a few miles from where the colonels stop and the blue grass ends." Autobiographically, she is known as the wife and later the widow, of Frank Townley Brown, famous jurist, who died in 1920. At times, newspaper files record, Mrs. Brown figured in a number of legal encounters, some of which are dealt with, more or less anonymously, in her tome.

Mrs. Brown discusses the episode wherein she rented her 32 room mansion on the north side to Billie Burke, wife of Florenz Ziegfeld, some years back. In that incident, Mrs. Brown and Miss Burke battled over the lease, the rental, and the condition of the house and furnishings, and ended with Miss Burke holding off her landlord by injunction. Another matter mentioned concerns the $200,000 suit for slander Mrs. Brown filed again Bror Gustav Dahlberg and his wife.

Another chapter reveals an occurrence at the reception for Queen Marie of Rumania on the latter's visit here not long ago. In recalling her feeling on reviewing the crowd, Mrs. Brown writes: "I was aghast, for it was motley and disheveled, and far from representative. I was astonished to see elderly women appearing with boyish bobbed cuts of hair, and in a sort of Buster Brown effect, with large, shining, red [and unthinkable as it seems] gloveless arms."

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The new cross-over line of the bodice of this frock are both slenderizing and smart. An inverted skirt plait at the center front adds graceful fullness, and the neckline is flattering, in an open V with narrow rolled collar. Black crêpe satin with eggshell crêpe for the collar and fan shaped wings on the sleeves made the original.

The pattern, 3318, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Expert Feels Advice to Parents Should Have Its Exceptions

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It may sound absurd to you who are reading this column—but after I've written a piece of advice I find myself worrying—worrying over the children upon whom the suggestions may be used too literally. I find myself haunted by the fear that good old common sense may be laid up on the shelf while certain advice is put into practice to the very letter.

When this is the case it is usually caused by a combination of two things — inexperience in being a mother or father, and too much conscience. Either one is bad enough, but the two together make life pretty hard for children!

Now, I don't mean in the least by that to discourage the inexperienced mother. It would be ridiculous to say that just because you've never had a baby, you're bound to be incompetent with your first one. Of course you're not. Many mothers have the gift of motherhood, which doesn't in the least mean just being fiercely devoted to and proud of your children—it means rather a combination of love, a capacity for selflessness, understanding, imagination, and "horse" sense.

To prove this we see many men and women who are entirely successful with their first child, while others who have not the gift will fail as signally with their fifth as with their first.

Still, even if you have the gift of being a successful father or mother, there are some things you can learn by experience—either your own or some one else's. It isn't until you have your second baby or have carried your first well into his or her teens that you get perspective enough to realize this. Then you see the wisdom of some things you've done and the error of others. You realize among other things that no rule for the managing of babies and children can be followed without exception.

And if besides being a mother of experience, you're a person who is writing about children and parents, you realize how important it is not to be too sweeping in your assertions—to have an "except" tacked on wherever possible. And if you can't tack it on the first piece of advice, to make a special effort to tack it on the second. So in reading this department, keep your eye out for the second day "except," or make it yourself. It's the exception that proves the rule, you know.

Smartest New Gowns Have Narrow Lines

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Any woman who is going to let herself go and get a new evening dress that will have a style future must take into account the narrowing of the lines that Paris lays down for the evening silhouette. The newest frocks that all the most fashionable women are wearing here aren't quite as narrow as the old time pencil silhouette, but, girls, they're mighty close to it.

The 1931-'32 evening line differs from the pencil line in one important degree. It doesn't end at the knees, but widens there in an unobtrusive way and goes right on down to the floor. This kind of skirt has replaced the one that began to get wide from the hipline or just below. For one thing, it takes a lot more wearing, because it makes a certain slenderness obligatory.

The Mirande dress in our sketch is in the new narrow line exactly as Paris prefers it. This frock is made of white, lusterless velvet and its simple bodice with a high, square line in front and a low cut square in back is all that is chic in Paris. Limp flowers made of the velvet of the dress are placed on the right shoulder and just below the decolleté at the right side of the back.

The skirt follows a straight and narrow path to within about sixteen inches of the hem, where it divides into four separate panels that are shirred into round velvet centers, so that they look like huge flowers. There is no foundation under these panels, so that the skirt allows plenty of room for stepping.

Harriet Vittum to Talk.

Miss Harriet Vittum of the Northwestern university settlement will speak this evening before ten chapters of Pi Epsilon Pi sorority at their meeting at the Chicago Medical and Dental club.

Food Talk

Whether we buy them or put them up ourselves, I think we all get in a rut when it comes to pickles. If one's husband likes mustard relish, for example, there are jars of mustard relish on the pantry shelf, but never one of spiced watermelon rind. Or perhaps one has an excellent recipe for chow-chow and makes that to the exclusion of such things as cucumber slices or pickled pears.

It's too late this year to do anything about homemade pickles, but on the grocer's shelves you'll find a fascinating display. If you've got into the way of having gherkins mostly, try bread and butter pickles, those irregular cucumber slices that have a homey taste to them. Or dills. Slice them as daintily as you can, because a large dill, tasty though it may be, has an uncomfortably elephantine look. A garden relish, made principally from cabbage and carrots grated fine, is good with a sweetish meat.

If you get around among the fancier jars, burr gherkins will catch your eye. They are spiny looking things, but are good when you bite into them. Pickled onions are good, too. Have you ever eaten olives stuffed with them? They are rather hard to find in the stores, but they will reward your search, for they are distinctive. It would be worth while to remove the pimiento from ordinary stuffed olives and replace it with little pearl onions, if you are unable to buy the onion stuffed ones, just for a change.

The French think of bizarre things to pickle. Rooster combs was one I saw lately. I don't know just how these are eaten. Another was tiny ears of corn, not more than an inch and a quarter long, in a little round jar.

Stuffed mangoes are good now and then, although they are too rich for many tastes. I have found that the best way to serve them is to slice them across and then lay them on a plate. A broad cheese knife is used to transfer them to the diner's plate. Because of the stuffing, they have to be eaten with a fork.

BAKED STUFFED PEPPERS WITH CHEESE SAUCE.

Parboil large green peppers from which the seeds and pulp have been removed. Stuff with a mixture of boiled rice and deviled ham, well seasoned, and stand in a baking dish in a little water. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for 30 minutes.

The cheese sauce is made by adding cheese to a thick white sauce. Mild or strong American cheese may be used, but the prepared cheese foods combine more readily with the sauce, as their melting point is lower. Two tablespoons of cheese to a cup of white sauce makes a good proportion, but if you prefer a more pronounced cheese flavor increase the amount to taste.

MIXED GRILL.

6 lamb chops
6 pineapple rings
1½ cups brown sugar
9 large sweet potatoes, split lengthwise
6 slices bacon
1-3 cup butter

Sear the lamb chops. Place in a grill pan and surround with sweet potato and pineapple rings. Cream the butter and brown sugar, and spread the mixture on the sweet potatoes. When the chops are nearly done, add the bacon. Baste the potatoes and pineapple from time to time.

KIT DISCOVERS WHAT SHE WANTS!

It was Kit Lenoure's birthday.

She was twenty-six.

She came up into her bed-sitting room after luncheon in the housekeeper's small stuffy room that always smelled of house linen, because it was next to the airing room.

The housekeeper had been in a bad temper. She had grumbled that the bed was stone cold and the very sight of cabbage made her sick.

The other girl, who was the typist, had such a bad cold that it made the room feel damp as well as stuffy. The party was usually completed by the bookkeeper, but she was away convalescing from the flu.

Altogether, it was not a cheerful luncheon and Kit Lenoure hurried upstairs as soon as she decently could. It was one of her afternoons off duty and she had not yet made up her mind what she would do. She would have to be back at work at six until eleven, so she would hardly have time to take that long journey and back to Stroud Green, where her family lived. On Sunday, three days hence, she had the whole day off, so they were going to celebrate the feast then.

She felt tired and not at all in a birthday mood, which, one imagines, should be a fervent gratitude for the gift of life. She had reason to be tired. Miss Dacre's absence she had been doing her work as well as her own, which meant that she had to keep the books and make up the accounts as well as being in sole charge of the reception office with only a none-to-bright page boy to help her with the house telephone exchange.

Gate House hotel was a smallish establishment in the heart of the southwestern district of London, close to the parks and within ten minutes' walk of Piccadilly. It was patronized largely by people who had their own suites and many of whom ate in their own rooms. Its clientèle was a sharply divided one, consisting of impoverished members of the aristocracy who practically lived there and a constant in and out flow of families from every part of the empire. The clientèle never seemed to change, to grow, or to shrink. Year in, year out, there were the same faces coming, going, stationary. A chance visitor was made to feel like a new boy at school.

Kit Lenoure had been there four years now. She had nothing to complain of. All the clients were very nice to her. The manager and his wife were easy to work under. It was a sort of family life on a large scale. But it did mean a lot to give and take in the work and one must not be too particular about hours.

Kit was free two afternoons and two evenings a week, on alternate Sundays, and a whole Saturday afternoon to Monday morning every month. She had quite a good time, too. She could have had many more outings with some of the young men residents than she accepted. There were two who was very friendly with, Mr. Gaythorne, very handsome and correct, who was at the foreign office, and Sir Freddy Blackmore, an irresponsible, delightful fat creature with a face like a Pierrot who was constantly asking her out and offering her things from a bunch of flowers to a puppy dog. Both of these cavaliers obviously enjoyed her company. She let them give her dinner sometimes and take her to the theaters and now and then to one of the big charity balls.

But there was nothing in it. They didn't want to marry her. And there was something in her frank, sweet, self-possessed ways that precluded the very thought of anything else. She was just "dear Kit Lenoure, the nicest girl in London!"

It was all very homely and pleasant, and Kit knew that other girls envied her her position. She did indeed meet with much real kindness. One elderly Scotch peeress never left without giving her a box of chocolates, or a handbag, or some scent, and most of the colonial families brought her some interesting trifle of native workmanship. Indeed, old Col. Wimpole only last week had come back from China with the gift of a beautiful native woman's ceremonial dress of the stiffest silk—trousers, headdress of carved flowers, and all.

No, she had nothing whatever to complain of.

Then, what was the matter with her on her birthday that she was being so mopey and didn't know what to do with herself this afternoon?

She gave herself a passing look in the mirror over her dressing table, which was in itself quite a small museum of things from the far places of the earth—carved ivory brushes, lacquer boxes, a wonderful Malayan work basket of plaited straw. In a Burmese brass bowl there was fresh flowers from Sir Freddy's place in the country.

She was not vain. She was not looking for beauty but for some sign of vital shed her spirit. She knew that she was nice looking. What woman was not? But she did not realize that the rather long, narrow oval of her face had something more than beauty, that her full, firm lips were sweetness itself, and her large eyes, wide-set from the short, straight nose and blue-green as a deep summer sea, surmounted by strongly marked, wing-shaped brows, gave out a shining and radiant vitality, health and confidence that unconsciously made people feel better for looking at her.

Mechanically she patted her hair into position. It was dark golden, thick with life, and fell naturally into rich waves with the glint of old gilding on them. Her skin was clear and pale, almost amber in tint. On her summer holidays she put on a glorious tan.

No, she looked well enough physically. She was well. She had hardly had a day's illness in her life.

Then what was the matter?

A groove? Was that it? Four years she had been here. Every day was the same; every month, every year.

That must be it. She was getting into a groove. And she was twenty-six.

She moved across to the window and switched on her portable wireless that stood on a table.

The announcer's pleasant voice said: "Mrs. Donald Parks will now continue her series of talks to women."

Kit sat down. Her room was on the top floor of the building, in the staff quarters. She had made it charming, but its chief attraction was a view over treetops across to Piccadilly and a wide stretch of sky above.

Mrs. Donald Parks had a delightful voice, cultured, full of the reserves of intelligence and knowledge. She was discussing character and determination as the basis of a successful life.

"We must be determined to make our own lives, to do something ourselves to shape them for our own happiness and welfare. In my opinion, the first thing, the thing of vital importance, is to know what we want. To know what we most want in our lives. The second is to go out and get it——"

Kit sat up.

To know what we most want in our lives! To go out and get it!

That was what struck right to the root of Kit Lenoure's vague mental uneasiness. As soon as she heard the words she knew it. It was like a sudden flash of light cleaving the vague half night of indecision and unreality she had been wandering in of late.

Was there something that she really wanted with all her might? Did she know what it was? The messages from her inmost self were tapping at her brain with little live fingers of fire. Did she want anything, did she want it very, very much?

Yes! Don't be a coward and a liar, Kit Lenoure!

She did want something. Somebody. She wanted Theo Sable. She had had him and she had lost him. But she wanted him still.

"I am writing in behalf of a friend who has been jobless for months. Since he has been unable to find work he has decided to go to night school and is unable to buy the necessary books. Perhaps some of your readers could help him. These are the ones he needs: Arthmetic III, by Strayer Upton, "The Story of Chicago," by Jamie Hall, and "Social Geography —Western Hemisphere," Book II, by Frederick K. Braune. MRS. E. D."

Does your library include any of the volumes this young student will need in his course? If you no longer want them, please pass them on to him. You don't know how much they will help.

'Janet Junior' Makes Musical Debut Thursday

BY THALIA

It looks as though John Charles Thomas were destined to play a rather anomalous rôle at the Kinsolving Musical Morning this coming Thursday at the Blackstone crystal ballroom. Nominally he is the artist of the program, and Janet Fairbank is what is known as the assisting artist, but there's such a lot of interest in the professional debut of "Janet Jr." that I'm afraid Mr. Thomas won't receive his usual meed of attention, a situation that he undoubtedly comprehends, however.

Miss Fairbank's mother, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, will have a large party with her, and there'll be numerous of the Fairbank relatives and friends in the audience. Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, and Mrs. Herbert Witherspoon have boxes, and others who have taken seats include Mrs. Walter Ayer, Mrs. Rosecrans Baldwin, Mrs. Cecil Barnes [who is Miss Fairbank's aunt], Miss Florence Bartlett, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, and several of Janet's contemporaries, including Arthur Meeker Jr., Miss Peggy Hambleton, Miss Helen Rend, and Miss Dorothy Schmidt.

Miss Fairbank, who has been studying in Germany for several years, has elected to sing a group of German songs, including Schubert's "Wohin"; Schumann's "Frühlingsnacht"; Grieg's "Die Prinzessin"; "Zum Schlafen" by Reger, and "Der Ghertner" by Wolf for her first appearance on the program, and for the second an old English folksong, "Phyllis Has Such Charming Graces"; "The Sleep That Flits on Baby's Eyes" by Carpenter, and three French songs, Fauré's "Automne" and "Adieu," and "Les Papillons" by Chausson.

Charles Garfield Kings Go East; See Prep Football.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King went east last week for two reasons. One was to attend that momentous and exciting annual football scrap between Groton and St. Mark's prep schools wherein several other Chicago scions besides their own Garfield jeopardized life and shinbone, and the other was to meet Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gade and Mrs. Arnold Klebs when they landed in New York City. The Gades and Mrs. Klebs aren't coming to Chicago immediately, but they'll be here later.

Mrs. Henry C. Cummins is to have a membership tea for the Kenwood Social Service club at her Woodlawn avenue residence next Monday afternoon. Receiving with her will be Mrs. Ralph Johnson and Miss Madeline Magerstadt. Mrs. Albert Cummins and Miss Gwendolyn Cummins are to pour, and assisting will be Mrs. Henry P. Conkey, Mrs. Raymond Lukins, Mrs. Frank Leeming, Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, and Mrs. Kenath Sponsel.

Imagine having 3,200 people at a private party. Harry Gordon Selfridge's election night parties in London are famous affairs, and he had that many acceptances, mostly from prominent Britishers, for his recent one, the 5th he has given. The Oxford street store was the secene of the party, the whole 4th floor having been turned over to the festivities. A huge auditorium was arranged with a stage from which the election results were amplified continuously until 2:30 o'clock in the morning. A table supper was served at one end of the store, and a buffet supper at the other.

Two of London's best orchestras played for the dancing. Champagne was the drink of the evening, but what caused the greatest enthusiasm was a silver serving table piled high with hot dogs, a novelty to the English guests. Our London correspondent says also that Mrs. William de Burgh Whyte [who is the former Geraldine Vaux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux], has accepted the chairmanship of the reception committee for the American Women's club.

French Captain Will Attend Lecture Here on Manchuria.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey will be accompanied by Capt. Jacques Sauzey of the French army, who is going through Chicago on his way to the orient, at the Council of Foreign Relations' luncheon at the Palmer house tomorrow for Harold G. Moulton. Mr. Moulton is president of the Brookings Institution, and is to speak on "Japan and the Manchurian Crisis." Others who have reservations include Mrs. William R. Odell, Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., Yoshio Muto, the Japanese consul; Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Otis.

Charles S. Dewey is to speak on "International Balance of Payments" at the state convention banquet of the League of Women Voters on Friday evening at the Chicago Woman's club. Lake Shore league members who have made reservations for the banquet include Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart Coonley, Jr. and Mrs. Carroll Sudler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yeomans, Judge and Mrs. George Packard, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Nelson, and Mrs. William Gold Hibbard.

Notes of import—Dr. and Mrs. Frank Cary of St. Armand's Key, Florida, are at the Blackstone hotel for a few days before they motor south . . . Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Andrews of 561 Surf street returned last week from a holiday in England . . . Mrs. C. Frederick Childs and Miss Madeleine Newell will return tomorrow from the east. They paid the Childs' son, Newell Childs, who is a student at Yale, a visit in New Haven, and have spent several days in New York city . . . Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, who have been across the country on their annual fall trip east, are getting back to their Santa Barbara residence, "Far Afield" today . . . Phil Chancellor, son of Dr. Philip S. Chancellor who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne at Millbrook, N. Y., since last summer has gone abroad and is to motor through Europe . . . Mrs. Honore Palmer had entries in 2 races at the recent Prix Gladiateur at Longchamps, the last hard canter of the Lonchamps season, and the longest race of the year.

Also on the crowded calendar—A tea and lecture by E. J. Buckles on "Americana; Pewter and Glass," sponsored by the students of Miss Harris' School for Girls for the benefit of the Cook County relief fund, to take place on Wednesday afternoon at the Webster hotel, with Edna Doering, sub-debutante daughter of the Edmund J. Doerings of 1244 Astor street in charge . . . The monthly home dressmakers' sale at the White Elephant rummage shop pushed ahead a week to this Thursday on account of Thanksgiving . . . An Arts club tea for Ferpand Leger, distinguished French painter on Friday at which he will show his film, "Le Ballet Mécanique" . . . An English-Speaking union tea, also on Friday afternoon at the Tavern for the Maharajah of Burdwan, C. G, I, E., K. C. S. I., etc., Hon. L.L. D. Cantab [copied from the announcement]. The maharajah is to give a brief address at 4:45 o'clock, and only the first 150 people who send in their reservations can go because the space is limited.

Miss Eleanor McNally Makes Debut at Tea.

Miss Eleanor McNally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McNally, wore a black velvet gown with ermine trimming at the neckline and carried a bouquet of gardenias at the debut tea her parents gave for her yesterday afternoon at their residence in Evanston. The tea was followed by a supper and afterwards Miss McNally, with the young women who assisted her and their escorts, went to the hockey game at the Stadium. The debutante is a graduate of Miss Walker's school at Simsbury, Mass.

Mrs. Albert J. Ochsner, president of the board of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, will have as her guests at the first of this year's Woman's Symphony concerts at the Goodman theater this evening, Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Borowsky, and Mme. Elsa Alsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Dean Hammond II. of 1058 Thorndale avenue are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter at the Presbyterian hospital last Thursday. The baby is to be named Marcia III. after her mother, who is the former Miss Marcia Prendergast.

Society Sees Hockey

Society seems to be getting fond of the cheerful din, the gum chewing, and the general excitement of indoor hockey. The boxes were filled with fashionable parties at the start of Chicago's season last night between the Blackhawks and the New York Rangers at the Stadium. Maj. and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin's guests were Cecil Beaton, Miss Eleanor Holden, Miss Harriet McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Andrews King, Frederic McLaughlin II. and his fiancée, Miss Katherine Hare of Radnor, Pa., who is here for a visit; Mr. and Mrs. George F. McLaughlin, and the Herbert McLaughlins.

With Mr. and Mrs. T. Philip Swift were Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Huntington Henry and Miss Annie May Henry. Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins' box guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stanley, Edwin Stanley Jr., and Charles Renshaw. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour had with them Mrs. Armour's mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Stanton of New Orleans; Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, and Robert Gardner.

Others in the boxes included Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, their daughter, Miss Elsa Armour and her fiancé, W. Irving Osborne Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mr. and Mrs. John Wentworth, Mrs. Wentworth wearing a white caracul coat and a sapphire velvet turban, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beacom, the Champ Carrys, Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Massee, Col. and Mrs. H. B. Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. Darrow B. Fulton, the Valentine Bartletts, Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Andrews, the Paul Walkers, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Benson Dushane, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Bokum and Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Donnelley.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover, accompanied by their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Robinson of California, attended the morning service today in the Friends church.

The Italian ambassador went to New York today to greet the minister of foreign affairs of Italy and Signora Grandi on their arrival tomorrow morning on the Conte Grande. They will come at once to Washington and go to Woodley, the home of the secretary of state and Mrs. H. L. Stimson. There they will be guests for two nights. In the party of the minister is Alexander Kirk, counselor of the American embassy in Rome.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman presented their second daughter, Elsie, to society in the afternoon in their suburban home, Tuxeden, at Edgemoor, Md., when a number of this season's buds assisted.

SINGS TODAY

MISS JANET FAIRBANK.

Miss Janet Fairbank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, is to make her professional debut as a soprano at the Kinsolving Musical morning this coming Thursday at the Blackstone hotel.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

INSTALLMENT XLIX.

THE BABY MAKES A CHOICE.

Wallace raised his hat to her and said, "Hello, Irma."

He stooped then and kissed his son. "Good-by, old timer," he whispered. Irma felt her eyes go suddenly wet.

"Wallace, wouldn't you—won't you come in for a minute? You don't have to leave him here like this."

"O, that's all right. You know how fathers are, Irma. They don't mind anything, but thanks for asking me."

He stepped back into his car then and drove away. Irma led the baby indoors.

"Did you have a good time, honey?"

She sat him on her lap and listened to what he could remember of the picture. He laughed with delight at memories of the afternoon which he could recall but not recount.

"And Mildred's daddy bought lollypops."

"He's your daddy," Irma said abruptly.

"He don't live with us." The child shook his head unbelievingly.

It was many minutes before he could be convinced. When he realized at last that his mother was not having one of her strange, adult jokes, he said: "He's a nice daddy, isn't he?"

"Very," said Irma.

"Well, we'll keep him, then." Martin was accustomed to having his way.

"You see, dear, he's busy. We'll see him again soon but now we have to think about getting home."

"When?"

"Tonight we're going home. Do you remember our house on the big high roof up near the stars? Well, we're going there. Mademoiselle will be there and your rocking horse and all your toys."

"Don't want to go."

Irma laughed. "We'll come back here again some time, but just think how lonely the poor rocking horse is. And poor Mademoiselle. My goodness, I bet she's crying."

"Don't care."

"O, sure you do. We'll go to the theater in New York and maybe on a big boat again."

The child's face grew pink and became a sudden pathetic mask of grief. His tears poured forth in hot, salty streams of sorrow. "I want to stay here with Mildred and the little baby," he cried. "I like the trees and Johnnie and Paul. I wana stay here with Mildred and daddy and Big Scott. He was going to make me a snow man and it hasn't snowed yet and I never had a snow man."

Irma held him close in her arms till the storm of tears had subsided. Poor little thing. She stroked his hair gently and dried his wet eyes with her chiffon handkerchief.

At last he sat up and demanded, "We'll stay, won't we, mommy?"

"We can't, dearest."

"Why not?" he asked.

Well, I can't. You can, of course. You stay here and I'll go. How will that be?"

"When are you going?"

"Good-by, mommy."

"Martin, you wouldn't want me to go, would you?"

"But you want to, mommy. You said you did. I'm gonna stay here where daddy and Mildred is.

"They don't speak French. You'll forget all your nice French."

"I don't care. Paul and Johnnie can't speak French. Mommy, what is French for?"

Later she went so far as to test him by bringing down a suitcase and kissing Mildred an affectionate farewell. Almost with relief, she thought, Martin kissed her and waved a fluttering little hand at her as she walked down the path. She remained behind some trees for many minutes, then went back to the house.

Mildred said, "Your rather old fashioned experiment is a flop, darling. Your son remains unmoved. I have a suspicion he likes it here."

"Don't rub it in, Mildred."

"I'm not rubbing it in. I only wish you liked it. I could use two nice paying guests on my palatial estate. It's going to be an expensive winter."

Irma went up to the little chintz hung room. For hours she sat there. Mildred fed Martin and put him to bed. The train for New York bellowed its way out of the Thrace station and still Irma sat alone in the darkness.

When she came down it was 10 o'clock. She called a cab and rode into Thrace. She went to the Crystal Moon Palais de Danse, found Bill talking to a group of people, and drew him away from them.

"Bill," she said, "how about that job?"

"What job?"

"Head, hostess, kid. The job's still open."

"I'll take it, Bill. O, Bill, honest to God I'm not a selfish mother. Please don't ever say it again. I know now what Martin really wants. It'll take a little time and a lot of pride swallowing but I'm going to get it for him. Bill, I'm not selfish, really."

"I don't want a drink, Bill."

But in the end she drank with him, though she did not raise her glass when he said, "Here's to the third man. God, what a licking he's taking tonight!"

Keen Mentality No Magnet for Dates, Says Brainy Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

How would you headline the following predicament?

"F. G. V." tells how she used to think that popularity could be attained by being on the same mental plane as the men of her acquaintance, by discussing intelligently subjects which hold their interests.

Now the young woman makes the discovery, to her self confessed sorrow, that she has merely succeeded in getting a reputation for cleverness, which draws admiration but no dates.

A forthright person, "F. G. V." When she wanted to find out what was wrong, she asked. She asked the boys. And they told her they felt inferior to her. Which, according to the young woman's confession, was no pleasant form of flattery.

The one young man who matters most is superior.. "F. G. V." is willing to admit it. But he labors under the same impression as the other men: says "we are too much alike for compatibility!"

"Since hearing this," the girl reports, "I have tried to show I am not familiar with subjects under discussion. But now they think I am only kidding and resent my lightness.

"What is a poor lovelorn lamb like me going to do about it," she cries. "At 20 this seems quite serious to me. Am I wrong in looking for love in mental attraction? I do need guidance."

The world do move in a lot of other directions, but the road over which D. Cupid travels remains pretty much the same. Brains in a woman [or their public exposure, that is] always did prove a stumbling block. Or, let's not say brains. Let's say opinions. The lighter she travels in twosomes in this regard, the more ground she'll cover.

Talents the lady is permitted; cleverness in an amusing way; but it is a rare gent, indeed, who can view a competitive female brain without alarm. So, it evolves upon the really clever girl or woman, yeah even in this year of our Lord, 1931, to restrain her impulse to exhibit her highly developed mental wares in mixed company.

Mothball them, so to speak, until the courting season is over, anyway. Later they may come in handy when marriage settles down into the prosaic, and mental companionship begins to matter a lot. Even then our best observers of compatible marriage hint it is well to let the man enjoy the illusion or fact of a superior male mentality.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Doubts His Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl but when I tell her so, she talks about my other girl friends. Please advise. "CHEERFUL."

Assure her you'd still be seeing the other girls if they appealed to you instead of devoting your time to her.

Iva Pacetti to Sing as Leonora Tonight at Civic Opera House

This evening marks the second appearance with the Chicago Civic Opera of Mme. Iva Pacetti, whose debut in the title rôle of Aida last Thursday was an outstanding event of the present season. She will sing Leonora tonight.

Although still in her twenties, Mme. Pacetti has scored in Italian opera houses, having made her debut at Florence before she was nineteen, and going from there to La Scala at Milan.

She has sung at the Royal Opera in Rome and at La Scala during the last five years, with two seasons at Covent Garden and two at the Colon in Buenos Aires also to her credit.

Choose Your Type of Beauty from Three Famous Categories

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There are three beauty rôles from which a girl may choose her type—with certain limitations as to choice, of course.

There's the sophisticated beauty, the natural beauty, and the picturesque.

The sophisticated has the lead in popularity. Women strive to be her. Many succeed. Many miss by an eyebrow, perhaps, by the tint of the hair, by the frock, by the accessories.

Miss or Mrs. Sophisticated Beauty is a person who has to spend time on herself, on her clothes and on her coiffure. She has to be letter perfect, in every detail. She must know the very latest trick in hairdressing, make-up, perfuming, hats, frocks, coats, bags, and shoes. She must have the look of being very, very recently turned out by expert hands. Not a hair can be out of place. Mouth coloring must never be askew. She must be groomed within an inch of her life, always running to the sleek and simple line, from head to foot and dieted down to a perfect waistline and streamline hip.

She's a grand sight when she fills the bill without a flaw. She's the lady who ornaments the orchestra pit; the swank night clubs, the select noonday eating place. To do her up right and properly she requires money, although some women, on comparatively little money, manage the look quite as well as the one with the plump purse to lean on. And that's a talent.

The natural beauty mustn't be interpreted as natural in the raw state of apple cheeked perfections. She's the girl who knows her limitations; she also knows her successes. She doesn't aim to be any more striking than nature and the average amount of beauty parlor solicitation make her. She's a comfortable darling, as a rule. She doesn't make her sisters feel like cabbages, as some of the de luxe ones do. Therefore, no doubt, she is better loved.

But she's no back number so far as personal care is concerned. She gives herself that in daily doses. She keeps her weight down, chooses clothes that are good, though not exotic. The upkeep of platinum hair isn't one of her worries. Her own color is good, so she is content.

The picturesque beauty is a rare specimen. She must have a rare personality and be a woman of some accomplishment outside of physical picturesqueness. She may be a painter, a poet, an artist with the pen, a dancer. Anyway, she has something to furnish a background for her unusual style.

These Coats

Literally Swathe You in Their Furs and They Are Only

$97.50

The "400" of the fur market makes up the furs on these very smart coats. Not only are they the luxurious furs, but they are used in the most distinctive ways. These coats have very little in common with those offered usually for this price. You will see that when you see the many different styles and have to decide which one is the smartest with your own personal wardrobe—what a job it will be, but what a delightful one.

Misses' Coat

Women's Coat

New 25-Dollar Frocks

The Moderate Price Section's Way Of Making You a Success for Whatever the Occasion Might Be

Many Paris ideas are translated into new fabrics, new colors, and you'll find this price extremely low when you see the frocks of such attractive quality fabrics, perfect colors and smart design. You won't limit your choice to one—you'll choose one for daytime, teatime and evening.

(a) Paray Copy

The new rough crepe, roshanara, makes this frock. Black and green, or tile, brown and tile. Sizes 14 to 18. $25.

(b) Goupy Copy

The shoulders and tops of the sleeves are the silk crepe (the material of the frock) interlaced. Black, red, Patou blue, Chanel green. 14 to 18. $25.

(c) Roshanara

Is this frock that follows Goupy's tunic line made even more important with little motifs of gold embroidery. Black with green or tile, brown with tile or cameo. 36 to 42.

(d) Triple Sheer

Is one of the favored fabrics for afternoon. This frock has delicate traceries in narrow crystal and silver beads. Blue, black, wine. Sizes 36 to 42.

Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago's new hockey season got under way at the Chicago Stadium last night, where 15,000 spectators turned out to see the Blackhawks battle the New York Americans to a 1 to 1 tie.

Both scores were made in the first period and few startling threats followed, the slowness of the contest perhaps being traceable to the miserable condition of the ice.

The visitors were the first to score on a double assist play, Dubbit McVeigh and Bert Hughes doing the preliminary puck pushing while Wally Kilrea attended to the business of actually registering the goal.

March Evens Score.

The first score of the home season was accomplished in 11 minutes, and four minutes and 20 seconds later the Hawks knotted the tabulation on a deft bit of skating by Mush March, assisted somewhat by Tommy Cook.

The Stadium iceman apparently was handicapped by the lingering bike riders and the warmth of the weather which steamed up the big hall. The freezing contraption is said to be percolating all right and the iceman said there would be no need for roller skates when the Blackhawks go against the Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night.

The players spent the first minutes of the game spotting the various spots of bad ice, and there wasn't a real lively threat until the contest was about eight minutes old.

At this juncture Himes, Lamb and Romnes rushed the puck into Chicago territory and kept it moving with shots off all parts of Gardiner's anatomy, all to no avail. With the return of the Hawks' opening line of Wentworth, Couture and Ripley, the disk went to the right end of the rink, but Goalie Worters was equal to the threat.

First Goal in 11 Minutes.

The next swing of the pendulum showed the customers the first goal of the season. McVeigh, Hughes and Kilrea cooperated zealously and after Hughes and Bert had swished the puck with exceeding speed to the right spot, Mr. Kilrea glided in and from close range and banged a counter between Gardiner's dancing heels. The time was 11 minutes.

A shot by Ayres, shooting after the opening face-off, sent Gardiner on the rear of his tights, but the stop was effected.

The spectators got a good chance to do a little hollering when Cook and March took the puck down and after a scramble, Mush found the rubber loose in front of the cage. But his shot was met by Worters' upholstery and the Americans still led; 1 to 0.

The next stirup found the bugs with a real chance to try their lungs, for March dashed down the ice with the puck, circled the back of the net and as he emerged, met Cook, who steadied the puck for him. Whereupon Mush jabbed it home for the Hawks' first home tally of the season. The time was 13:30.

Abel's Face Marred.

The first penalty was not dealt until the game was 17 minutes old. Then Patterson and Ayres were sent to the box in rapid succession, their sin being tripping.

The Hawks tried to take advantage of the two man shortage in American ranks, but though the puck was kept in the region of the visitors' goal, the four shots were not especially wicked.

The second period was scoreless and more or less uneventful for everyone except Taffy Abel, whose beauty was marred by a sliced lip and flattened nose, suffered when he was a bit too ambitious in a mammoth solo flight down the ice.

Ayres and Brydge gave the Hawks a chance when they both got them-

Jimmy, Al and 30,000 See Bears Beat Giants, 12 to 6

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Nov. 15.—The Chicago Bears beat the New York Giants, 12 to 6, in a Sunday afternoon football entertainment at the Polo grounds, adorned by the presence of the official Tammany set and numerous lay, or cash, customers.

The Giants scored a touchdown in the second period on a 95 yard movement beginning with the return of a punt by John Kitzmiller. A moment later Benny Friedman strolled 32 yards off the Bears' left tackle to the Bears' 30 yard line. Kitzmiller on a lateral from Friedman and Wyckoff, on a buck over center, got a first down at the 15 yard line and Badgro got another at the 5 yard line on a pass from Friedman. Friedman scored the touchdown on a dive over center for three yards and Kitzmiller's kick for the goal failed.

Bears Come from Behind.

The Bears' deferred attack gave them a touchdown in the third quarter after three forward passes which, had they been "tossed and ketched" in a famous college game, would have sent echoes ringing down the sport pages for weeks. One of them, from Brumbaugh to Johnsos, made a 35 yard gain and gave the Bears a first down on the Giants' 25 yard line. Another, from Brumbaugh to Red Grange, attended by confusing false gestures to uncover the receiver, led to another first down on the 13 yard line. Losing the ball on downs at the 8 yard line, the Bears got it back again on their 25 yard line through a bad punt by Wyckoff, of the Giants, and their thrust for the score was resumed with only a slight interruption, culminating this time in a 25 yard pass from Lintzenich to Johnsos for the touchdown.

Hein of the Giants blocked Brumbaugh's kick and the score was tied.

In the final quarter the Giants were damaged by a 15 yard penalty for holding, which gave the Bears the ball on the Giants' 45 yard line. The Bears' attack pushed the Giants to their one yard line, with various stout figures crawling over the lot in anguish, as the fury of the game unjointed them, and it looked as though some of the boys were actually willing to die, or at any rate be very ill, for dear old Mr. Mara and the dear old George Halas, manager of the Chicago Bears, Inc.

Passes Beat Giants.

Brumbaugh was thrown for a ten yard loss on an end run as the final effort of this attack, and the customers, with ardent devotion to the old Mara traditions, raised a good substantial yell of delight, mingled with the singing of the Mara loyalty song, "Fight, fight, fight for Mister Mara, Esq."

The winning touchdown for the Bears occurred abruptly when Lyman intercepted a pass on the 30 yard line. Two passes intervened and Garland Grange scored on a long pass from Brumbaugh. Buckler's place kick for the goal was wide and the score was 12 to 6. And so it ended, but the patrons were not sufficiently advanced in their traditions to go into a snake dance and the goal posts remained upright as they filed out. If they have had professional cheer leaders in this game to teach the patrons the traditions and perhaps a few hired housewreckers, tearing down the goal posts in alcoholic enthusiasm a couple of times, they could establish this custom on a firm basis with the Mara alumni.

As a special attraction, a flock of

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Cardinals ran wild yesterday at Wrigley field. They smashed the line and forward passed until they turned back the professional football champions from Green Bay, 21 to 13. Eight thousand watched the Cardinals do what no other team has been able to accomplish this season. Their inspired play checked the Packers' victorious march toward a third successive title which already had rung up nine conquests.

It was the fourth defeat in three years for Green Bay. One of these had been scored by the Cardinals last year, and that victory, as yesterday's, was solace for an early season reverse.

The Cardinals, who yesterday demonstrated a brilliant attack which had no flaw, were far superior to the Cardinals who had lost four touchdowns to one at Green Bay. Directed by Ernie Nevers, who never has been more effective as ball carrier, kicker and passer, the Chicago team capitalized on every opportunity except the first, which came early in the opening quarter.

Packers' Spark Missing.

The spark which has carried the Packers through many a hard fought contest was missing. Almost before they realized the game had started Nevers passed to Creighton for a touchdown.

The Packers rallied only briefly, and when Dick Stahlman blocked one of Nevers' kicks and Tom Nash recovered behind the goal line for a touchdown, they were back in the game. But Red Dunn failed to add the seventh and tying point because of Nat Barrager's inaccurate pass from center for the place kick, and the Cardinals held a 7 to 6 lead.

This was the score at the half. Many believed that Green Bay might come back after the rest period. But the Cardinals ruled otherwise. Midway in the third period the Cardinals marched 46 yards, using a line attack which finally sent Gene Rose over right tackle for the touchdown. Once more Nevers place kicked and the Cards led, 14 to 6.

Intercept Packer Pass.

This advantage, while sufficient, as later events proved, was increased after George Rogge, a substitute end, intercepted Fitzgibbons' pass in the fourth period and ran to the Packers' 11 yard line. Nevers' fourth down pass to Chuck Kassell completed the Cardinal scoring, except for Ernie's successful placement for point.

The Packers came back with a fury which, if it had been employed earlier, might have kept them undefeated. Their cause was hopeless, but the

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's full back jinx, it appears today, may be classified among those things that go on forever, though teams may come and teams may go.

Simultaneous with the announcement that George Melinkovich, now playing with the number one varsity, suffered painful bruises and a bone separation in Saturday's game with Navy, came another statement from Trainer Eugene (Scrap Iron) Young that Nick Lukats, who received a broken leg before the season opened, will be unable to rejoin the team for the remaining two games of the season.

Melinkovich May Play.

Melinkovich may be able to play Saturday when Notre Dame renews its classic rivalry with Southern California, but the present word from the training room says that he will not be able to scrimmage this week.

Lukats' injury, which has kept him out of the lineup all season, has failed to respond satisfactorily to treatment and the former Gary star will not even be in uniform this week. A reportorial error had him playing against Navy Saturday, but he did not make the trip to Baltimore.

Steve Banas, another full back who returned to the lineup yesterday after suffering a broken hand against Drake, will probably be with the varsity.

"Banas looked great against Navy," Coach Heartly Anderson said today. "He showed up better than ever, but he's been out of the swing of things so long I don't know how he will come through against Southern California.

"I'll have the whole team out Monday and they can expect plenty of work this week. They have had things easy for the last two weeks and they looked sloppy against Navy."

No Other Injuries.

There were no injuries on the squad other than Melinkovich's, and Anderson will be able to send practically his full fighting strength against Southern California's coast conference champions Saturday.

The Notre Dame athletic office worked full time today filling last minute orders for tickets to the game. J. Arthur Haley, business manager of athletics, reported that all out of town ticket offices have asked for more tickets. These will be supplied immediately.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 15—[Special]—Two days of most intensive practice begin tomorrow for Southern California before the Trojans depart Tuesday for South Bend and their game with Notre Dame. Coach Howard Jones will send his charges through workouts tomorrow and early Tuesday.

Every member of the Trojan first string is in first class condition, although four regulars did not play against Montana Saturday. Those who sat on the bench were Tay Brown, tackle; Capt. Stan Williamson, center; Tom Mallory, half back, and Ray Sparling, end.

Nothing serious is the matter with any of these chaps. As a result the Trojans will go into Saturday's game in far better condition, mentally and physically, than was the case a year ago when the Irish scored that smashing 27 to 0 victory.

Jones Says It's Old Stuff.

"They certainly don't expect us to fall for that one again, do they?" he said. "I understand that Notre Dame supporters consider Bernie Leahy the best full back of the whole lot, and he is still available, as is Steve Banas, who played so well against the Navy. Sometimes its just tough luck for Notre Dame's foes when the Irish lose a full back, for they always seem able to bob up with a better one."

Several substitutes looked particularly good in the Montana game. The playing of Curtis Youel at center was all that could be asked and Bob Erskine, sub tackle, was the outstanding lineman on the field.

May Shift Line.

If Jones seeks to strengthen his line in the middle he might shift Smith to guard and employ Erskine regularly at right tackle. While this would weaken the reserve strength of the team, it would insure a reinforced defense, something which Dye and Stevens have not fully provided at guard.

Homer Griffiths proved last Saturday that he will make an able understudy for Shaver and Mohler if called upon to play against the Irish.

Dick Barber, present college broad jump champion, may be used as a substitute back. The Trojans have some plays designed to get him beyond the line of scrimmage, from which he can scamper like a rabbit if he gets half a chance.

SHAMROCKS WIN OPENER FROM BUFFALO, 2 TO 1

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Chicago Shamrocks got away to an early lead in the American Hockey league's 1931-'32 race by defeating Buffalo Majors, 2 to 1, in a sensational overtime contest which officially opened the season here tonight.

Two extra points were necessary to decide the issue and the Majors were within 30 seconds of a tie when the winning goal went sailing into the strings. Just as the 9:30 mark was reached in the second and final overtime session, Gordie Brydson, leading scorer in the league last season, worked the puck down into Buffalo territory. He was checked, but managed to flip a pass over to Adye Johnson, who was unmarked on left wing, and the veteran forward let drive with a fast, high shot which had Goalie Stark beaten all the way.

The Majors were forced to fight an uphill battle, as the Rocks broke through for a goal early in the third period. Wiseman had brought Stark clear out of his nets to save, and before Jole could scramble back into position, Preleasnik sped in fast to flick the disc into a wide open cage.

A crowd of 5,500 witnessed the game and was treated to a rapid fire brand of hockey from flag fall to finish, with plenty of heavy bodying and clever combination despite the soft condition of the ice.

MATCH 4 TEAMS IN THANKSGIVING GRID TOURNEY

The Schedule

THE schedule of charity football games to be played by Big Ten teams is as follows:

Nov. 28—Purdue and Northwestern at Soldiers' field.

Nov. 28—Ohio State and Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Thanksgiving day tournament—Chicago vs. Iowa; Indiana vs. Illinois. Winners to meet afterward. All games 30 minutes. Place—Stagg field.

Admission to all games from $1 to $3.

Northwestern will meet Purdue at Soldiers' field Nov. 28 in one of the Big Ten post season games for charity. Athletic directors and coaches of the conference yesterday arranged the schedule.

A plan whereby the Wildcats would meet Michigan, which last season tied them for the championship, was abandoned when the directors determined to place the games in the largest stadia available. To do this they deemed it best that Michigan should play at Ann Arbor and that Northwestern should play in Chicago.

Michigan will play Wisconsin at Ann Arbor and Ohio State will meet Minnesota at Minneapolis in the other games Nov. 28. On Thanksgiving day, Nov. 26, the remaining teams in the conference, Chicago, Iowa, Indiana and Illinois, will participate in a tournament at Stagg field.

Maroons Meet Iowa.

Chicago will oppose Iowa in the first 30 minute game, after which Indiana will take the field against Illinois for another half hour of play. The winners will meet in a third 30 minute game.

It is reported that Northwestern and Michigan were not matched because of the policy to gain the most receipts from the entire schedule rather than to bank on one game to secure the bulk of the patronage. Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at Michigan, while admitting that Northwestern and Michigan might outdraw any one game that could be arranged, is said to have expressed a belief that to eliminate either the use of the Michigan stadium or Soldiers' field in Chicago would cut down the total receipts from all sources.

Michigan drew more than 50,000 Saturday for its game with Michigan State and had an attendance of 35,000 for the Indiana contest. Minneapolis was chosen as the third center on the basis that it always has supported its state university team. The Gophers also have a very good record this year.

Rely on Badger-Wolverine Rivalry.

Since Ohio State already had been defeated by Northwestern, 10 to 0, and Minnesota, another possible second place team (if it defeats Michigan this Saturday) had been whipped, 32 to 14, Purdue was the only other possible selection. The Boilermakers also will share second place in the Big Ten if they can dispose of Indiana this week-end.

The regular scheduled games already played this year between Michigan and Ohio State and Michigan and Minnesota meant that the Wolverines practically had to play Wisconsin, which has lost two games this year. However, it was the belief of the directors that the rivalry between the universities would make the game an excellent attraction.

Ohio State, which had declared itself willing to meet Northwestern for a second game, was assigned to Minnesota. Purdue might have been an opponent for Michigan, but in that case Wisconsin would have played Northwestern. The schedule as arranged was believed more satisfactory from the standpoint of gate receipts.

Attendance Estimates Given.

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western conference, last night said: "The games were arranged entirely on the basis of securing the greatest number of admissions in the largest available stadia. The discussion of the athletic directors was to that end."

Various estimates were given as to the crowds which might be expected to attend the three regular games on Nov. 28. Conservative figures would place the attendance as follows: Northwestern-Purdue, 50,000; Michigan-Wisconsin, 50,000 and Ohio State-Minnesota, 40,000. This should bring a gross income of nearly a third of a million dollars.

What attendance can be expected at the Thanksgiving day tournament at Stagg field is problematical. The Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals professional teams are a counter attraction that day. The time of the tournament and other details will be announced later.

Traveling expenses for the contesting teams and printing of tickets will be the only expenses for the charity games. Only one press ticket will be allotted each newspaper and that for a reporter engaged in covering the game. All others must purchase tickets.

The tournament on Thanksgiving day was arranged because the direc-

THANKFUL PURPLE PLAYERS GIVEN FULL DAY'S REST

They Still Suffer from Indiana Scare.

Northwestern's football team will not report for practice today. Coach Dick Hanley will give the boys another day in which to recover from the effects of the scare they received at the hands of Indiana Saturday. Even the reserves have been requested to lay off and forget about football for a while.

Rest and relaxation, rather than practice, is what the Wildcats need most at present, according to sentiment in the Northwestern camp. Against Indiana the Purple appeared tired and listless, the natural effects of a trying season. The linemen were unable to carry out their assignments with the finesse they showed against opponents earlier in the season.

Letdown Was Inevitable.

"I guess we were headed for this letdown," was Coach Hanley's comment on the Indiana game. "We have met tough opponents all fall and they took a lot out of us. Then, again, the autograph hunters have been so busy with our boys of late that they couldn't quite get their minds on this game. And we were facing a hard charging and fine tackling Indiana team. Those Hoosiers played a great game, don't think they didn't."

The only ill effects suffered by the Wildcats was a blow to their pride. The players came out of the game physically sound and, barring injury in practice this week, all will be ready for the Iowa game Saturday.

Welcome Reb's Return.

Reb Russell's return to his old time plunging form was the most cheerful note of the game as far as Northwestern is concerned. It was Russell's masterful plunging that accounted for the Wildcats' touchdown.

Although he played only a small portion of the game, Russell proved he is still the line smasher of old.

MAROONS JUBILANT

The University of Chicago football team was jubilant yesterday over its victory over Illinois Saturday, not alone because it jumped them from a tie for last place to a tie for seventh in the conference standings, but because they outplayed the larger Illini squad.

Coach Stagg's verdict on the game was, "very exciting, very satisfactory." "The game was a good deal like those we played against Purdue and Michigan," the Old Man remarked, "except that this time our effort was sustained. I was pleased with Sahlin's choice of plays after Wallace had gone out of the game. We shall have some show against Wisconsin. It has a probable edge but we're not out of it."

Chicago used a reserve center, Zenner, throughout the game, and only three line replacements, two of them fresh ends inserted in the last quarter to hurry Illini passers. With Paul Stagg and Gene Buzzell out of the game with injuries, and Wallace, Zimmer and Temple slowed up with hard tackles, Coach Stagg was compelled to use his full complement of back field men.

MICHIGAN FACES TASK

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Coming down the Big Ten stretch the Michigan eleven appears to be headed for games with its strongest opponents of the season—Minnesota and Wisconsin. Michigan has lost one game and been held to a scoreless tie in another.

Coach Harry Kipke plans to give the Wolverines just enough work this week to keep them on edge for next Saturday's engagement with Munn, Manders and company of Minnesota.

The Wolverines came through the State game unscathed, although the center of the line took a pounding from the spinners that sent Monnett whirling at the forwards. It is likely that Tessmer will be available again next Saturday, as his injured shoulder is healing. That will make the team intact, as La Jeunesse played the entire game against State. New plays and rehearsal of the formations given out last week but kept under cover because of the condition on the field Saturday, will occupy the squad tomorrow afternoon.

ILLINI ARE HOPEFUL

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Hopeful that the return of disabled players will enable them to present a stronger lineup against Ohio State at Columbus Saturday, the Illini will begin to prepare tomorrow for the biennial invasion of the Buckeye stronghold.

Coach Bob Zuppke listened to the report of his scout at the Ohio State-Wisconsin game and sought ways to strengthen the Illinois line, whose weakness yesterday cost the game with the Maroons.

The Illini may be somewhat stronger if several players who were not in shape yesterday are able to don suits. The disability of Walser, quarter back, was one disadvantage but it is not certain he can come back.

PURDUE SEEKS BUCKET

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The Purdue eleven starts on the quest of the old oaken bucket tomorrow as it launches preparations for its annual game with Indiana at Bloomington Saturday. The game promises to be one of the greatest in the long series.

Indiana's showing against Chicago and its great battle with Northwestern yesterday have established the Crimson as favorite over Purdue, but the Boilermakers are determined to bring back the bucket, which passed into Indiana's possession for the first time last season when the Crimson won, 7 to 6.

The Boilermakers came through their battle with Iowa yesterday in fair physical condition, although there were the usual minor bumps and bruises. Although Purdue's running attack was clicking, averaging better than five yards, Coach Noble Kizer still was dissatisfied.

"We will have to display more scoring punch than we have displayed all season if we can hope to beat Indiana," was Kizer's comment tonight.

So much for an outline of the scoring. These details do not include the intensity of rivalry between the linemen which, at the end of the half, threatened to break into open warfare. Nor does it describe the generalship, which called for frequent and successful use of passes, even deep in territory ordinarily considered dangerous.

Cardinal Line Shines

Gene Rose and Bill Glasgow, who was injured early in the game, marched to the offensive tempo set by Nevers, and Irwin Hill, also taken out later, helped in opening gaps in the Packers' line. While these backs were outstanding, the work of the entire team featured the Cardinal victory. From end to end the line stemmed the Packer rushes until the triumph was assured.

The first quarter was all Cardinal. Five times they made first down while the Packers were held almost without gain. The Cards swept down to Packer territory without delay, but this assault ended when Nevers failed in an attempted field goal while standing on Green Bay's 23 yard line.

Johnny Blood kicked and back came the Cards with a drive of 52 yards which ended only at the goal line. Three forward passes formed the backbone of the march. Nevers passed to Hill, then to Glasgow, and finally on fourth down, threw to Creighton, who ran 24 yards for the score. Both Fitzgibbon and Blood, the defenders, failed to check Creighton after he received the ball.

Block Punt for Touchdown.

The Packers made their touchdown immediately. After kickoff and an exchange of kicks, Nevers stood on his own 13 yard line to punt. Stahlman broke through the line and the ball bounded from his chest. Nash scooped it up and ran to the Cardinal goal.

The second Cardinal score also came after the Packers had stopped the first threat in the third period. Four successive first downs, all on short gains through the line or around the ends on reverse plays, covered 48 yards. Rose crossed the goal mark from the one yard line. Rose, for a second time, held the ball while Nevers successfully kicked for the point.

Molenda's forward pass to Gantenbein, which gained 21 yards and pushed the ball to the Cardinals' 21 yard line late in the same quarter, brought the Packers to life. Blood, however, couldn't gain and three incomplete passes forced Green Bay to relinquish the ball.

Blood Stops Rogge.

The teams changed goals for the last quarter and the Packers continued their passing attack. On the Packers' second down in midfield, Rogge stepped under Fitzgibbon's flat pass and was away. Only the fleetness of Blood, who came from behind, stopped the touchdown right then. Nevers' lateral pass to Walt Holmer took up three yards of the remaining 11, but the Cardinals lost five when two passes were incomplete.

Then came the last effort which sailed directly to Kassell, who was standing uncovered in the Packer end zone.

Eleven minutes of the game remained, but the next drive by Green Bay, started by Hank Bruder, who raced 20 yards around left end, faded away once more when the Card back field knocked down passes. But the Packers returned to the attack and this time they could not be denied. Dunn passed to Bruder for 20 yards, and another pass, Dunn to Blood, shoved the Cards back to their 7 yard strip. On the next play the Cards were offside. Bruder then scored on two smashes at guard.

Statistics show that the Cardinals made eleven first downs, four by passing and seven by running. The Packers accomplished twelve first downs, divided as follows: running, 6; passing, 5, and penalty, 1.

Eight completed passes in fifteen attempted gained 104 yards for the Cardinals. One pass was intercepted. Green Bay tried 26 passes. Ten were completed for a total gain of 149 yards. Another was ruled complete for interference, while fourteen passes were incomplete and one was intercepted.

HICKEY'S JOB IN DANGER; A. A. MEETS TODAY

The position of Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association for the last 15 years, yesterday appeared in danger as the club owners began assembling here for their annual meeting today.

Reports indicate that there will be at least three candidates in the field for the presidency, although Hickey's supporters are convinced they have enough votes pledged to retain him in office.

George Belden, owner of the Minneapolis club, was one of the outstanding candidates to succeed Hickey if he fails in election. W. E. Clauer of Indianapolis and Joseph Carr of Columbus, president of the National Football league, also have been mentioned.

MANDERS KEEPS BIG TEN SCORING LEAD WITH 32

Jack Manders, Minnesota's full back, had no opportunity Saturday to increase his point total in conference competition, but his 32, collected previously, was still good enough to lead. Manders played a part of the Gopher warmup with Cornell college at Mount Vernon, Ia., and scored a touchdown, which gave him a tie with Paul Pardonner of Purdue, for the Big Ten lead in all games. HOPPE DEFEATS COCHRAN TO WIN 18.1 CUE TITLE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe regained the world's 18.1 billiard championship from Welker Cochran, 3,600 to 3,037, in their challenge match which ended here today.

An early lead assumed by Hoppe was cut down considerably in the final two blocks of play. In the eleventh 300 point block, played Saturday, Cochran shot 367 to 300 for Hoppe and in the final block it was Cochran 504, Hoppe 300. Cochran took the title from Hoppe last year.

selves tossed into the penalty box, almost simultaneously. The six men to four status did not help the Chicago cause perceptibly.

The best Chicago try came with the second period seven minutes old when March almost effected a duplicate of his initial scoring effort. Worters attended to things with a nice stop, one of 13 he was called upon to make during the period.

Early in the third period Couture developed a threat when he pushed the puck directly off Worters' toes but team mates were checked in their efforts to come up and bang home a tally.

Wentworth, Worters Tangle.

Bostrom skated through the defense a little later, but was off balance just enough to prevent him from putting steam on his shot. The next rally ended with both Wentworth and Worters inside the cage, battling to extricate themselves. There was no room in the net for a puck, however, so the referee blew the whistle while teammates reclaimed the tangled athletes.

The highest speed of the night was maintained after the half way mark in the final period. After a hot shot by Gottselig had been stopped, the Americans got the puck, and on a pass from Lamb, Massecar had a beautiful shot, but Gardiner saved.

The overtime period opened with March, Adams and Cook in the forward line and Graham and Bostrom on defense. There was only one shot in the first two minutes, a long one by Burch of the Americans, which Gardiner easily knocked down.

Stops Lowrey's Shot.

When the period was 3½ minutes old Lowrey made a long shot that might have been a lucky winner. Worters, however, stopped it in midair with the shank of his stick.

At the end the Americans appeared content with a tie, for they simply tossed the puck out of danger whenever it came into their possession.

WILD BILL KELLY, PRO GRIDDER, DIES OF INDIGESTION

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—William C. [Wild Bill] Kelley, 29 years old, for several seasons a professional football player, died early today of acute indigestion.

Physicians said he had eaten a quantity of peanuts and frankfurters at the Fordham-New York university game yesterday and was taken ill when he returned home.

Kelley played last season with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Previously he had been on C. C. Pyle's Yankees, the All-Americans and the Yellow Jackets. He was a graduate of the University of Montana, and played on the Montana team.

Quick Change Puts Grobmier in Mat Windup

Fred Grobmier, an Iowa wrestler who specializes in body scissors holds, will oppose Rudy Dusek in a two falls match at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight in the Fronton's opening wrestling show of the season. Dusek was scheduled to wrestle Kola Kwariani, perennial contender for whatever portion of the heavyweight championship Jim Londos holds, but last night he telegraphed Doc Krone, promoter, that he would not appear here tonight.

Krone immediately shuffled up his card for the evening, expressing the customary indignation over Kwariani's decision not to wrestle. He threatened, or promised, to go before the state athletic commission at its next meeting and demand that Kwariani be barred from wrestling in Illinois for life.

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football captain, will return to the mat after several weeks' absence because of an injury to wrestle Jack Hollenback in the semi-final match.

Earl McCready, Oklahoman, will oppose Gino Garibaldi, while Jack Zarnos, who was to have wrestled Grobmier, will wrestle Billy Evans. The opening match will be between Ollie Anderson and Rudy Hoffman, Chicago heavyweights.

CARNERA BOXES AGAIN TODAY FOR LEVINSKY BOUT

Primo Carnera will spar several rounds at the Arcade gymnasium this afternoon for his bout with King Levinsky at the Stadium Thursday. The 260 pound Italian arrived here Saturday and boxed three rounds, two with Frank Young, an amateur heavyweight, and one with Joe Mendoza, a light heavyweight.

Carnera called on Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, Saturday and deposited $1,250, the amount he was fined by the Italian boxing union. Payment of this fine automatically restored him to good standing in National Boxing association.

Bat Battalino, featherweight champion, is due here today to resume training for his ten round bout with Bushy Graham. Graham also is due today. They meet at 128 pounds, two pounds over the featherweight limit, at the Stadium Thursday.

Three six-round bouts and four four-round contests will comprise Billy Cepak's boxing card Wednesday at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street; Billy Gladstone, Ravenswood, and Lou Vine of the south side meet in a six-round bout.

Earl Mastro, Chicago featherweight, left yesterday for Kansas City, Mo., where he will box on the Dempsey exhibition card Wednesday night. Mastro boxes a four-round exhibition with Herbie Derex.

Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, will box Lou Brouillard, present champ, at Boston, Dec. 11 in a title bout. Jackie will engage in two tune-up contests before the bout. Tonight at Pittsburgh he fights Jimmy Belmont and Nov. 23 at Rochester, N. Y., meets Bucky Lawless.

Tommy Rios, who meets Paulie Walker at the Stadium Thursday, is en route from Wilmington, Del., where he lost a decision to Johnny Ketchell Friday.

A triple windup for the weekly amateur boxing show at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace, tonight. Eddie Chinski of Kankakee will meet Joe Serletic, Hank Kastman is paired with Rudolph Kusiak, and Lynn Thompson boxes Jimmy Christy.

SING SING WINS, 33 TO 0, BUT IT'S NOT HOMECOMING

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 15.—[Special]—Sing Sing's sweeping victory over Ossining Naval militia today, in the opening of the prison's first football season, settled one thing. The institution needs a stadium, for, as the admitting guards lamented, after 1,000 inmates were seated in the stands and 500 men and women visitors admitted, 200 prospective cash patrons had to be turned away.

The team carried the Black and White to glory with a score of 33 to 0, placing the institution in the Big Three of inmate football, and, in the opinion of informed onlookers, putting Alabama Pitts, quarter back, and Whitey Stokes, end, the stars of the game, in the running for the all-American team. Moreover, it netted Ossining's unemployment fund $138 in entrance fees.

Observing gridiron tradition, a parade of the opposing teams was led by the Sing Sing band blaring "Throw Him Down, McCluskey," and other martial airs that serve as school songs behind the walls, and by the mascot, a pony painted in black and white—not a zebra could be found in the Westchester hills—carrying Joan Marie Lawes, 10 year old daughter of the warden.

With the first whistle the Sing Sing team swung into action, sweeping through the naval militiamen. They were unstoppable in the first two periods.

To their vanquished opponents the players explained that the layout of the field served as inspirational at first, for the prison gate lay in the direction of the goal.

Friendly to the Teeth

Just ask any Old Gold smoker!

OLD GOLDS

Next time you meet an OLD GOLD smoker . . . notice his teeth! We'll wager you won't see a sign of unsightly stains.

Choicer tobacco is one reason. But there's another! The tobacco is pure and undoctored. It's free of those oily, artificial flavorings that burn into clinging, staining fumes.

Convince yourself! Try OLD GOLDS for a week. Then glance in the mirror at your teeth. Nary a smoke stain! And man, how you'll enjoy that famous O. G. throat-ease!

CHICAGO TALK OF BIG TEN; INDIANA GETS HAND, TOO

But What Happened to Northwestern?

If Indiana and Chicago supplied the punch Saturday to what had been anticipated as a rather drab set of football games in the Big Ten. The second guessers now may have their inning to explain how Northwestern, which rallied a week ago, after trailing Minnesota 14 points, to win, 32 to 14, could barely sneak in with a 7 to 6 victory over Indiana.

Psychological let down and so on are excellent terms, not to mention weather conditions, but as the game was played Indiana gave Northwestern a battle which nearly shoved the Wildcats into a tie for the championship. The Wildcats won only because Vic Dauer's place kick after touchdown struck a goal post and bounded back. Indiana always has played its best games against Northwestern.

Russell Back in Action.

Correspondingly, Coach Hanley may well feel proud that his boy Engebretsen booted the point after the touchdown scored by Reb Russell, who played his first game since the opening contest with Nebraska.

Now for that Chicago victory over Illinois, 15 to 6. Congratulations are in order for the Maroons, who had not known victory since Sept. 26. Chicago probably played more consistently on offense than in previous games. At least it maintained the pace until the end.

The defeat was a final blow to Illinois. Chicago was the only team it defeated last year in five Big Ten games. Saturday's setback was the fifth conference loss this year, and with Ohio State remaining on the schedule, Illinois seems certain of a sixth defeat.

Coach Zuppke could use a few good linemen who, it is said, have been matriculating in far southern and western universities.

Another Scoreless Tie.

Michigan State and Michigan continued their battle for state honors without a decision for the second successive year. Neither team has been able to score on the other for two seasons. The bruising battle may subtract from the Wolverines' chances of defeating Minnesota this week, since the Gophers exercised lightly Saturday while routing Cornell college, 47 to 7.

Ohio State continued its second place pace by defeating Wisconsin, 6 to 0, in the Badgers' homecoming. The game was decided on a slippery field with a dense fog blanket screening the second half. Two successive blocked kicks in the first quarter provided the touchdown and only Wisconsin's goal line defense, which once was aided by a penalty for offside, prevented the Buckeyes from increasing their margin.

Purdue Celebrates with Victory.

Purdue celebrated homecoming by whipping Iowa, 33 to 0, for its third victory of the Big Ten schedule. Its defeat was by Wisconsin. Michigan, Purdue and Ohio State now share second place with Minnesota close behind with two victories and one defeat.

Southern leaders played about as expected Saturday, but the east produced several upsets. Pitt had been favored to win from the Army, but the 26 to 0 score was larger than anticipated. Pitt's forward passing piled up the tremendous gain of more than 300 yards.

Then there were Cornell and Syracuse, which failed to protect undefeated records. Dartmouth whipped Cornell, 14 to 6, and Colgate bested Syracuse, 21 to 7. Dartmouth might have been expected to crack under the strain of three topline battles. Yale tied Dartmouth, 33 to 33; Harvard won, 7 to 6, a week ago, but Saturday the boys of Hanover rallied to trounce a previously unbeaten eleven which had been hailed as Coach Gil Dobie's best.

Harvard Gains Revenge.

Harvard gained revenge on Holy Cross by winning 7 to 0. Last year Harvard lost, 27 to 0. Incidentally, Harvard has not been beaten this year although it has won two of its games [Army and Dartmouth] by one point. Yale is the opponent this week and the Elis have had ample time and time for preparation. Yale did not play Saturday.

Columbia was held five times near Navy's goal line before smashing through for a 9 to 7 victory on a safety. New York university, defeated twice in succession, battled to a scoreless tie with Fordham in the first of the games for the metropolitan championship.

Princeton lost another football game, this time to Washington and Lee, 6 to 4. Notre Dame pulled up after a second quarter assault which scored all its points to win from the Navy at Baltimore, 20 to 0. The Irish now can get ready for Southern California Saturday and the Army game in New York the week following.

Co-Leaders in South.

Tulane and Tennessee have the title race under control in the southern conference. Tulane ended Georgia's undefeated record, 20 to 7, while Tennessee whipped Vanderbilt, 21 to 7. Louisiana and Sewanee are the only other southern teams remaining on Tulane's schedule. Washington State meets Tulane Dec. 5 at New Orleans.

Texas defeated Texas Christian Saturday, 19 to 0. It was the Christians' first defeat in the Southwestern conference. Southern Methodist, now undisputed leader, won from Baylor, 6 to 0. S. M. U. has won eight successive games this year and if it can beat Texas Christian this week it could go on through the season undefeated. Navy and St. Mary's are other opponents.

Kansas Aggies Eliminated.

Nebraska eliminated the Kansas Aggies in the Big Six race Saturday, winning 6 to 3. It was the Aggies' second defeat, for a week ago they lost to Iowa State, 7 to 6. Nebraska and Iowa State are tied for the title and will fight it out Saturday. Iowa State lost to Drake last week, 7 to 6.

Southern California tuned up for its game with Notre Dame at South Bend by swamping Montana, 69 to 0. Oregon and Oregon State played a scoreless tie for the state championship, while Washington won its state title from Washington State, 12 to 0. Stanford and California were easy victors.

BIG TEN DOES ITS BIT TO AID NEEDY

N.U. to Meet Purdue Eleven for Charity

tors did not believe that regularly scheduled games on Nov. 28 would be patronized. All of the tournament games will be two regulation quarters of 15 minutes each.

Admission at all charity games will be scaled from $1 to $3, depending on location of the seats.

Whole Boxes at Premium Prices.

Box seats will be sold at a premium, that is, any one who wishes to make a large contribution can obtain an entire box. Otherwise box seats will be sold at the established top price of $3 each.

The receipts from all the charity contests will be turned over to the governors' commission for disbursement. The seven states represented in the Western conference will share in the money on a basis of population.

The directors and coaches at yesterday's meeting did not discuss the proposal that Northwestern appear in the annual Tournament of Roses game on the Pacific coast against the University of Southern California. Only the faculty representatives, it is said, have authority to grant this permission.

Kipke Only Absentee.

All the Big Ten coaches except Harry Kipke of Michigan and all directors of athletics were present at yesterday's meeting. Those attending were:

Michigan—Fielding H. Yost.
Minnesota—Fritz Crisler.
Purdue—Nelson H. Kellogg and Noble Kizer.
Northwestern—K. L. Wilson and Dick Hanley.
Illinois—George Huff and Robert Zuppke.
Wisconsin—George Little and Glenn Thistlethwaite.
Iowa—Dr. E. H. Lauer and Burt Ingwersen.
Maj. John H. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner.

PLAN TO REOPEN CENTRAL LEAGUE WITH 8 TEAMS

Erie, Pa., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Plans to operate the Central Baseball league next year as an eight club circuit were laid at a league meeting here today.

Franchises have been taken, is was announced, by Akron, Dayton and Canton in Ohio; South Bend and Fort Wayne in Indiana, and by Erie. Two other cities, the identities of which were not disclosd, are expected to sign later. The circuit last operated in 1930. Financial difficulties led to its suspension this year.

Berwyn Parrots Crush Chicago Cullertons, 39-0

Berwyn Parrots crushed Chicago Cullertons, 39 to 0 yesterday, at Berwyn stadium to become favorites in the Midwest football league middleweight title race. Louie Crane made runs of 73 and 52 yards for touchdowns. Ken Hisler, former Lindblom ace, sprinted 43 yards on double reverse for another score.

CHURCH LEAGUE TO MEET.

The Church Athletic association basketball league will meet tonight at 109 North Dearborn street. More than 30 churches have entered the league.

MILLS, UNBEATEN MEMPHIS TEAM PLAY 0 TO 0 TIE

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Just about everything happened in a football game today between the Mills eleven of Chicago and the Memphis Tigers but the scoring of points, and it was a back-to-the-wall battle of the Mills that provided the feature.

During most of the game the teams struggled for advantage, with honors about even. Corny Collins and Tony Lawless of Chicago were matching the efforts of Bucky Moore and Garland Beavers in ground gaining and the few breaks of the game were about even. Lineup:

Cavette	L. E.	Dowling
J. Moore	L. T.	Wiltz
Norvell	L. G.	Foley
Ebert	C.	Murphy
Blankenbaker	R. G.	Flinn
Kimbrough	R. T.	Ryan
Applewhite	R. E.	Brennan
Leftwich	Q. B.	Collins
Marks	L. H.	Stuckey
B. Moore	R. H.	Durkin
Beavers	F. B.	Lawless

Substitutes—Memphis—Herrin, Schneider, Morphis, Murray. Mills—Downs, Lautsenkirchen, Walsh, Connelly, White.

Al and Jimmy Were There.

Al Smith's brown derby popped up in the first row of the field boxes, accompanied by Mr. Smith, himself, and the faithful rose and saluted the New York crown, with great respect. His honor, the mayor, Mr. Walker, made a more formal entrance, walking half the length of the field, attended by several policemen wearing side arms. He raised his hat several times, developing a slight crease in one sleeve and two secretaries tore for the phones to summon his valets. However, two dozen pants pressers jumped out of nearby seats to smooth things out and a critical situation in the affairs of the local state was averted.

A bit of scandal occurred when the mayor entered the governor's box to sit through the game with him. People had understood that they were sore at each other, back and forth, and their apparent amity during the ball game gave rise to ugly rumors of a reconciliation which, to the adherents of each, would be a discredit to both.

The mayor was dressed as a straight man in a refined singing and dancing act with original witty sayings, with the brim of his hat, a delicate creation in the tint of café au lait, turned down in a fetching, rather mischievous tilt over his right eye. He and Mr. Smith fell to sparring during the first quarter, but no blows were struck and it developed that Mr. Walker was merely demonstrating the favorite punch of his favorite prize fighter, Max Rosenbloom.

Mr. Mara Is Benevolent.

Mr. Mara, the Giants' alma pater, was in high spirits when the house had been counted, with some 30,000 patrons in the park, most of them on a strictly cash basis. Professional football had a difficult time for several seasons in New York, owing to popular disinterest and bad weather, but this year, patrons have seen little spiritual difference between teams which play to support expensive college plants, including coaches, press agents and graduate managers and the kind that play to support such as Mr. Mara. It would be very difficult for the common customer to borrow ten dollars from a college A. A., whereas Mr. Mara is well known as a very soft touch. The weather has assisted Mr. Mara's business this season, also, today's conditions being typical, with a fairly warm atmosphere and good visibility.

It stirred strange sentiments, nevertheless, to see Red Cagle in the Giants' back field remembering the figure he was at West Point a couple of years ago. He was a god then, with all the prestige and social quality of the U. S. Military academy on his side, but today he was just one journeyman among others, playing for customers who had the right to belier and scold if his playing had happened to disappoint their erratic desires.

Mr. O'Neill Was Grand.

No account of the stirring struggle of the professionals would be fair and complete without a special tribute to the agile, grave and majestic authority of Mr. Frank (Buck) O'Neill of 101 Ranch, Harvard and Oxford university, in the rôle of head linesman. Mr. O'Neill is an all time all American head linesman and any one who saw him in tremendous action today elevating the job of head linesman to its deserved importance is certain to forget all other head linesmen. His pacing off the yards, feet and inches was scrupulous and efficient, yet distinguished by a certain magnificence and he was, in fact, a very Barrymore of head linesmen, and should receive a substantial percentage of the gate.

Northern Buck Deer Battle Is Told by Becker

BY BOB BECKER.

The grim story of a struggle between two large buck deer that resulted in the death of one of the animals before a game warden found them, and the killing of the victorious deer has just reached us from the forest country near Three Lakes, Wis. The battle between the bucks is a good illustration of how furious the conflicts between deer are at this time of the year.

The deer with their horns interlocked were first sighted about fifteen miles from Three Lakes on the road to Butternut lake. The warden went out immediately to pick up the trail of the animals. He found it and followed it without difficulty.

When he came upon the two animals, one of them, a three pointer, was dead. The other, a five pointer, was alive. It was vainly trying to shake itself free from its foe which it had killed.

The warden estimated that the fight had been concluded about two days before he found the deer. Since the bigger deer had whipped its rival the former had been dragging its victim through the forest, judging from the condition of the lower jaw of the dead anfmal.

The warden made several attempts to separate the horns of the two animals, but the five pointer was quite vicious. When it became apparent that he could not free the living deer from the horns of its dead foe, the warden was forced to kill the victor of the fight. Upon examination later it was found that it was practically impossible to separate the horns without breaking one of them.

When the carcass of the winning deer which lost [even though it won a battle with a hated rival] was sold by the warden [as if it were confiscated venison] finis was written to a duel which not many outdoor fans are privileged to see.

The autumn months bring about many a fight between buck deer, bull moose, caribou and other big game of the north country. Of all of the game of this type probably the deer have the most tragic endings from battles because their horns can interlock so tightly that the animals are powerless to free themselves.

PROVIDENCE WINS, 6-0.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A 49-yard touchdown march in the fourth quarter brought Providence a 6 to 0 victory over the Stapleton team in a National Professional Football league game here this afternoon. Woodruff, former Memphis player, scored on a half yard plunge through center. A 30-yard forward pass from Dexter Shelley, former Texas star, to Charles H. Edwards of Chicago, ex-Brown captain, was a big factor in the touchdown drive.

Propose Final Olympic Trial at Stanford

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The United States Olympic track and field committee, meeting here today in connection with the annual national convention of the A. A. U., recommended that final tryouts for the U. S. team in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles next summer be held July 15 and 16 at Stanford university.

The recommendations will be acted upon in New York Nov. 29 at a meeting of the executive committee of the American Olympic association, headed by Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the A. A. U.

The committee in session here also recommended that the western Olympic semi final tryouts be held at Long Beach, Calif., and that the annual meets of the I. C. A. A. A. A. and the National Collegiate Athletic association in 1932 be listed as semi-final tryouts. The winners of the first three places in the finals will represent the United States at the Olympic games July 30-August 14.

Joseph T. England of Baltimore, committee chairman, was nominated to head the managerial staff of the United States track and field men's team. Fred L. Steers of Chicago was recommended for a similar position with the women's team. Steers' assistants would be Martin J. Cline, New York, and Alfred R. Masters, Stanford, Calif.

JUGO-SLAVS LOSE TO CARPENTERS AT SOCCER, 4-0

The Carpenters surprised Chicago soccer fans yesterday when they eliminated the Jugoslavs from the National Cup competition, 4 to 0, in the first qualifying round at Gaelic park.

Olympia also advanced by beating the Buda A. A., 1 to 0, at 47th avenue and 19th street, and the Maccabees were eliminated when they lost to the Wanderers, 2 to 1, at Kuppenheimer stadium.

In an inter-league match at Sparta field, Sparta defeated the MacDuffs of the Major league, 7 to 1. The Bohemians scored five goals in the first half then eased up.

The Swedish-Americans beat the Norwegians 2 to 1 in an International league game at Norwegian field and the Chicago Sports defeated the Danish-Americans by the same count. Lineups:

ST. PHILIP TIES ST. MEL; CLAIMS SECTION TITLE

Beat St. Michael, Then On to Finals, Is Plan.

St. Philip High school, by playing a scoreless tie with St. Mel, co-holder of first place, in the mud at Mills stadium before 10,000 yesterday, practically clinched the north section championship of the Chicago Catholic High School Football league.

Including yesterday's tie, St. Mel and St. Philip have eleven points apiece, according to the point system used by the league. While it was St. Mel's last north section game, St. Philip still has a contest with St. Michael, postponed twice because of inclement weather. Victory over St. Michael will give St. Philip the sectional title.

Whether St. Philip is to play St. Michael will be decided at a meeting of athletic directors and officials of the Catholic league today. If St. Philip and St. Michael are given permission to play, it will keep Mount Carmel, which won the south section title two weeks ago, on the sidelines for another fortnight.

St. Michael Weak Team.

St. Michael, which has not won one of its six league games, was ready to concede St. Philip the victory last week when three teams were tied for the lead.

Last night both St. Philip and St. Michael officials said they would ask Brother Sylvester, president of the league, for permission to play next Sunday, and thus put off the championship game until Nov. 29. Mount Carmel opposes this plan.

In the game yesterday, St. Philip brought the ball within scoring distance several times. St. Philip's big chance came in the second period. With Serritella and Sattler carrying the ball, St. Philip reached the St. Mel 35-yard line after receiving a punt on its own 55-yard strip.

Fumble Ends Drive.

Two more first downs advanced the ball to St. Mel's ten-yard line. Sattler gained four yards by driving through tackle and on the next play St. Philip lost its chance for a touchdown when a fumble was recovered by St. Mel.

LOYOLA TIES, 6-6.

Loyola academy and St. Patrick played to a 6 to 6 tie in their final north section game at Loyola field yesterday. After a long pass and a 20 yard run by Healy L. Corrigan plunged from the 1 yard line for the Loyola touchdown in the opening quarter. Ascher scored St. Patrick's touchdown on a 15 yard run in the third period.

20 SMOKE LAW VIOLATORS FACE INSPECTOR TODAY

Representatives of Nine Loop Buildings Called.

In an effort to prevent smoking stacks from polluting the air in the central business district, Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, has summoned representatives of nine loop buildings to appear at his office today.

The building representatives will be asked by Chambers to explain why the building engineers have allowed the stacks of these buildings to belch smoke in violation of the smoke abatement ordinance. They will be warned that if a second violation occurs, suits will be started by the city in the Municipal court.

20 Summoned to Hearing.

In all, twenty persons or business concerns have been summoned to today's hearing. Including the nine loop buildings and one public building, they are:

Police department, 155 West Illinois street.
Railway Exchange building, 80 East Jackson boulevard.
H. Channon & Co., 149 North Wacker drive.
Henry C. Lytton & Sons, 235 South State street.
Kranz building, 19 West Randolph street.
Rosenberg & Lurie, 188 West Randolph street.
Lake-Michigan building, 180 North Michigan avenue.
Illinois Bell Telephone company, 311 West Washington street.
Mr. Crawford, 105 West Adams street.
Merchandise Mart building, 222 North Bank drive.
Eagle Wabash corporation, 250 East Erie street.
Charles Rusinow, 1228 North Leavitt street.
Trixie-A-Specialty company, 3101 Walnut street.
Baldy Vulcanizing company, 875 West 120th street.
Louis Tops, 3149 North Linder avenue.
Illinois Interior Finish company, 7571 Breezewood avenue.
Dental Products company, 7512 Greenwood avenue.
Chicago and North Western railroad, Clinton and Lake streets.

Many Correct Furnaces.

Only 10 per cent of those summoned to a hearing before the smoke abatement board are caught in second violations, Chambers said. The other 90 per cent correct the defects in operating their furnaces which caused the first violation of the ordinance.

Surgical Kit, Rum Permits Stolen from Doctor's Auto

Dr. Louis Rosine of 1800 St. Charles road, Maywood, reported to the police last night that thieves had broken into his parked automobile and stolen his bag of surgical instruments and a book of government liquor permits. The theft occurred at Polk and Paulina streets while he was on a call, he said.

Kaspar G. Schmidt, Son of Former Controller, Dead

Kaspar G. Schmidt, a son of George E. Schmidt, former city controller and one time candidate for mayor, died last night in his father's home, 4228 Sheridan road, after a brief illness. Mr. Schmidt, who was 33 years old, was an official of the O-Cedar Mop company.

PANAMA CANAL TRAFFICS DROPS, REPORT SHOWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Commercial traffic through the Panama canal dropped to a new low level for recent times during the fiscal year ending June 30 last. The annual report of Harry Burgess, governor of the canal, made public today, disclosed the 1931 figures for number of transits by vessels, net tonnages, tolls collected, and tonnage of cargo were exceeded during the three preceding years —1928, 1929, and 1930.

HARRY BURGESS. [Acme Photo.]

Total tolls collected during the last fiscal year amounted to $24,645,456, a 9 per cent reduction from tolls collected the preceding year. The net income from tolls and other miscellaneous receipts known as canal revenue was $14,847,227, just $3,235,000 less than was collected the previous year. All told, the canal's net revenue amounted to but 2¾ per cent on its capital investment of 536 million dollars in round numbers.

Not Earning Interest Charge.

"Considering the capital invested and accumulated interest on the investment," said Gov. Burgess, "the present total capital liability is such that the canal is not yet earnings the annual interest charge at 4 per cent. For this reason and others, including the necessity of excessive additional expenditures in order to bring the canal to its highest efficiency, it would appear that at present there is no occasion to consider a reduction in tolls."

While no recommendations for a general increase in tolls was made by the Panama canal governor, he disclosed that another effort is to be made at the next session of congress to enact legislation establishing a single basis for determining the tonnage of vessels on which tolls are paid. Enactment of legislation recommended by Gov. Burgess, which would make the Panama canal system of measurement the only legal one would be to slightly increase revenue.

Plan Third Series of Locks.

Discussing the ultimate capacity of the canal, Gov. Burgess produced figures indicating 100 years would elapse before another canal would be necessary. He said that by addition of a third series of locks the capacity could be brought to between 126 and 142 millions of tons annually.

The governor estimated that the canal will not increase faster than ten million tons a decade. The present tonnage does not exceed thirty million.

"It is planned," said Gov. Burgess, "to build the third flight of locks directly alongside the existing locks. It is estimated the cost would be approximately 140 million dollars and that, in the interest of economy, it would be advisable to extend the construction period over ten years. It seems a fairly safe prediction to estimate the growth of traffic as not more than ten million Panama canal net tons per decade, and to estimate the third locks will be required in from thirty to forty years. This would be approximately 1970 or 1975."

U. S., CANADA RESUME PARLEY ON SHIPWAY; COSTS ARE DEBATED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—A reconvening of the joint Canadian-American engineering board to plan the development of the international section of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway was announced tonight by the state department in a communique on the recent negotiations between Secretary of State Henry L. Simpson and W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister.

"Following the conference at the state department it was announced that the discussions had been of a broad and general nature, confined to an exchange of views upon the more important phases of the problem facing the two governments," said the communique. "The discussion dealt with the international section of the waterway; the development of the purely Canadian national section of the St. Lawrence was regarded as a matter of domestic concern for Canada.

"Consideration, however, was given to the work done or projected by both countries in their respective national sections which would serve as essential links in the development of a waterway from the head of the lakes to tidewater.

"An exchange of views took place as to the allocation of works and division of costs in the work to be done in the international section. It was stated by the representatives of both countries that they proposed to keep in touch with the respective provincial and state authorities in the consideration of the power features of the development."

American Business Men Will Organize Downstate

Organization meetings of the American Federation of Business Men, which was formed with the specific object of getting the government out of business, will be held this week in Champaign, Decatur and East St. Louis. According to B. W. Snow, one of organizers, 200 business men and farmers have agreed to get together tonight in the Champaign High school. The Decatur meeting is to be held in the Decatur club tomorrow and the one in East St. Louis is scheduled for Wednesday.

Youth Is Killed by Gas While Exploring a Mine

Herrin, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Fred Kennedy, 17 years old, was asphyxiated by black damp this afternoon while exploring a sink hole of the Fredonia mine. Miners who sought to rescue him were driven back by gas. Mine rescue men equipped with gas masks later recovered the body. Kennedy's home was in Pennsylvania. He was visiting with his aunt, Mrs. David Mohan of Cambria.

UNIFORM LAWS ON MARRIAGE, DIVORCE URGED

Constitutional Change Is Advocated.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—An amendment to the constitution of the United States which would authorize congress to pass a uniform marriage and divorce law was advocated today by Canon William Sheafe Chase, of Brooklyn, in a debate with Arthur Garfield Hays on the subject, "Ought We to Have Easier Divorce Laws?"

"Last spring," said Canon Chase, "Nevada reduced the divorce residence laws from thirteen to six weeks. She did that because Arkansas and Idaho last February and March had passed easy divorce laws, requiring only ninety days residence. Do not these laws make divorce easy enough?"

"Why does my opponent want easier laws?

Busines Motive Assigned.

"It is plain that it was a business motive which has led the politicians to vote for these easier divorce laws. Not only the lawyers but the hotels and the proprietors of various commercial interests were anxious to have the business patronage of the petitioners for divorce, during the six weeks residence in their state, as required.

"More than forty causes for absolute divorce are legal in the several states. Since what is legal in one state must be accepted as valid in every state, provided that the court granting the divorce has served the defendant with a personal service or provided he has voluntarily submitted to the jurisdiction of that court, it comes to pass that the most lax law of the most careless state, like Nevada, Idaho, and Arkansas, concerning divorce, practically becomes the law of every state.

Advocates Amendment.

"I advocate an amendment to the constitution of the United States which would authorize congress to pass a uniform marriage and divorce law, that would not compel any state which does not grant divorces for any cause to do so, nor would compel New York, which grants divorces only for the cause of adultery, to grant divorce for other cause, but would prevent Nevada, Idaho, and Arkansas from granting divorces contrary to the amendment."

"No rational argument," said Mr. Hays, for the affirmative, "has ever been advanced why the state should try to prevent two people from enjoying a new measure of happiness where their marriage has proved intolerable. If one makes a mistake in life, laws should not be used to prevent the curing of that mistake."

Rev. R. A. Kleiber, Retired Minister, Is Dead at 63

The Rev. Robert A. Kleiber, 63 years old, died yesterday in his home, 6041 Berenice avenue. He was pastor of the Zion United Brethren church, Gunnison street and Lavergne avenue, from 1917 to 1929, when he retired because of ill health. The Rev. Mr. Kleiber was born in Durlach, Baden, Germany. His widow, Mrs. Rosa Kleiber, and seven children survive. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Zion church, followed by burial in Mount Olive cemetery.

NEWBERRY GOES ON TRIAL TODAY ON RUM CHARGE

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—A federal court jury will be selected Monday to try Edward, "Ted" Newberry, alleged lieutenant of Al Capone's tribe, and twenty-eight other defendants indicted on charges of conspiracy against the United States government in liquor violations.

Shooting of Youth by Motorist Laid to Error

Morton Tully, 20 years old, 8533 South Ada street, a bookkeeper, received a flesh wound in the leg early yesterday when A. M. Doolittle, 7932 South Sangamon street, fired at him in the mistaken belief that Tully had been trying to strip his automobile of accessories. Tully said that he had been attending a party in the neighborhood. Police believe Doolittle mistook him for thieves who were working on the car a few minutes before. Doolittle was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, and Tully with disorderly conduct. Both will appear today in the Boys' court.

The Rev. H. A. James, Head of St. John's, Oxford, Dies

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Rev. H. A. James, president of St. John's college, Oxford, died today at the age of 87. He had been headmaster of three leading public schools—Rossel, Cheltenham and Rugby—headmaster elect of Clifton, for three years dean of St. Asaph's cathedral, and for twenty-two years head of St. John's. As president of the Oxford union in 1871, he started H. H. Asquith on a debating career that ended with the latter's prime ministry.

STOP BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

The recently erected monument to the memory of Brig.-Gen. James E. Stuart, veteran of three wars and for many years marshal of Chicago's Memorial day parades, was dedicated yesterday afternoon in the Forest Home cemetery with military and civilian honors.

The army men were headed by Brig.-Gen. John J. Garrity, and included the members of the Veterans corps, 2d infantry, and detachments of the 132d infantry, 33d division, who paraded before the unveiling. Miss Jewel Wickert unveiled the shaft. Judge Marcus Kavanagh and William Friedman spoke.

The Rev. Francis J. Thomas gave the invocation. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. J. A. Jenkins, rector of the church of which Gen. Stuart was a member. A male quartet from the Elmhurst college sang.

BRITISH SAILORS WIN CHANCE TO BECOME OFFICERS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 15.—From now on a sailor scrubbing the decks of a British warship may become her captain. By ways of inaugurating a new system which begins Dec. 1, under which the highest ranks in the navy will be open to men entering as ordinary sailors, the admiralty has today promoted to commissioned rank twelve able seamen.

This is only the first batch of such promotions, seamen receiving them will be treated exactly as college-trained officers and will have an opportunity of becoming admirals in command of fleets.

The admiralty has given sailors this concession to make the navy a thoroughly democratic service and remove all dissatisfaction.

HITLERITES AND REDS VICTORS IN HESSIAN ELECTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—In local elections held in the state of Hessen today 60 per cent of the voters voted for Adolf Hitler's Fascists and the communists. The Catholic Center party was nearly wiped out. The Hitlerites won 27 seats, pushing the Socialists down to second place. The latter secured only 15 seats. The communists won 10 seats.

The Hessian diet of 1927 came to a natural end after its regular four year period. The Fascists held no seats at all in the old diet.

Reds Lose in Plebiscite.

BRUNSWICK, Germany, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A plebiscite demanded by communists failed today to dissolve the Brunswick diet. Only about 12 per cent of the electorate voted in favor of dissolution, whereas a vote of at least 50 per cent was required. The communists have announced that they next would try to oust the Saxon diet by the same tactics.

REACTION FAILS TO DISCOURAGE GRAIN TRADERS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat and rye markets of the world furnished plenty of thrills for the most optimistic as well as the most pessimistic traders during the last week. The rapid upward movement of prices in Chicago that has been on for the last five weeks, with an advance of practically 25c in both wheat and rye, carried prices to a level where new buyers became timid, and those who had entered the market around the lowest level of the season sold to secure profits.

A collapse came in the closing days carrying prices of all grains down more rapidly than they had advanced, making the finish at almost the lowest of the week in the Chicago market, with net losses on wheat of 9⅝@10⅛c; corn, 5⅝@6¼c; oats, 1¼@2¼c, and rye, 7¼c@7⅞c, compared with a week ago.

A Quick Reaction.

It is seldom that a market has so large an advance and quick reaction as during the last five weeks. Starting from extreme apathy through all lines of business there has come a more favorable feeling throughout all commodity markets. While grain prices reacted sharply, the general tone remained fairly optimistic. Commodity prices are fairly low compared with recent years, despite the material reaction.

Wheat at 70c has always been considered low, and around the 60c level is believed to be too low for the best interests of the country. Leading traders predict that there should be a more orderly upward movement and at the same time express the opinion that there will be no drop to previous low level.

Wheat prices had a range of around 13c for the week, with the highest prices reached on the opening day and the lowest at the close.

News Brings Uneasiness.

Damage to foreign crops, reports of frost in Argentina where harvesting is on and advices of heavy rains there, create uneasiness among the traders, as a wet harvest in Argentina would be regarded as a most bullish factor, and should reports of frost damage be serious it would also assist in bringing about higher prices in the world's markets.

Realizing sales and sharp declines in a market that was overbought and said to be filled with stop loss orders and possessing a comparatively small short interest were leading factors in bringing about the late break. Traders who sold out early thinking the advance too rapid were inclined to reenter the market at the close. Prices have been brought down near to about an export level and there are indications of a better demand. War between China, Japan, and Russia, while considered a bullish factor, has not as yet induced wild speculative buying, neither did the advance bring out greatly increased marketings by farmers.

Canadian Estimates Raised.

Traders were greatly impressed in the closing days by the Canadian crop report increasing previous estimated 32,000,000 bu to 279,000,000 bu for the three provinces, compared with 374,000,000 bu last year, also by the increase of French crop estimates, and by Russia's unexpected exports of 2,480,000 bu as compared with 1,160,000 bu the previous week. Rains in parts of the southwest where badly needed were also effective in inducing selling, and at the same time checking new buying.

Closing prices on December wheat were 57@56⅝c, March 59¾c, May and July, 61⅞@61⅝c, the latter having lost its premium.

Corn Crop Figures Reduced.

The November estimate of the corn crop of 1,835,000,000 bu for the eleven states was 84,000,000 bu less than in October and compared with 1,548,000,000 bu as the final return last year, and 146,000,000 bu short of the five year average.

An important factor in any crop season is the location of the shortage and the surplus. In the leading eastern states there is a large excess in production this year. In the corn belt states there is a big increase over last year, and a slight reduction from the five year average.

In the southern states a materially larger corn crop was raised, but in western and southwestern states outside of Kansas, Texas, and Oklahoma there is a big shortage, indicating that section will have to buy corn later in the season. Total production for the country is estimated at 2,674,000,000 bu, compared with 2,352,000,000 bu last month and a final last year of 2,094,000,000 bu. The five year average is 2,761,000,000 bu.

Trading in corn was greatly increased and prices advanced in sympathy with wheat, but a decline at the last closed the market at only a moderate rally from the low point, with December 41⅜@41¼c, March 44⅝, May 46¼@46¾c, and July 47⅛@47⅝c. Sentiment as to the future course of prices was about evenly divided. Prices for the week follow:

Radio Corp. Wrangles with Government over Patents

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—Negotiations between the government and the Radio corporation group for a settlement out of court of the anti-trust suit brought by the department of justice some months ago are in a critical stage, but there has so far been no open rupture of conversations. From present indications the next two weeks may show whether or not an agreement is possible.

Reduced to its simplest terms, the object of discussion is to find a basis whereby the alleged monopolistic character of the Radio corporation's patent holdings and cross-licensing arrangements with General Electric, Westinghouse, and other companies can be replaced by a national open patent pool in which all radio patent owners will be invited to share.

Has Heavy Investments.

The difficulties are readily apparent when it is considered that the electrical manufacturing companies and the Radio corporation itself have invested considerable money and time in the development of radio entertainment and feel entitled to a return upon this investment. The cross-licensing arrangements were made in order to facilitate this development work. It is at the manner of cross-licensing rather than at the wealth of patents owned by the group that the federal suit is directed.

From a secondary standpoint, in showing a predilection for an open patent pool, the government's representatives in the conversations have not confined their efforts to find a basis for Radio corporation participation in such a pool. There have been discussions of this matter with numerous other radio patent owners and manufacturers. How successful the department of justice has been in these other conversations is not known here.

The present difficulties of the Radio corporation are believed by some observers to have been an unavoidable result of the shaping of its history through the year, although some critics feel that the era of compromise might well have been initiated some years before it was.

Much at Stake.

There is much at stake in the federal suit, if it does come up for trial. If adjudged guilty of violating the anti-trust laws, the Radio corporation and associated interests, under the White act, can be deprived of their wave lengths, which would halt all broadcasting and radio communications unless some means could be found to maintain operations in the national interest until some new setup could be created.

The existence of the Radio corporation, under its present organization, is not at stake, however. It has its own sales forces, research laboratories, and manufacturing plants. It would be able to obtain licenses from individual patent owners and continue operations if all existing cross-licensing agreements are canceled. Nevertheless, from every standpoint, government and corporation representatives have indicated a wish to effect a compromise rather than go through with the disturbance and serious consequences of a trial.

PICK HASTINGS AS NEW HEAD OF ILL. MFRS.' ASSN.

Samuel M. Hastings, chairman of the finance committee of the Dayton Scale company, has been nominated for president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association for 1932 by the nominating committee of the association, it was announced yesterday.

SAMUEL HASTINGS.

Mr. Hastings was president of the Dayton Scale company for twenty-five years, and assumed his present post after its merger in the International Business Machine corporation. He is a director of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, and of several other Chicago corporations.

Other officers nominated for next year are Thomas S. Hammond of the Whiting corporation, first vice president; Harvey A. J. McKay of the Mathiessen-Hegeler Zinc company, La Salle, second vice president; Paul Schulze, Paul Schulze Biscuit company, Chicago, treasurer.

DOWN TREND IN BANK CLOSINGS EVIDENT AGAIN

The continued downward trend in the rate of bank closings was again apparent last week, according to the American Banker, which this week lists but thirty-four banking institutions which closed their doors as compared with seventy-six closing reported the week before.

Since the peak of the year's bank closings, which was reached the first week in October when 166 banks went out of business, the number of failed banks has become perceptibly smaller each week. Hoarded money is returning and banking conditions are definitely reported improved.

To date there have been 1,806 banks which have failed since January 1 with approximately $1,525,000,000 in deposits tied up.

Well informed investors in increasing number are turning to telephone securities as a sound solution of present-day investment problems. They recognize the demonstrated ability of the telephone industry to maintain high earnings under present conditions.

REPORTS OVER 3 BILLION SPENT ON CONSTRUCTION

America spent approximately 3 billion 130 million dollars for new construction in the ten months of 1931, according to a nation-wide survey by the Indiana Limestone company.

"There are definite signs of economic recovery in business," says President A. E. Dickinson. "Increasing strength in the agricultural situation and in security prices have gone far toward restoring the nation's confidence. While it is estimated that construction figures for 1931 will show a decline of about 29 per cent from 1930, prospects for a revival of new building in 1932 are exceedingly bright. Residential building is expected to be notably active.

"Proposed speeding up of the government emergency program should provide work for a large number of unemployed this winter. In New York the Radio City development is the most outstanding project at the present time.

Bond Market Irregular on Quiet Trading

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Bonds reacted in spots last week. The market advanced for the eighth consecutive time last Monday, but the trend thereafter was irregularly downward.

Trading was quiet most of the time and became so dull on Wednesday that the aggregate sales on the stock exchange totaled only $8,022,000, the smallest turnover for a full session since Aug. 31, when the turnover totaled $6,635,000. Armistice day is not a holiday in New York, but its observance as such in many states and foreign countries contributed to the dullness. Sales on Saturday amounted to only $5,013,000, the lowest total for a short session since Sept. 11, when transactions amounted to $4,565,000.

Interest in U. S. Financing.

Probably the subject of most immediate interest to bond dealers is the approaching quarterly financing by the United States treasury. If the opinions of Wall street bankers and dealers serve as a guide to what sort of obligations would prove most popular, an issue of three to five year treasury notes would seem likely.

It is the general opinion that the sale of long term bonds on terms which would be advantageous to the treasury would be impossible at this time. Many dealers believe that notes maturing in three to five years, to yield about 3¼ per cent, would be acceptable to the market. This view is qualified with the expectation that no untoward developments will occur in the market before Dec. 15.

Will Provide for Deficit.

It is a common expectation that the government will attempt to offset part of the existing deficit through the sale of new issues as well as to provide for the maturity of $994,000,000 of notes and certificates due on that date. Some bond dealers go so far as to estimate the defict financing at $200,000,000, thus making the operation aggregate $1,200,000,000.

VAN SWERINGEN CORP. RETIRES $15,000,000 NOTES

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15—[AP]—The Van Sweringen corporation announced today acquisition and cancellation of $15,000,000 of its five year six per cent notes.

The major portion of the notes retired were acquired in accordance with the offer of the corporation to purchase its outstanding $1,000 notes for $500 in cash and twenty shares of corporation common stock.

The offer remains in effect until Dec. 1, but notes acquired hereafter will be purchased not by the corporation but by the Van Sweringen interests and will remain outstanding obligations of the corporation.

The Van Sweringen corporation announced its retirement offer several weeks ago upon lowering of the market value of the notes to fifty per cent or less of their par value.

Finance Company Heads to Meet Here Tomorrow

Three hundred finance company executives from all sections of the United States will meet at the Congress hotel tomorrow and Wednesday to discuss ways and means of employing their facilities to restore normal retail buying and open the door for business prosperity. The meeting is the annual convention of the National Association of Finance Companies, an organization which in the past has confined its activities largely to the purchase of automobile instalment paper.

COMMODITY PRICES ON N. Y. MARTS REFLECT SLUMP IN WHEAT HERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—Commodity prices on the various New York exchanges were mostly lower last week, reflecting the weakness in wheat and other grains on the Chicago Board of Trade. Sugar futures were 3 to 6 points net lower and coffee contracts were off 33 to 38 points. Cocoa prices declined almost ½ cent a pound despite the fact that public interest in cocoa is now said to be the highest in the last two years. Hides were 43 to 61 points net lower, while rubber closed the period with a decline of 34 to 46 points. Wool tops, however, resisted the reactionary trend and closed the week virtually unchanged.

The market for raw sugar continued slow, with producers and refiners apparently deadlocked. The British Board of Trade reported stocks of raw sugar in Great Britain of only 109,000 tons, not including home grown beets, which is the lowest figure in years. Despite these low stocks, the sale of between 25,000 and 50,000 tons of British refined sugar for export to India and South Africa was reported at about 1.27 to 1.30 cents f. o. b. British ports. The trade in this country was puzzled by these reports.

The coffee markets, both actuals and futures, were slow last week. The outstanding bearish feature was the continued mild weather throughout the country.

The two important bearish influences in the cocoa market were liquidation by speculative interests who were frightened by the weakness in the other markets and the steady hedge selling which came into the market from West Africa and Brazil. The Brazilian crop has definitely started to move to consuming markets. On Friday there were 117,000 bags of cocoa afloat to this country. Only 16,400 bags were afloat from West Africa, but cables from the United States department of commerce's representative there reported that cocoa was being marketed more freely by the native farmers.

FINDS REACTION NORMAL PHASE OF RAPID RALLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—Last week's downward reaction of prices on the grain and the bond markets was a normal incident in so rapid a recovery. The halt in the upward movement may be said to have gratified and perhaps relieved people familiar with the machinery of finance. An advance of 23 cents in wheat within five weeks was not unprecedented in that market's history, but the fact that the percentage rise from the low October price had been 50 per cent was more unusual.

The danger in a long continued rise at such a pace is that foreign wheat markets will not match it and that, as a consequence, importing countries will not buy from the United States, but from other producers, such as Argentina or Russia, whose prices are relatively more inviting to consumers. Exactly this has happened, even in past years when the longer trend of prices was toward a much higher level.

Paramount Influence.

The low price of wheat and the low price of investment bonds had been the paramount influence in promoting financial despair before October. But the rise in bond prices—even though, like the rise in wheat, it began from an absurdly low level of valuations—was also properly limited in its immediate scope. The fact that

METAL MARKETS AWAIT MOVE BY AUTO INDUSTRY

Report Railroads Delay Purchases Until 1932.

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Trade expectations for a moderate expansion in steel activity during the remainder of the year were encouraged last week by another slight gain in the rate of ingot production for the third consecutive week.

Reflecting accumulating needs orders increased for some lines of finished steel, agricultural implements and miscellaneous products and further improvement is expected in specifications from the automobile industry for new models. Buyers generally, however, are still cautious and railroads are said to be delaying purchases until 1932. Ingot production is now estimated at 31 per cent of capacity. Although some improvement in inquiry for pig iron developed the market is generally quiet and steady.

Copper Marks Time.

Copper continued to mark time pending the outcome of the conference of world producers. Export demand, which had been active on expectations of a curtailment agreement, tapered off, while domestic buying was restricted at 7 cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley. October statistics were not issued at the usual time and there is some uncertainty when or whether they will be published.

Irregular fluctuations in tin within a narrow range continued to reflect changes in sterling and the London market. Consumer buying is still said to be below the recent rate of consumption.

Lead advanced on a more active demand from both large and small consumers for immediate and nearby delivery. Buying slackened somewhat at the close of the week after users had satisfied their more pressing requirements, but the undertone was steady.

Zinc Inquiry Moderate.

Although buying and inquiry for zinc has been only moderate, the market advanced on restricted offerings promoted partly by expectations of a higher ore market. Excess stocks are said to be chiefly held by larger companies who are reluctant to sell.

Antimony was generally higher, promoted by early firmness of silver but later easiness of that metal and reports of larger Chinese shipments accounted for an easier undertone at the close of the week.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

Upper Michigan—Showers Monday and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

Iowa—Increasing cloudiness Monday, possibly showers in northwest and extreme north portion; continued mild; showers Tuesday, colder in extreme west portion.

Minnesota—Rain in south and rain or snow in north portion Monday, colder except in extreme southeast portion; Tuesday, rain in south and rain or snow in north portion, warmer in east and north portions.

Simmons.

Would you kindly give me your opinion of and all the information you can on Simmons company? I am deeply interested.—M. E. M.

Simmons company was incorporated in 1915, the outgrowth of a business originally established in 1876. The company has built up a prominent position as a manufacturer of metal beds, couches, and bed springs. In 1929 it undertook an expansion program. Control of textile concerns was acquired. The company took over Berkey & Gay, manufacturer of high grade furniture, and B. F. Huntley Furniture company, manufacturer of medium priced furniture. Due to reduced buying power and overproduction and distress selling in its field these additions proved unprofitable. On Aug. 12, 1931, it was announced that the company had written off its investments in Berkey & Gay.

The year 1930 was the worst in the company's history. Net loss was $1,195,550. Decrease in surplus, after dividends of $1,684,642, was $7,343,357. The parent company alone operated at a profit of $1,600,000 after all charges. Losses of subsidiaries were responsible for unfavorable results. For 1929 net income was $4,626,561, or $4.15 per common share.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $20,747,792 and current liabilities were $2,228,659. Cash and marketable securities were more than $6,700,000. Working capital was $18,519,135, against $24,816,232 the year before. Consolidated funded debt was $21,627,717. There were outstanding 1,133,236 shares of no par common.

Texas-Louisiana Power.

Will you kindly give me such data as you have regarding Texas-Louisiana Power company debenture 6s?—G. W. W.

Texas-Louisiana Power company, a subsidiary of General Water Works and Electric corporation, furnishes electric light and power, gas and ice to 226 communities in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Kentucky, New Mexico, and Arizona. Over 85 per cent of operations are conducted in Texas.

Total operating revenues in 1930 were $3,888,510. Fixed charges were earned 1.12 times. In 1929 operating revenues totaled $3,832,108. Total income, available for interest, was $1,832,219. Interest charges, amortization, and subsidiary preferred dividends were $1,068,428.

The debenture 6s, series A, due to March 1, 1942, are more a speculation than an investment.

INGOT PRODUCTION AT 29% OF CAPACITY EQUALS RATE OF 1905

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Nov. 15.—Steel ingot production has been approximately stationary in the last two weeks at a rate of about 19,500,000 tons a year, or 29 per cent of capacity at the last ascertainment, made nearly a year ago.

There is a gain of about 15 per cent over the low rate of the year, some 17,500,000 tons, struck in the week ended on Oct. 24. About 25,000,000 tons appear now to be promised for the calendar year, against 39,595,268 tons last year and 54,850,433 tons in the record year, 1929. In 1905 the total was just equal to the present rate.

According to official reports, steel ingot production decreased only from 28.02 per cent of capacity in September to 27.76 per cent in October following a half year's decreases by 3 points or more each month.

The recent upward trend is unusual and unseasonal, but it is not unprecedented, for 1924 had successive monthly increases after July and 1922, when the depression was ending, had successive monthly increases after August, which had been made the low month of the year by the bituminous coal strike.

The recent increase in production has been due largely to releases on old rail and fabricated structural steel contracts and thus is not out of line with the United States Steel corporation's report for October of a decrease of 25,401 tons in unfilled obligations, for the total tonnage reported includes long term contracts.

In each of the last seven years, October showed an increase of unfilled tonnage, largely or wholly on account of annual rail buying.

Associated Gas Reports Electrical Output Gain

For the week ended Nov. 7, Associated Gas and Electric system reports electric output totaling 63,678,110 units (kwh), an increase of 2.6 per cent over the same week of last year. Excluding sales to other utilities, electric output was 5.1 per cent below that of the same week last year. Gas output for the week was 349,569,800 cubic feet, or 7.8 per cent below the corresponding week of 1930.

Columbia Gas Earns $1.52 a Share in Twelve Months

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—The Columbia Gas and Electric company for the year ended Sept. 30 reports net income after all charges, taxes and depreciation, $23,591,672, equal after preferred dividends, to $1.52 a share earned on common stock outstanding at end of the period, against $28,667,173, or $1.95 a share the year before.

Anthracite Shipments Below October Last Year

Shipments of anthracite for the month of October, as reported to the Anthracite Bureau of Information amounted to 5,194,968 gross tons. This is an increase as compared with shipments during the preceding month of September of 1,822,042 tons and when compared with October, 1930, shows a decrease of 982,883 tons.

British Type Investors Stockholders Increase

Stockholders of British Type Investors, a general management investment trust, increased more than 11½ per cent to a new high record during the past three months, according to announcement made by Edward V. Otis, president. On Oct. 31, British Type had 22,855 stockholders.

SEE PROFITS FOR STEEL INDUSTRY AT 45% CAPACITY

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15.—(AP)—After nine of the leanest months in the history during which profits averaged 87-100 of 1 per cent and production 41 per cent, the steel industry is in fighting trim in the matter of costs, says the magazine Steel this week.

Not even the most sanguine steel executives entertain any illusions of a genuinely profitable era immediately at hand, it says, but with the application of lower wage rates and other economies, it is estimated that when the industry crosses the line of 45 to 50 per cent capacity production, it will again make money.

Profits vanished for the industry as a whole somewhere near the turn of the last quarter of 1930, when production ranged between 50 and 58 per cent. But profits now are believed possible at 45 per cent.

Last week the operating rate compiled by Steel was 31 per cent. It has not been so high as 45 per cent since the second week in May.

Of eight leading steel producers representing 51,000,000 of the 66,000,000 tons of steel making capacity in the country, only five returned anything on capitalization of $3,837,376,000 in the first three-quarters of 1931. On this capitalization the eight earned $33,365,495 in nine months this year, as compared with $178,779,524 in all 1930.

National Steel leads all producers for the first three-quarters of 1931 with an estimated earning of 3.2 per cent; Inland is second with 1.55; Bethlehem third with 1.11; U. S. Steel fourth with 1.01, and Youngstown fifth with .54. Republic, Jones & Laughlin, and American Rolling Mill reported deficits.

Indications are that there will be another fractional gain in operations this week, the magazine says.

The increase in production has been made without substantial assistance from the automotive industry, delay by Ford and Chevrolet in pushing new models causing other manufacturers to hesitate. The gain, despite lack of such assistance has convinced producers late November will see production established at a higher rate.

CONSUMPTION OF CRUDE RUBBER DIPS IN OCTOBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—Diminished activities of rubber manufacturers were reflected in a decline of 5.8 per cent in consumption of crude rubber during October. The Rubber Manufacturers' association estimates the total at 32,277 long tons. That compares with 23,638 tons consumed during September and 27,516 tons consumed during October, 1930. The decrease from September figures is somewhat larger than a seasonal average of 3 per cent.

Imports of crude rubber last month amounted to 41,395 tons. That was 2.2 per cent more than the September imports of 40,505 tons, but was 5.3 per cent less than the imports during October, 1930, amounting to 43,729 tons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 15.—The gold position continues to be the main topic in South Africa and opinions on the status of the gold standard the union government is maintaining are diverse. Bankers think it is not being fully maintained, but the cabinet insists it intends to adhere solidly to its original position of maintaining the gold standard. Minister of Finance Havenga declares that the cabinet will utilize every means at the government's disposal to prevent South Africa from being forced off the gold standard as Great Britain has been.

The commercial community continues to find that the telegraphic transfer rates, which are being published daily by the reserve bank, are largely a matter of form, since no actual direct exchange is possible, and that direct exchange to America is becoming increasingly difficult.

Facts Are at a Premium

Fact No. 1

Fact No. 2

Fact No. 3

FINDS REACTION NORMAL PHASE OF RAPID RALLY

"market averages" should have risen in a month 3¼ points for domestic bonds and 6¼ for foreign securities, and should have fallen back fractionally from the highest, does not quite tell the story. There are domestic bonds which rose 9 to 15 points in the recent recovery. Among foreign bonds there were such advances as 14 points in German republic loans and 35 in Argentina.

It is true that the present year's decline, before October's upturn, had been 50 to 60 points in the foreign bonds referred to and 14 to 40 in the domestic bonds. Many of them had fallen to prices which would not have been warranted even by default on the foreign securities and by receivership for the home companies. At the worst, the imagined foreign suspension of interest payments [which had not occurred] would have been only a "moratorium," and the imagined home insolvency only a transition period before reorganization into solvency.

Case Is Altered.

The case is obviously somewhat altered by the emphatic recovery in prices, and the prospects for indefinitely continued payment of interest may play a more reasonable part. Presumably, this is why the rise in bond prices has slackened—although, except where recovery had been exceptionally violent, they have not lost much of the advance.

They are likely to move hereafter in the light of the news regarding the German negotiations, the condition of other governments and the further plans to protect our own weaker railways. At the moment the situation in those respects can be judged only by the course of financial events at Berlin or other foreign cities and by the earnings on American railways, but with conclusions drawn from either quarter always modified by the disposition of governments and banks regarding provision of the requisite emergency relief.

Matter for Judgment.

To many reasonably clear headed observers it has appeared that circumstances render it wholly impossible that either our railways or such foreign debtor governments as Germany should be allowed to default upon their payments. But this is a matter for careful judgment. It is evident enough that, if a favorable solution of these problems were to be discovered and applied, on top of the return to sane appraisal of intrinsic values, the present abnormally low money rates should assert their customary influence on fixed interest investments.

In all such questions of future movement on the markets signs of improving trade and industry would necessarily play an important part. In that field it must be remembered that we have to do with surrounding circumstances, not in America alone, but in Europe and the rest of the outside world. Industrial revival, to be sure, had returned in full force to Europe after 1920 before it had touched America, and to America after 1921 before it had touched Europe.

Price Advances Delay.

Even in 1921 when the turn of financial markets came in the middle of that year the change in the course of staple prices followed only in the ensuing February and the rise of steel production and railway earnings over the previous year's results only in March of 1922. But long before these distinctive landmarks of recovery came into sight there were indications enough on that occasion, as on all previous occasions of the kind, to show which way the industrial tide was moving.

STOCKS ON CURB MARKET LOWER ON LIGHT SALES

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The curb market was in reserve most of last week, back tracking the ground gained on the last rally.

Volume of offerings was light, however, and the reaction was termed technical by traders. Mining shares offered some resistance although they lost their early gains in most instances. Utilities were active and generally lower. Electric Bond and Share selling below 20. Oils declined, perhaps because speculative circles were disappointed by the halt in the advance of crude prices.

The market had several air pockets, chiefly in inactive stocks. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, for example, dropped 45 points to 135 on the first transaction in some time. Cities Service Company prefered broke nearly 10 and New England Public Service 6 per cent prior lien preferred suffered a sharp reaction from the last previous quotation.

Metal issues were led by Bunker Hill and Sullivan, which jumped more than half a dozen points. Newmont and New Jersey Zinc advanced while the rise was going up, only to sag as grains declined. Motor shares were rather firm.

Goldman Sachs had a sudden spurt of activity on the strength of a rumor that the company was to merge with Atlas Utility, but the prompt denial of the report sent the stock back to its starting point. Blue Ridge prefered attracted some buying, but United Founders was heavy.

Offer $60,000,000 Issue of U. S. Treasury Bills

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today announced that the treasury would sell $60,000,000 in 93 day treasury bills to the highest bidder on Nov. 20. The sale, which is the usual weekly turnover, will provide funds for retiring $60,000,000 in bills which come due on Nov. 23. The bills will be sold to the highest bidder and redeemed Feb. 24 at face value.

FUR EXHIBITION.

The annual exhibition of fur bearing animals to be held in Vancouver in conjunction with the British Columbia Winter fair from Nov. 30 to Dec. 3, will include a number of outstanding specimens, according to officials of the B. C. Fox and Fur Farmers' association. Fox, mink, marten, raccoon, fisher, and other fur bearing animals will be shown.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

MEN.

We are looking for some high grade men to act as distributors on a direct factory branch plan, by a large manufacturer rated in the millions. We will supply stock and train the men we choose to do the job successfully, in fact, set them up in a business that a lot of men are making good money in. You don't have to invest any money or put up any security, but you must have a record of being a worker and able to give good character references. Men living outside of Chicago will have to come here for a couple of days training, then one of our successful representatives will go back to your respective town or city and work with you a few days in order to get you started successfully in this business and making money. These are permanent connections and offer a fine future to the right type of men.

Can use men for the following towns and counties or men living near these towns and counties: Chicago, Evanston, Oak Park, Gary, Elgin, Joliet, McHenry, Kane, Kendall, La Salle, Grundy, Livingston, Kankakee, Aurora Michigan City, Wheaton, Blue Island, Waukegan, Glenview, Crystal Lake, Kendall, Ottawa, Pontiac, Will, and La Porte.

Ask for Mr. Smith, Mather Tower Mez., 10th floor, 75 E. Wacker-dr., Chicago. Call 9 to 12 and 1 to 4.

A Worthwhile Position

We need 3 men—old enough to possess good judgment and serious in their desire to secure a permanent position. Must be the association of only well groomed, aggressive individuals who enjoy doing profitable work that needs a little thinking and who can fit into a dynamic organization. Apply in person after 10 a. m. Rm. 2230, 30 La Salle.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:

Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you keep the money.
